Easter Influx Begins, With Many Lured By Blossoms

150,000 Expected By Weekend's Close; 'Bonnet' Weather Forecast for Sunday

With the cherry blossoms as a lure, Washington yesterday began to welcome Easter guests—expected to multiply into 150,000 by the weekend's close.

Clarence A. Arata of the Board of Trade's Greater National Capital Committee, who made the estimate, said holiday throngs will at least equal last year's—described as the largest since the same time in 1939.

And the weatherman, anxious to play along with the flood of tourists, promised that showers this morning and clouds later today will somersault into "fair and cooler" for Sunday. The temperature, he predicted, will be just perfect for new spring bonnets, suits and coats.

Thousands Leaving

But the movement was hardly all inward.

Train, bus and airlines officials estimated that additional thousands were heading out of the city—perhaps as great a number as those coming in.

Union Station attaches looked for 300,000 in and out of the terminal over the weekend. Sidney Kerl, superintendent, expected the crowds to divide up "50-50" in each direction.

"The cherry blossoms will bring a lot of people in," he said.

Airlines officials reported the Washington National Airport was jammed yesterday and a spokesman for United Airlines announced that "everything we have is booked solidly." Both Eastern and Capitol Airlines reported they had scheduled extra flights.

Bus Business "Good"

An official of the Greyhound Bus Terminal said "business has been good both ways."

The holiday mood pervaded the city, and especially scores of its business establishments.

Art Masterpieces Tell Easter Story In Sunday's Post

Five incomparable religious paintings depicting the Easter story will be pictured as a special feature Sunday in The Washington Post. Included will be "Resurrection of Christ" by Bellini, "Via-crucis" by Tiepolo. "The Crucifixion" by Campin, "Joys and Sorrows of Mary" by van der Weyden, and "Burial of Christ" by Carpacchio.

The paintings are part of the exhibit of priceless Berlin art which over 100,000 visitors have viewed since it was placed on display March 17 in the National Gallery of Art.

2 Roosevelt Sons Indorse Eisenhower

Franklin and Elliott Also Come Out Against Candidacy of Wallace

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Reporter

Two sons of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt yesterday got behind the movement to draft Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for the Democratic nomination for President.

They thus joined in what is being called the dump-Truman campaign. It looked as if they would soon be followed by a number of New Dealers in Americans for Democratic Action.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, jr., speaking as "an individual, a veteran and a citizen," said General Eisenhower was the American best qualified to deal with Soviet Russia in these critical times. He said he hadn't talked to Ike since 1943, but he felt that the famous soldier would "answer the call of duty with patriotism."

Elliott Roosevelt, in a separate statement, said Ike was not only the man best qualified to win the peace, but the one most likely to unite liberals and conservatives under the Democratic banner.

Both Roosevelts criticized Henry Wallace and his third-party cohorts, saying that the Iowan in no way exemplified the ideals and objectives of their father.

Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Boettiger, publisher of a newspaper in Phoenix, Ariz., expressed surprise when told about the action of her brothers, Franklin, jr., and Elliott.

James Roosevelt, the late President's eldest son, replied with a "No comment" when interviewed in Los Angeles. He is chairman of the California Central Democratic Committee.

No word came from Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt.

ADA to Decide April 10

Leon Henderson, one of the best known of the New Dealers and now chairman of the Americans for Democratic Action organization, called a meeting of the ADA executive committee for April 10 in Pittsburgh. The committee will be expected to indorse a candidate for President.

Almost certainly it will not indorse President Truman. If it follows the lead of some ADA chapters, it will throw its support to General Eisenhower.

Friends of General Ike insisted that he was not available—that he was more determined to stay out of politics now than he was at the time he uttered his resounding "No" in late February.

Tornadoes Rip Midwest Area, Kill 23 in Day

Chicago, March 26 (AP).—A series of spring tornadoes tonight had brought death to at least 23 persons in 24 hours in Oklahoma, Arkansas, Missouri, Illinois and Indiana.

The storms boosted to 79 dead and a nearly 800 injured in weather casualties across the Nation in the past week.

The latest of the tornadoes was reported to have killed at least eight persons in central Indiana last night. Indiana State police said seven were dead at Coatesville, 30 miles west of Indianapolis. Several were injured and the town was severely damaged.

Danville Hard Hit

One person was killed and two others injured southeast of Brazil, Ind. Danville was reported hard hit, but without casualties. Part of Indianapolis was blacked out by power failure. A section on the south side of Terre Haute suffered storm damage.

Earlier this afternoon, a tornado ripped through rural areas in eastern Missouri and southern Illinois, narrowly missing the St. Louis metropolitan area.

At Smart Field, a former naval air base 14 miles north of St. Charles, Mo., the administration building and a hanger were destroyed. Four men were reported injured.

The twister struck again 10 miles north of Alton. It destroyed three houses and damaged several others, but no injuries were reported.

Hail at Grafton

High winds swept the Jerseyville, Ill., area and a hail storm caused extensive damage at Grafton, Ill.

The storms boosted to 71 dead and nearly 800 injured in weather casulties across the Nation in the past week.

Last night's storms swept across Oklahoma and Arkansas, killing 13 and injuring 60.

The storm last night first hit Tinker Army air base, near Oklahoma City. It wrecked 35 planes and damaged 49 others.

The storm hit farm communities near Wetumka, Okla., Eufaula, Boynton, Checotah and Salisaw.

At least 12 towns in North Dakota, South Dakota and Nebraska were without long distance telephone service last night because of wind, snow and sleet.

A freak twister hit Birmingham, Ala., demolishing three buildings and causing damage in a six-block area. No injuries were reported.

Lewis Absent As Coal Probe Hears Owners

Telegram Hints Plan To Fight Emergency Provisions in Taft Act

By Alfred Friendly
Post Reporter

Mine operators told their side of the coal strike story to a Federal board of inquiry yesterday, but John L. Lewis failed to appear.

The mine union leader had been summoned by the three-man presidential board, but he wired them that he would not know before Monday whether he would attend because "a definitive study is being given to the legal questions involved."

He added, "Sometime Monday this office hopes to be able to be further advised on the important questions at issue."

This was a distinct hint that he might contest the entire procedure to settle the strike under the national emergency provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act. There was speculation that he might argue that the present stoppage is not a strike, and that therefore the labor law provisions cannot be applied to it.

The board of inquiry has power to subpena witnesses. Its chairman, Federal Circuit Judge Sherman Minton, said yesterday, before hearing from Lewis, that he would use that power.

After the hearings yesterday, Minton recessed proceedings until 2 p.m. Monday. If Lewis does not appear at that time, a subpena will probably be forthcoming. If Lewis ignores it, the board has

Early Veto Of Tax Cut Is Predicted

White House Said To Hold Slight Hope Congress Will Vote To Sustain Decision

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

President Truman last night was reported ready to fire his tax-cut veto back at Congress early next week, instead of waiting out the 10 days the law allows.

One usually well-informed Administration source said the veto message is tentatively scheduled for Tuesday or Wednesday. He said only unexpected delays in drafting the message would hold it up longer.

Overrider Expected

The decision on a quick veto was regarded as tacit recognition by the White House that the veto will be overridden. Some had figured on a delay for the purpose of building up overriding sentiment.

So far as the Senate is concerned, it was learned that the White House has been advised that there is no reasonable possibility of cutting back the 7 to 1 margin for the bill to the less than 2 to 1 required to sustain a veto.

In the House, where the margin was only 4 to 1, there has been more talk of vote-switching in recognition of the world emergency, particularly among Southern Democrats. But even there, Administration leaders have practically given up hope of wiping out the 51-vote veto-overriding margin.

"No Weakening" In Senate

Predicting the 4.8-billion-dollar individual cut will become law, Senate Finance Chairman Eugene D. Millikin (R., Colo.) meanwhile told reporters there has been no "weakening" in Senate support since defense chiefs recommended three to four billion dollars additional for preparedness.

Millikin said the estimated 5½ to 7½-billion-dollar surplus in 1949 is more than sufficient to absorb any presently recommended increases in defense, with a balance left over for a payment on the debt. If the world situation worsens, and defense needs mount, he said Congress always has the recourse of increasing taxes again, but on a new and "more equal" base.

The President in his veto message is expected to repeat his previous arguments against a tax cut while incomes are high but point up our commitments in the present world situation. Treasury complaints that the bill presents unprecedented administrative difficulties may be incorporated in the message.

Art Exhibit Sets Another Record

Another attendance record fell at the National Gallery of Art yesterday as 14,308 persons—largest weekday crowd—turned out to view the special exhibit of 202 German-owned art masterpieces.

To date, 136,351 persons have visited the gallery since the exhibit opened on March 17, and gallery officials expect record crowds this weekend. Exhibit hours are 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. on weekdays, 2 p. m. to 10 p. m. on Sundays until April 18.

New Magnetic Fluid Clutch May Be Big Aid to Industry

By Sam Stavisky
Post Reporter

A Government scientist has developed a new-type clutch which holds promise of revolutionary applicatio, nto industrial machinery and military weapons.

The new "magnetic fluid clutch" features high efficiency, long life, smooth operation and simplicity in construction, according to the National Bureau of Standards.

Bureau officials pointed out that the most obvious application is for automobiles. They added, however, that the new mechanism would have more far-reaching effect in other industrial fields.

A clutch is a device for coupling and uncoupling a driving element (like the motor of an auto) with the driven element (like the wheels of the auto.

The new clutch is made by attach magnetic plates to the facing ends of the driving and driven shafts, packing the space between with oil, and suspending millions of minute iron particles in the oil. When an electric current is sent through the plates, they become magnetized, set up a magnetic field between them, thereby also magnetizing theiron particles.

On becoming magnetized, the particles do a strange hting. They shap into chainlike formations between the magnetic plates, and hold the shafts together as tightly as if they were strong steel clamps.

When the electric current is turned off, the iron dust becomes demagnetized, the particles fall out of chain formation, and the oil resumes its normal fluid state.

Autos nowadays use two types

2120 Units a New High

$5–10% Rent Boosts Sought For McLean Gardens Flats

Higher rents were asked by owners yesterday for 2120 units of the huge McLean Gardens housing development at Wisconsin ave. and Porter st. nw., the Rent Control Administration announced.

The petition, filed by Attorney John J. Wilson for the Fairmac Corp., seeks a $5-a-month rise for 1300 rooms and a straight 10 per cent hike for 720 apartments.

William F. Mansfield, rent control secretary-docket clerk, said he believed the petition was the largest ever filed here.

Completed in 1943 as a part of a Federal wartime housing program, the development was sold to the Fairmac Corp. last October.

Wilson said the owners need the increase because rental rates "inherited" from Government operation are lower than those for comparable housing elsewhere in the city. Higher operating costs, taxes and water rent also were cited.

Current rents for "dormitory" rooms range from $34.50 to $43.50, Wilson said. One-room "efficiency" apartments now range from $60 to $61.50; apartments with one bedroom from $72.50 to $75; those with two bedrooms from $85 to $87.50, he stated.

Miss Harriet Barney, secretary to the development's general manager, said rent covers all utilities.

Military Can Ban Goods Shipments Past Iron Curtain, Harriman Reveals

By Marshall Andrews
Post Reporter

Exports to Russia and its satelites have been subject to military veto since March 1, Commerce Secretary Harriman revealed yesterday.

He told a news conference export policy since that date has been made by a subcommittee of his department's inter-agency advisory committee which includes representatives of the national military establishment. Its purpose, he indicated, was to prevent industrial materials "that would contribute directly to the war potential" of Red countries from reaching them.

Earlier yesterday President Truman placed all American-made aircraft, engines and parts, civil as well as military, under State Department export control by classing them as munitions. Also on his list were small arms and ammunition, radar and radar equipment, bombs, naval vessels, fire control equipment and poison gases.

Applies to All Countries

These items had been under control of the Commerce Department which has required licenses for shipments to Europe since March 1. Before then, only items in short supply were licensed by the Commerce Department.

State Department control applies to all parts of the world, not only to Europe. It was placed on aircraft and engines yesterday under a 1939 law which empowers the President to proclaim articles "which shall be considered arms, ammunition and implements of war."

Harriman's statement and Mr. Truman's proclamation climaxed a wave of reaction which followed revelation before a House subcommittee this week that surplus war materials had been sold to Russia in recent months. Witnesses specifically referred to shipments of aircraft engines and parts and to crates marked for Russia which "littered" the New York waterfront.

Finland Deal Held Up

Yesterday saw these additional developments:

1. The War Assets Administration held up for 30 days a high bid from Finland for 46 unused steam locomotives, opened in New York. Finland currently appears almost certain to be swept into the Soviet orbit.

2. Chairman Rizley (R., Okla.) of a subcommittee of the House Expenditures Committee promised an early and full investigation into possible disappearance "behind the iron curtain" of huge surpluses abroad. He said he had asked the Foreign Liquidation Commission for an accounting of distribution and present location of surplus war materials sold abroad to foreign countries.

3. The National Machine Tool Builders Association at Cleveland urged the State Department not to approve orders for tools which "may be used to our national disadvantage."

Not a Trade Embargo

Harriman told his news conference the Commerce Department had not placed an embargo on all trade with Russia. Russia exports certain materials greatly needed

$431,484,000 in Goods Sent to Eastern Europe

The United States shipped $431,483,000 worth of goods to eastern Europe—Russia, Finland and 10 countries in the Soviet bloc—last year, the Commerce Department reported yesterday.

That was nearly one-tenth as much as the $4,840,100,000 that went to the 16 western Europe Marshall Plan countries. United States exports to all foreign countries totaled $14,474,900,000.

Finn Cabinet Meets to Study Stalin's Terms

Helsinki, Finland, March 26 (U.P.). The cabinet was called into session at 4 p. m. today and, according to reliable sources, it considered the draft of a Russian proposal for a friendship and mutual aid pact presented to the Finnish delegation in Moscow yesterday.

Informants said those who studied the full text regarded the situation as quite serious from the viewpoint of those who oppose a binding military treaty with Russia.

The cabinet remained in session for more than three hours. Government spokesmen refused comment on the meeting.

U. S. Charges Russia Blocks German Unity

Note Also Declares Rights Are Denied Eastern Europeans

The United States charged yesterday that Russia is solely responsible for the continued economic and political division of Germany.

It also accused the Soviet Union of denying "basic human rights" to the people of eastern Europe, and asserted that "concentration camps are being used anew for individuals unwilling to accept this new totalitarianism."

The charges were made by the State Department in a note rejecting Russia's claim that the United States, Britain and France violated the Potsdam agreement in merging their occupaion zones of Germany.

The note was signed by Asistant Secretary Norman Armour. It was handed to Soviet Ambassador Alexander S. Panyushkin at the embassy Thursday but not made public until yesterday.

Old and New Allegations

It renewed this Government's declaration that Russia and her satellites in eastern Europe have disrupted reconstruction on the continent and lodged new allegations as well. These include:

1. Russia "has failed" to live up to the provisions of the Potsdam agreement providing for economic unification of Germany and equitable distribution of essential commodities between the four zones.

2. Russia "has carried out reparation removals of industrial capital equipment from the eastern zone without regard to agreed limitations on such removals and without consideration of the legitimate peacetime requirements of the German economy."

3. Russia "has continuously taken reparations from eastern Germany in the form of German resources and current production contrary to the Potsdam accord.

4. "Under the guise of reparations," Russia has taken possession of gigantic trusts and major industrial establishments in eastern Germany accounting for 25 to 30

Comes In On 3 Engines

Airliner Lands Safely Here After Propeller Blade Flies Off

An Eastern Airlines Constellation landed at National Airport Thursday night with one propeller blade gone and another engine damaged, it was learned yesterday.

The transport was under close inspection by the Civil Aeronautics Administration and by representatives of the engine and propeller manufacturers here yesterday.

Carrying a reported 59 persons, the plane yas north of Langley, Va., when the blade came off at the hub and sliced into the cowling and oil filters of a second engine.

With three engines still operating, the Miami-to-Boston transport made routine landing here.

Reports credited a third crew member with spotting the crippled engine almost at the time the blade flew off and preventing the vibration from tearing the engine loose.

On landing here, the transport was put in a hangar. CAA inspection officials, notified of the trouble by radio, were on the scene when it landed.

It was the second failure of the kind in recent months. Another Eastern Constellation lost part of a propeller blade while off the Florida Coast, on February 9. The fragment cut through the forward part of the plane's hull, killing a steward. The plane was flown to a safe landing with two engines.

Red Cross Drive 14 Pct. Under Goal With 3 Days Left

Lagging 12 per cent behind last year, the area Red Cross drive for $1,080,000 yesterday chalked up 86.3 per cent of quota. It's due to end Tuesday.

Campaign Director Randolph G. Bishop, at the next-to-the-last scheduled report luncheon, in the Chamber of Commerce Building, warned volunteer workers that "we have a tremendous job to do between now and Tuesday."

He said, however, that "it can be done . . . if we go out after it." Bishop pointed out that the intake was still 90,000 gifts short of the total received last year.

Principal speaker at the Dutch-treat luncheon, attended by more than 100 and honoring newspaper and radio executives as well as the campaign public relations section, was Maj. Gen. Carl Gray, administrator of Veterans Affairs.

Collections totaled $931,218.33, with the following breakdown by division: Government, 83.29 per cent of the $494,000 quota; General Business, 82.80 per cent, $315,100 quota; Residential, 116.06 per cent, $84,000 quota; City, 81.20 per cent, $54,000 quota; Alexandria, 87.79 per cent, $19,900 quota; Arlington, 76.79 per cent, $24,150 quota; Fairfax, 61.53 per cent, $15,000 quota; Montgomery, 67.26 per cent, $38,000 quota; Prince Georges, 59.37 per cent, $18,900 quota; Booths, 30.88 per cent, $16,950 quota.

Trieste Council Split Threatened

On Condition

Russia Says It Will Back Berlin Setup

By Marguerite Higgins

Berlin, March 26 (NYHT).—The Russians indicated today they would back down and return to the Allied Control Council—the four-power supreme government of Germany—whose functioning they halted by walking out of a session last Saturday. But they indicated also they would end the Council permanently if the Western Allies proceeded with their alleged plan for a separate government of western Germany.

Since the Western Allies are not likely to heed this apparent threat, it seems probable a Russian return to the council will prolong its life for a short period—probably until the question of German currency reform is settled.

The Russians did not say what they intended to do to end the deadlock among the four allies which has kept four-power administration at a standstill for almost a week. They did not bring up the matter at the meeting held today by the Allied secretariat. The next meeting of the council would take place next Tuesday.

The Russians, who hold the chairmanship this month and have authority to call Council meetings, can leave the matter in the air until the last moment.

Officials of the Western Allies were inclined to believe the firm stand taken by Gen. Lucius D. Clay, American military governor, and the State Department at Washington might have decided the Russians to postpone a final East-West break until they had time to think things over.

Today's Soviet announcement was made in an interview with Lieut. Gen. G. S. Lukjantschenko, Soviet occupation chief of staff, in the Soviet-licensed German press.

He was asked: "Does the situation created at the March 20 meeting of the Control Council mean complete suspension of the activities of quadripartite control groups in Germany?"

He replied: "So long as the Control Council is still in a position to contribute to the earliest implementation of the Potsdam agreement, the Soviet members will support the Control Council and its committees in every possible way."

Further Yugoslav Participation in It Is Left in Doubt

Trieste, March 26 (AP).—The Yugoslavs have cast uncertainty on the holding of any further joint administrative meetings with their British-American colleagues in Trieste, it was learned today.

The action paralleled the lapse in activities of the Allied Control Council in Berlin, from which Soviet administrators walked out last Saturday.

It remained to be seen whether there is a complete break or a temporary suspension during the tension over the British-American-French proposal to return all Trieste free state territory to Italy.

Yesterday Yugoslav and British-American officials held their regular meeting at Capodistria in the Yugoslav zone.

The Yugoslav administrators explained that many of their officials were on vacation, that they were not prepared to set a date for the next meeting and that they would telephone the Anglo-Americans when they were ready.

[The United Press said Italians started a campaign today to keep United States and British troops in Trieste indefinitely even if Russia agrees to restore Trieste to Italy.]

Those behind the campaign feel the continued presence of the troops would be a better guarantee against a possible Yugoslav attempt at a coup than green and poorly equipped Italian troops.

[Russia has acknowledged without comment the joint United States-British-French note suggesting the restoration of Trieste to Italy, a Foreign Office spokesman said at London tonight.]

Tito Ready to Talk To Italian 'Democrats'

London, March 26 (U.P.).—Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia said today his country was always ready to solve all differences with Italy in a friendly manner, the official Yugoslav agency Tanjug reported.

But Tito specified that the problems which divide Italy and Yugoslavia can be solved only by the "democratic" forces of the two countries—presumably the Communists—after alleged foreign interference with Italy's domestic problems ends, the agency added.

Tito spoke to Italians in the Istrian Peninsula area which Yugoslavia got from Italy in the peace treaty, Tanjug said.

Tito asserted the proposal to restore Trieste to Italy was a trick played as part of the Italian election campaign, Tanjug said.

Jews Propose Garrison of Scandinavians

Jerusalem, March 26 (AP).—The Jewish Agency asked today that foreign troops be sent to Jerusalem to prevent the possible bombardment and destruction of the city's holy places.

The plea was made as Jerusalem received a day-long respite from the Arab-Jewish civil war. Not a single shot sounded in the city on this Good Friday, but at least 10 Jews and Arabs were killed in Palestine.

The Agency spokesman suggested that 10,000 Danish and Norwegian troops be sent from northern Germany to garrison Jerusalem when the British mandate ends May 15.

If carried out, the United Nations partition decision would establish the Jerusalem area as an international zone. Pointing out that the Jewish militia was not required to defend the city, the spokesman said:

"The actual position is that neither the United Nations nor the governments who four months ago were concerned about its (Jerusalem's) sacred character have lifted a finger to do anything . . .

Arab activity threatening the encirclement of Jerusalem continued. British troops were sent into the Bab El Wad area, west of Jerusalem, to halt Arab attacks on Jewish convoys between Jerusalem and Tel Aviv in which the British reported 12 Jews killed.

The unofficial death count since the United Nations voted for partition November 29 reached 2080.

U. S. Wants Britain to Stay In Palestine, LondonHears

London, March 26 (AP).—Arthur Webb, Washington correspondent of the Daily Herald, said tonight it was "officially admitted" the United States will ask Britain to keep troops in Palestine at least until Aug. 15.

"It is expected," he added, "that the U. S. will offer to pay the costs."

Pray for Peace

Few Pilgrims Brave Strife In Jerusalem

Jerusalem, March 26 (U.P.).—Men bearing the weapons of war cleared the way today for pilgrims who came to the Holy City to pray to the Prince of Peace in Good Friday services.

The small bands of pilgrims who retraced the footsteps Christ took on the first Good Friday walked with heads bowed past soldiers in full battle dress.

An Arab butched chopped up the carcass of a lamb while Christians prayed in the Chapel of the Flagellation, where Christ was said to have been beaten with whips and rods.

Arabs and Jews went on sniping at each other while pilgrims made the stations of the Cross. At the eighth station, it is said, Christ spoke to the weeping daughters of Jerusalem and said, "Weep not for me, but for yourselves, your children."

At this spot today, pilgrims knelt while a big, black-bearded Arab haggled with a merchant over the price of a belt of machine-gun ammunition nearby.

His excellency Bishop Hughes of Cairo and the Very Rev. Alberto Gori of Jerusalem led the pilgrims. In peaceful days as many as 14,000 Pilgrims have knelt on this road of prayer. Today there were a scant 1000.

At 6 a. m. the Chapel of the Calvary was crowded with Roman Catholic worshippers. At 7 a. m., the church's ceiling and worship began.

Amid the aroma of incense, worshippers heard the words "Behold the wood of the cross on which hung the Savior of the world."

There were many prayers for peace today. Among them was the plea of Father Hughes, who asked, "Mercifully grant peace in our day, that we may be secure from all disturbances."

Before the worshippers could respond with a hymn, from the distance came the chatter of machine guns.

Blossoms Lure Easter Guests

flooded downtown stores for eleventh-hour purchases of Easter finery. And scores of Government workers arrived on the job with suitcase in hand—ready to dash for rail, bus or plane at the day's end.

Hundreds of high school children from as far away as St. Louis arrived on annual school-sponsored pilgrimages. They went on tours to the Capitol, the National Gallery of Art, Annapolis, and other places of interest. Some came by train but brought their bicycles with them to facilitate sightseeing.

Tourist Business Booms

Clayton Wells, assistant general manager of Sightseeing, Inc., said business would be "very heavy" over the weekend and probably continue that way through the week. School groups, he said, "are the biggest source" of business.

Charles E. Kingston, who says he's been a sightseeing guide in front of the White House for 21 years, anticipated "the biggest turnout we've ever had." He based his prediction on the belief more cars are available, many people haven't had vacations in years and "the blossoms are the prettiest I've seen in 10 years."

Already, according to Bourbon Dawes, executive secretary of the Hotel Association here, most large hostelries were booked to the rafters. The manager of the Washington Tourist Camp, which has a guest capacity of 507, said it, too, was booked "solidly."

Extra Help at Restaurants

A spokesman for the Restaurant Association said "our operators are expecting big business over the weekend and have made plans to take care of the rush." Many have employed extra help, he said.

Florists also anticipated blooming trade. People, they said, were buying lilies, snapdragons, jonquils, roses, and corsages of orchids and gardenias.

The Connecticut Avenue Association, Inc., announced final plans for the Eastern promenade down Connecticut ave., between 12:30 and 3 p. m. Sunday.

Awards, contributed by the merchants, will be presented to the most attractively dressed promenaders. Value of the 25 prizes was placed at between $1000 and $1500. The judges committee, headed by Miss Emma Perley Lincoln, will be stationed at strategic points along the Avenue from Florida ave. down to H st.

here which she will export only in exchange for goods she needs.

Chief among imports from Russia, he said, were manganese and chrome, which together make up more than 25 per cent of the total. To insure continuance of these shipments, he said, it might be necessary to ask Congress for import controls.

"If Russia continued to ship furs, for instance, instead of manganese,' he explained, "we might need import controls. Then if Russia wants to trade with us she will have to trade the things we want."

At present, Harriman said, the United States would be "very much embarrassed" should Russia stop sending manganese and chrome. Other sources of an adequate supply could be developed, however, he added.

Among Russia's current needs, it is known, machine tools rank high. In return for these, the Soviet Union is expected to continue shipping manganese and chrome, though she might cut them off if she could not get the tools she wants from this country.

Tit-for-Tat Basis

Harriman pointed out certain difficulties in a general consideration of machine tools for export control. Certain types and certain tools, he explained, were in short supply, others were needed in western Europe and still others had special applications which place them in the war potential category.

The Commerce Department's objective, he continued, was to develop trade with Russia and her satellites "on a quid pro quo" basis and to see that exports from here were directed so as to promote the recovery of western Europe.

In the last six months of 1947, Harriman said, exports to Russia totaled 55 million dollars while imports from that country were 45 million. He said he did not know if this "quid pro quo" trading would be on a dollar-for-dollar basis but thought it would tend to equalize more nearly exports and imports.

He referred to Mr. Truman's statement to a news conference Thursday that Russia still was a friendly nation and that much material now being shipped there was ordered as much as two years ago. This material, he said, was being examined carefully to determine if refusal to license it for export would work an undue hardship on the manufacturer who accepted the order in good faith under circumstances different from those now prevailing.

Hardship Allowances

In hardship cases, he went on, some exports could be licensed even if the materials were ordinarily not released for shipment to Russia. But from now on, he cautioned, manufacturers should obtain a license before accepting an order from the Red countries or take a chance on being refused an export license when the work was completed.

President Truman's proclamation came in for criticism from some members of Congress who pointed out that it did not cover machine tools, machinery and other "nonmilitary" but strategic items.

"It's good as far as it goes," said Representative Mundt (R., S. D.), "but it's just as important to stop shipments of machine tools capable of producing airplane engines as it is to stop shipment of the engines themselves."

Rizley also felt that while the order was a step in the right direction it should have been broader and should have included all potential war material.

Mundt said he would offer an amendment Monday to the House foreign aid bill which would halt shipment of "war goods" to Russia. It also would give the aid administrator veto power over all export licenses.

Asked about this suggestion, Harriman said he would oppose an attempt to place such veto power in the aid administrator's hands.

Agencies Consulted Before Engine Sales

Richard F. Fincke, Washington aircraft engine dealer, was quoted yesterday as explaining to the Rizley Subcommittee of the House Expenditures Committee that he notified the State Department and FBI of aircraft engine sales to Russia after the sales were made.

This information, derived from an Associated Press report of the hearing, was found after examination of the official record to have been in error. Asked by Chairman Rizley (R., Okla.) if he had taken up the matter with any Government agencies before making the sales, Fincke replied that he had. They were, he testified, the State and Justice Departments.

He said he contacted the State Department first in May, 1947, and the Justice Department at the suggestion of State officials. In answer to a committee question, he said he dealt with the FBI in the Justice Department.

He was complimented by committee members for having consulted the Government before making the deal with Russia.

Russian Freighter Sails With Machinery

Jersey City, N. J., March 26 (AP).—The Russian freighter S. S. Chukokta, loaded with industrial equipment, sailed from the Claremont terminal today, and another Soviet vessel came in to take its place.

The Chukokta was picketed Sunday and Monday by members of the Hudson County Chapter, Catholic War Veterans, protesting shipment of machinery to Russia.

Loading of the vessel was held up several hours when longshoremen refused to pass the picket line.

The Chukokta left the Lehigh Valley Railroad's pier at 7 a. m. today, a railroad spokesman said. About an hour later, the Russian freighter Volga slipped into the terminal.

German Officials Ask Third of European Aid

Frankfurt, Germany, March 25 (U.P.).—German officials in the Anglo-American occupation zone have asked for more than one third of Europe's total allocation from the first year of Marshall Plan aid, it was disclosed today.

Allied officials reported Germans in Bizonia had requested nearly two billion dollars of the first-year kitty Marshall Plan allocation of about five billion dollars.

The German blueprint has been returned by the Allies for "minor revisions," an official said.

Arrives for Treatment

Frankfurt, Germany, March 26 (AP).—Pfc. Jack Grunden of Portland, Oreg., arrived here by air today for medical treatment of the arm wound he received when shot by a Russian soldier in Vienna March 8.

Grunden will be treated in an Army hospital here until he can be sent back to the United States.

German Rift Laid to Russia

per cent of remaining industrial productive capacity.

The note repeated Secretary of State George C. Marshall's recent statement that Russia is pursuing a "unilateral policy" in Germany and thus must shoulder the blame for economic and political division.

The Russians have been boycotting the Allied Control Council meetings in Berlin and exerting pressure otherwise in an apparent effort to force the Americans to pull out. But Marshall said bluntly earlier this week that United States representatives are there to stay. At the same time President Truman abandoned plans to replace the military administration in Berlin with a civil administration under the State Department.

The Russian protest was delivered to the State Department on March 6. It objected to the three-power consultations held in London recently on unifying the Anglo-American zones, and said the plan never had been submitted to the Allied Control Council in Berlin.

"This statement does not correspond to the facts," Armour wrote.

Suggested by Byrnes

He then pointed out that the Russians were told of the plan at a Council meeting on July 20, 1946, and that former Secretary of State James F. Byrnes had suggested it on two earlier occasions.

"The responsibility for rejection of this offer and for failure to include its zone in the economic arrangement lies upon the Soviet Union," he said.

"It is the unilateral policy of the Soviet Union which has cut off eastern Germany from its natural intercourse, political and economic, with western Germany."

He asserted that "the Soviet government and a group of eastern European states under Soviet influence have disrupted the normal framework of the European community and interfered with the progress of recovery from the effects of war."

In actual practice, he said, Russia has suppressed democratic parties and amalgamated the Communist and Social Urity parties into "a new bulwark for a totalitarian regime in eastern Germany."

Intimidation Alleged

Other authorized political groups, he said, have been" subjected to pressure, discrimination and intimidation, and have not been able to function freely.

"Basic human rights are being denied the population while concentration camps are being used anew for individuals unwilling to accept this new totalitarianism."

The note also rejected Soviet claims that the United States, Britain and France were responsible for failure of the Council of Foreign Ministers to reach agreements on Germany at Moscow and London last year.

Noting that the Soviet government "resorts to a curious logic" in its multiple charges, the note said:

"By a sincere effort to arrive at reasonable compromises," the other three powers "were able to arrive at many agreed positions, only to find that the Soviet government was not likewise ready to seek solutions acceptable to all four powers."

North Korea Woos 'Right' Of U. S. Zone

Seoul, Korea, March 26 (AP).—The Soviet-sponsored north Korean regime today invited rightists and other dissidents in the American zone to come north and help create a government for all Korea on April 14.

Kimm Kyu Sik, one of the group included in the broad bid, immediately said he would like to go.

He disclosed that he and Kim Koo, more extreme rightist, had written a letter in February proposing such a conference to the North Koreans and to the Soviet commandant, Lieut. Gen. G. P. Korotov.

(The wooing of rightists and other non-Communist elements is a change of front by the Soviets. Korea has remained divided and occupied because the Russians refused to consult any except extreme leftists or Communist Koreans.

(The maneuver evidently was calculated to make the most of recent events.)

The invitation was addressed specifically to Kim Koo, chairman of the rightist Korean Independence Party, and to other rightist and middle-of-the-road groups who oppose the American plan for a South Korean election May 9.

It included leaders of the Communist-dominated South Korean Labor Party and South Korean People's Front.

It was broadcast at least three times in the name of the so called North Korean People's Committee. (This is the Soviet puppet organization that had announced it was establishing a government—complete with hammer and sickle flag—intended to rule all Korea. Russians themselves took no ostensible role.)

(There was no word on the attitude of American occupation authorities toward the developments.)

Vandenberg Group Denounces Chinese 'Inefficiency,' Graft

By John L. Steele
United Press Reporter

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee approved a 463-million-dollar aid grant to China yesterday but accompanied it with a stinging rebuke of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist government.

The 13-man committee issued a report unanimously approving the aid program. Then, referring to the civil strife and economic turmoil in China, it said of the Chiang government:

"Inefficiency, corruption, and bureaucratic maladies become even more devastating in a period of dislocation and inflation. Ineptitude in military leadership and corruption among army commanders has contributed largely to the lowered morale of the Chinese government troops."

Harm Feared in Report

One committee member, Senator Walter F. George (D., Ga.), who was not present when the report was adopted, voiced concern lest the document prove "very hurtful" to the Chiang regime.

"Portions of the report seem to be unduly intemperate and may prove very harmful to the Nationalist government," George said. "It may add to the present difficulties of that government."

Senator Joseph H. Ball (R., Minn.) called on Chairman Arthur H. Vandenberg (R., Mich.) to renounce the committee report.

"It is extremely unfortunate," Ball said. "I certainly hope that Senator Vandenberg will correct it on the Senate floor. I cannot believe that he approved that sort of a statement.

"It smacks too much of the peculiar gyrations of our State Department's policy on China and it doesn't seem to make very good sense."

Goes Further Than Marshall

A portion of the report paralleled recent statements by Secretary of State George C. Marshall, who has warned against any United States effort to underwrite the political, military or economic affairs of China.

But in other sections the committee went even further than Marshall has yet gone in public discussion of China.

While Americans are "profoundly sympathetic" to China, the committee said, United States aid "too infrequently" has given rise to self-help efforts by China, herself. The present program, it said, cannot arouse "much hopeful enthusiasm" on the part of Americans, because the Chinese people themselves show a "lack of popular confidence" in the Chiang government.

The report indicated a change of thinking on the part of Vandenberg. A year ago the GOP Senate foreign policy spokesman told the Cleveland (Ohio) Foreign Affairs Forum:

"We can hope that the Nanking charter (new Chinese constitution), with its first great national election promised before next Christmas, will weld together a strong and competent China. It is my own view that our own Far Eastern policy might well now shift its emphasis. While still recommending unity, it might well encourage those who have so heroically set their feet upon this road and discourage those who make the road precarious."

Yesterday Vandenberg's committee said:

"It is not possible to develop a practical, effective, long-term over-all program for China's economic recovery. . . . We cannot underwrite the destiny of China."

The committee then stated that weaknesses in China's own government, plus the exhausting civil warfare with Communist forces, threatens the "independence and integrity" of the country.

100 Millions for Arms

The committee recommended that 363 million dollars in food, fertilizer and raw material aid be sent to Chiang, plus another 100 million dollars which could be used for military assistance. But it tacked on a notice that without the aid, Chiang faces the alternatives of "becoming a Communist-dominated satellite state" or experiencing a civil war of increased length and severity.

The committee's stand conflicted with that taken by Gen. Douglas MacArthur, United States Far Eastern commander, and by the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

MacArthur recently cabled the House committee that "underlying all issues in China is now the military problem," and that American military aid for "maintenance of China's integrity" is far more important than insistence on internal reforms there.

The House committee took the first congressional step in military aid for Chiang by including in its foreign aid bill a 150-million-dollar grant with a statement that military assistance to combat Communist forces in China was fully as important as military aid to Greece and Turkey.

The Senate committee's report also found:

1. Favorable factors in China such as "reasonably self-sufficient" supplies of food and raw materials and a large labor pool.

2. "Unfavorable factors presently outweighing the favorable," including the weakness caused by eight years of war against Japan and "disruption, destruction and sabotage" heaped on the country by Communist forces.

3. Bitter propaganda which "follows the Moscow line" directed at the United States by Chinese Communists, and failure of Russia to provide the nationalist government with "material resources" promised in the treaty of 1945.

4. A plea to Chiang to remove "discriminatory measures" taken against American businessmen, and an accompanying prompting for Chinese self-help to assure American taxpayers that "insofar as is possible" United States money will be effectively used.

The committee concluded with this warning:

"It is hardly necessary to repeat that China faces colossally difficult and complicated tasks and that, accordingly, the further constructive and cooperative role of the United States is not easy to determine and is, perforce, beset with grave and honest doubts."

Lithuanians Told to Snub Soviet Appeal

The Lithuanian Legation yesterday advised unnaturalized Lithuanians to disregard an appeal by the Soviet consulate in New York to register as citizens of the USSR.

Lithuanian Minister Povilas said the Soviet appeal, published recently in a Lithuanian language newspaper, was "presumably for the purpose of recruiting agents among Lithuanians in this country. He said his advice and protest would be published in non-Communist Lithuanian papers throughout the Nation.

"I have no doubt," Zadeikis' statement concluded, "that the inhabitants of the Klaipeda region will not submit to such attempts by Soviet agents to bring them into the Soviet fold and thereby expose them to possible dangers, but that they will act according to the dictates of their conscience and honor."

The Soviet appeal for registration was addressed to former residents of the Klaipeda (Memel) territory, annexed by Russia in 1945. The USSR already had swallowed most of Lithuania in 1940 by agreement with Nazi Germany, a move the United States never recognized. For that reason, a Legation of the Lithuanian Republic is maintained here despite the fact of that country's physical absorption into the Soviet Union.

Zadeikis recited the history of the Russian-Lithuanian relations since 1919, when the little Baltic country was liberated from Imperial Germany. He declared Russia not only took no part in that liberation, but "had sent Red Army detachments to extinguish the independence of Lithuania itself." He recalled the Nazi-Soviet agreements of 1939 whereby Lithuania was divided between the two larger nations, giving the Klaipeda territory now under discussion to Hitler.

Then, said Zadeikis, in January, 1945, "the armed forces of Soviet Russia (supported by Lend-Lease) finally forced the retreat of the Germans from Klaipeda." The result was, he went on, that Russia "in violation of the principles of the Atlantic Charter and of the pledges made at Yalta . . . illegally and for its own gain imposed on the territory its own brand of slavery—Red slavery—in no way better than that of the Nazis."

The Russian appeal to Klaipeda Lithuanians to register as Soviet citizens was published first in Canada and March 19 in the Chicago newspaper Vilnis, described by Zadeikis as pro-Soviet. It apparently has not yet been published elsewhere in the United States.

Turk Air Force Gets New Batch Of U. S. Bombers

Ankara, Turkey, March 26 (U.P.).—An undisclosed number of American A-26 attack bombers arrived here under their own power today to augment the Turkish air force.

More air force equipment was unloaded and a Turkish pilot training program began.

An American source said the group arriving today was the second batch of a number promised to Turkey by the United States and that deliveries would be completed by May.

A United Press correspondent in Istanbul reported that there were 18 A-26's in the flight when it passed over there en route to Ankara.

Princess Anne In Paris Picks Chic Trousseau

Paris, March 26 (NYHT).—Though the place and date of the wedding are hush and the bridal gown is a state secret, Princess Anne of Bourbon-Parma, bride-to-be of former King Michael of Romania, is quietly picking a small, chic and carefully planned trousseau. County the wedding gown, 10 models have been selected so far.

Raphael is the Paris couturier whom Princes Anne and her mother have chosen.

Raphael is making her two suits. One, of gray wales checks, has a wine-colored, tailored velvet collar and detail at the pockets. The second is of black wool, trimmed in rows of silk braid. Skirts are moderately full and medium length.

For afternoon, Princess Anne has chosen a slim black wool dress with a wide oval neckline trimmed with self bows. There is a tailored navy wool coat dress with a white pique vest and black enameled buttons.

A camel's hair coat will be part of the going-away ensamble.

For dinner, she'll wear a long-sleeved, slender tailored dress in verdigris silk jersey with the bodice tightly draped.

Draping again appears in a blotting paper pink jersey evening gown and is concentrated at the side front with five cabochons of matching jersey.

Italians May Get Big Shipment of U. S. Cigarettes

The State Department said yesterday it is tentatively planning to send 1,860,000 packs of American cigarettes to Italy as "an incentive" for increased production.

In announcing this, Press Officer Michael McDermott emphatically denied a published report that 50 tons of cigarettes will be flown to Italy in an effort to influence the Italian elections, April 18.

McDermott said the cigarettes could not arrive before the end of April at the earliest. They will go by boat, providing the State Department decides cigarettes are needed as a spur to increased output by Italian industry.

McDermott emphasized the department has not yet decided which phases of Italian production need incentive goods. Congress authorized the Administration to spend part of the 522 million dollars in relief funds for incentive goods if it felt such steps necessary.

Ex-Monarch Michael Returns To Washington; Well Guarded

As rumors flew about an alleged plot against his life, the young King without a throne, Michael of Romania returned to Washington last night—riding a tailwind of silence and security.

After a visit to Wright Field, Ohio., the air-minded former monarch was whisked from an Army B-17 in which he returned to Bolling Field, into an offical limousine, midst a small army of security guards.

Arriving 20 minutes before the announced schedule, he paused briefly for photographers but reporters were told he was too tired for talk.

Military police, CID personnel, and unidentified plain clothes guards swarmed over the field as he landed.

At the Shoreham Hotel, where he has been suite-jumping, apparently for security reasons, bellhops said the guards were so thick "a fly couldn't get through."

While the State Department officially confirmed that it has "received reports of rumors of a plot against the life of King Michael," FBI and Secret Service denied they had detailed men to guard the 26-year-old visitor.

Metropolitan police said they have not increased the detail of three men, two during the day, one at night. The State Department refused to state where the reports came from or what protective steps have been taken.

According to a secretary, Michael is "hardly likely" to be concerned about the supposed menace.

"He had quite a time in Romania with the Communists and one had to be on one's guard there, of course," said Merceau Ionnitiu, to a reporter who phoned.

Ionnitiu said Michael inspected research laboratories and witnessed a "great display" of bombers and jet planes at Wright Field where he sat in but did not fly a jet. However, the deposed king, who has some 500 flying hours, was at the B-17's control's for a time during the flight back to Washington, according to the secretary.

He is due ot depart today for Detroit. Later he will visit Toledo, Cleveland and then probably return to New York, Ionnitiu said, before returning to Europe for an April reunion with his fiancee, Princess Anne of Bourbon-Parua.

Russians to Hold Westbound Trains In Austrian Zone

Vienna, Austria, March 26 (U.P.).—The Russians will halt the movement of all railroad rolling stock beyond the border of the Soviet zone in Austria Thursday, a spokesman for the ministry of transport said tonight.

Rail communications between east and west zones can be continued after April 1 only by shifting carloads at the demarcation lines, he said.

Russia has claimed all Austrian equipment seized by the Germans during their occupation, so the order will affect all rolling stock now in the Russian zone, the spokesman said.

Earlier, a reliable government source said Russian military guards suddenly were sent to the Zistersdorf oil fields in the Soviet occupation zone this week to replace 500 Austrian Communist guards.

Kashmir Case Stalemate

Lake Success, March 26 (AP).—Private United Nations consultations over settling the fighting in Kashmir ended today in a stalemate. Indications were that the dispute between India and Pakistan eventually would be thrown back to the Security Council. The Indian and Pakistan delegations confirmed that no further talks are scheduled.

Italian Reds Threaten Use Of Violence

Rome, March 26 (U.P.).—Italian Communist leaders have ordered their members to "take more determined action with all means, including force if necessary," in the election campaign, a government source said tonight.

At the same time the Communists threatened to seize power if they are victorious in the election and right wing leaders try to keep them out of office.

A government informant said the Communists had established an "assault brigade" headquarters near Milan and awaited only specific orders from Rome to take the offensive.

It has been reported the Communists have organized "action squads" in all big northern cities.

Luigi Longo, No. 2 Communist leader, demanded in Bologna last night that Premier Alcide de Gasperi say "whether if the Front (Communist bloc) is victorious the electoral results will be recognized."

"If they do not cede to us the power which the majority will have given us we will drive them out as we have driven out others in the struggle for liberation," Longo said.

The election campaign became steadily more turbulent.

Late last night 50 men of a Communist action squad scaled the walls of two buildings in Milan and tore down banners of the new extreme right-wing Italian Social Movement. Today Communist beat up a member of the movement. Two thousand Milan unemployed paraded demanding Easter bonuses. In nearby Monza Communists beat a bystander who was listening to Italian Social Movement speakers.

Greeks Claim 1614 Rebel Toll In Pierria Area Since Feb. 21

Athens, March 26 (AP).—Premier Themistokles Sophoulis said tonight that guerillas had suffered 1614 casualties in the Pierria area since February 21.

He said 754 dead had been counted, 571 had been taken prisoner and 289 had surrendered.

Government losses in the same period were listed as 43 dead, 102 wounded and 32 missing.

[Greek press reports said today that government troops had killed 17 guerillas and captured 35 others 55 miles northwest of Athens, the United Press said.

[United Press Correspondent Dan L. Thrapp, quoting reliable authorities, reported from Salonika that guerillas were surrendering hourly in the Mount Olympus and Pierria sector after mutinying and slaying three of their leaders.

[Reports reaching Salonika said three guerilla chieftains, Paleologou, Tsclias and Peltekos, had been killed in mutinies and that 1500 rebels had surrendered recently.

[Guerilla chieftain Markos Vafiades asked the International Red Cross in a secret broadcast today to prevent American Army officers in Greece from allegedly ordering executions of rebel prisoners. An American military spokesman described the charges as "ridiculous."]

New Argentine Envoy

Buenos Aires, Argentina, March 26 (UP).—The U. S. State Department has agreed to the appointment of Jeronimo Remorino to succeed Dr. Oscar Ivanissevich as Argentine Ambassador to the United States, a reliable source said today.

Newsman Exchange Resolution Sought

U. S. Delegation Asks U. N. Conference To Act for Fullest Freedom of Movement

Geneva, March 26 (NYHT).—The American delegation tonight asked the United Nations conference on information freedom to resolve that all participating governments "encourage the fullest possible exchange of foreign correspondents."

William Benton, leader of the United States delegation, said the American objective was to have the clause written into an international convention.

The resolution did not ask any of the confernce nations to alter "their respective laws and procedures" governing the entry and movement of aliens within their domain.

Thus, some correspondents, as Communists, still could be prevented from entering the United States. The Soviet Union and other eastern European countries still could continue the practice of ignoring most visa requests from American newspapermen.

Benton said the American resolution was consistent with the basic American conception of what constitutes a newspaper reporter—a man who is free of government dictation and is not an agent of a government.

The French delegation here is preparing a supplementary project. It calls for the issuance of international press cards to a selected group of correspondents who would be accredited by a special U. N. agency and given preferential travel and news transmission rates.

Army Announces 'Freezing' Of 20,000 Reserve Officers strength decreed by the last Congress. It directed:

1. That all reserve officers on extended active duty who were over age for their grade be sent back to civilian life by June 30 next. Some 4200 officers in all grades were affected.

2. The reduction to enlisted ranks of several hundred old top sergeants who have been holding commissioned rank.

3. The discharge of all Army of the United States (temporary wartime) officers who have not applied or qualified for appointments in the Organized Reserves or National Guard.

Under the February 3 order, all officers above the following limits for each grade were to be relieved by June 30: colonels, 60; lieutenant colonels, 55; majors, 50; captains, 45; first lieutenants, 40; second lieutenants, 35, and warrant officers, 55. Every officer under 60 will be retained under the new order, as will AUS officers and the ex-sergeants holding commissioned rank.

Meanwhile, many Congressmen from Eastern, Southern and Midwestern States were en route home for the brief Easter recess to sound out sentiment on the new military preparedness program.

Involving two controversial projects—universal military training and a stopgap draft—they want to see how the homefolks feel before committing themselves to vote on the plan.

As it stands today, many Senators favor the proposal to draft single, nonveterans aged 19 through 25 to bolster the understrength armed forces.

Senators on the Armed Services Committee have been hearing the testimony of Secretary of State George C. Marshall, Defense Secretary James Forrestal, and the military and civil chiefs of the Army, Navy and Air Force on the need for such a step and appear likely to bring such a measure to the floor early next month.

One the House side, however, hearings have not yet been started and there is much less sentiment for the program. Many Congressmen are talking of an "if" draft. That would call for the registration of some three million men, to be called up only if a dire emergency occurs.

The idea would be to stimulate volunteer recrutting by the threat of induction, save time in case of trouble, and serve notice on Russia that we will act. Defense and foreign policy officials and a large group on Capitol Hill, however, consider such half-measures futile and dangerous.

There is less sentiment for UMT on both sides of Congress than there is for the draft. Defense chiefs declared both are essential, one for the "short-term" security situation and the other for the "long-term."

U. S. Bans Palestine Mail, Except by Air

The Postoffice Department late yesterday suspended all postal service to Palestine except for air mail.

The department said it acted at the request of authorities in Palestine. Presumably, the request was due to the current confused situation in that country.

The department previously had stopped shipment of United States insured parcel post paskages to Palestine for the time being. It also had halted money orders addressed to residents of Palestine.

EARL KENT — FLAVIAN WATKINS

A first degree murder warrant filed in Marshall, Mich., yesterday accused Earl Kent, 20, of the fatal shooting of pretty, 16-year-old Flavian Watkins, who died early Thursday of a rifle wound in the breast. Sheriff Fred Hollingsworth signed the murder complaint after conferring on results of State police tests on the girl's body. "It doesn't look like she fired the gun," a prosecutor said.

Failure Seen For U. S. Plan On Palestine

Lake Success, March 26 (AP).—Despite President Truman's appeal, doubts were expressed today the United Nations would accept the new American proposal for settling the Palestine problem.

Both Jews and Arabs are opposed to the truce-and-trusteeship scheme. The Soviet bloc and some smaller countries, including several Latin American republics, are reported ready to fight any move to sidetrack partition.

One American hope rested in Delegate Warren R. Austin's doing a lot of convincing before and during the next Security Council meeting Tuesday.

The American delegation said it had received no instructions from Washington and closed up late today for the Easter weekend. However, it was understood the State Department was discussing the situation with several countries through embassy channels.

Commenting on the American proposal, a Jewish agency source said:

"This means nothing will be done and the Jews and Arabs will fight it out."

Delegate Faris el Khoury of Syria, chief Arab spokesman here, said:

"As long as Mr. Truman says it (the plan) will not replace partition, the Arabs are not ready to accept the plan or any part of it."

Martin Dies Considering Candidacy for Senate

Galveston, Texas, March 26 (AP).—Former Congressman Martin Dies said today he would soon announce his decision whether he would be a candidate for the United States Senate.

Dies told reporters, "I'm not just ready at present."

Missing Plane, 3 Bodies Found Off Baltimore

The missing Coast Guard twin-engine plane which disappeared in a snowstorm January 24 en route from Newark to Washington has been located, the Coast Guard announced yesterday.

Bits of the wreckage found on the floor of Baltimore Harbor off Brooklyn Park Thursday have been identified as parts of the missing plane, they said. Yesterday divers secured pontoons to the hull and floating operations will be begun today.

The bodies of three members of the four-man crew have been recovered. They are Lieut. Comdr. Charles W. Schuh, 4631 36th st. S., Arlington, the pilot; Charles H. McArthur, aviation machinist's mate, first class, 4519 Yuma st. nw., and Rudolph H. Schoning, aviation radioman, first class, Temple, Pa.

It is believed that the fourth man, Lieut. (j. g.) William N. Killegrew, 715 Princeton pl. nw., the copilot, may be trapped in the wreckage.

2 Roosevelts Support 'Ike'

him were in hopes, apparently, that if a runaway Democratic convention really drafted him, his sense of duty would not permit him to refuse.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, jr., in a press conference in New York, disclosed that he had informed President Truman yesterday morning, through National Chairman J. Howard McGrath, of what he was about to do.

Talking to reporters in his law office, young Roosevelt said:

"Circumstances require a man who will convince the Russian leader that the constant aim of our policy is to secure the lasting peace for which World War II was fought and who, at the same time, will take all necessary steps to stop further aggression direct or indirect by the USSR against the free peoples of the world.

"The American people have such a man in Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower. I am mindful of the general's earlier statement on this matter, but since the Communist coup in Czechoslovakia we have entered a period as critical as that after Munich.

"The American people have a right to call the general back into active public service. I have not talked with the general since 1943 in North Africa, nor do I have any intention of communicating with him. I am convinced that if the veterans of this Nation, the men and women of labor, the farmers, the business and professional community, in short, all Americans urge him to accept the nomination, he will, as always, answer the call of duty with patriotism, humility and courage."

Speaking of Henry Wallace, Franklin, jr., said that, in a moment of world crisis, he was merely "confusing and dividing the country."

"Nor," he said, "have the men suggested for the Republican nomination demonstrated any marked ability to unite the American people."

Elliott Roosevelt issued his statement from the family estate at Hyde Park. It was in reply to an appeal from C. B. Baldwin, Wallace's campaign manager, to line up behind the Iowan.

"My position is very simple," Elliott said. "I am a Democrat. I believe that the Democratic Party has failed to provide the leadership that was needed in the winning of the peace. That peace can still be won.

"The best way to win it is through the election of a candidate of one of the two major parties who will unite both liberals and conservatives in this country on a program of American world leadership, to sell democracy throughout the world.

"The Democrats have the opportunity. Eisenhower should be their candidate. I have always supported him and shall continue to do so."

In a blast at Wallace and his followers, Elliott said:

"It has been demonstrated to me that the same individuals are running the policy-making of the third party as made up the so-called group of liberals who fought Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1939 and 1940 in his efforts to rearm and prepare this Nation for possible war."

Chairman Henderson of Americans for Democratic Action pointed out in his statement that the organization, at its meeting in February, withheld indorsement of any presidential candidate pending the outcome of the two big party conventions. After referring to the swift and critcal developments since then, he said:

"It has now become clear that the ADA membership, while still unequivocally opposed to the Wallace candidacy, believes that the organization should declare itself now in support of a man who could enlist the united allegiance of non-Communist American progressives."

He asked ADA chapters to hold meetings within the next 10 days, discuss the political situation, and send delegates with instructions to the meeting of the executive board in Pittsburgh on April 10.

In Chicago, Jacob M. Arvey, head of the powerful Chicago Democratic organization, said he was convinced that General Eisenhower is the man "who comes closest to representing the ideals of the Democratic Party."

Arvey said he had not definitely made up his mind about President Truman.

of clutch—the "dry-friction" clutch, in which the driving shaft is coupled directly to the shaft which turns the wheels; and the "fluid" clutch, in which the driving shaft churns a fluid against a water-wheel mechanism which in turn moves the wheels of the car.

The newly-discovered principle of the magnetic fluid clutch can be adopted with equal advantage to the design of brakes, according to the bureau.

However, the NBS scientists believe the new clutch will find its most extensive application in the field of "servo mechanisms," such as used in power steering of large trucks, tanks, steamships and aircraft.

The clutch, similarly, has potential uses in printing presses, power machinery, gun direction control, range finders and high speed electronic computers.

The magneticfluid clutch was invented by Russian-born Jacob Rabinow, 38-year-old engineer, while working on an electronic "brain" for Army Ordnance.

Rabinow's family fled from Siberia, where his father operated a shoe factory, when the Bolsheviks took over. They found temporary refuge in China, and emigrated to the United States in 1921.

Jacob attended City College of New York, joined the staff of the National Bureau of Standards 10 years ago. The $7000-a-year engineer is credited with 40 inventions, all of which, like the magnetic fluid clutch, are patented in the name of the Federal Government. They are available to industry for use without charge.

Never Again a Monarch, Declaims Ana Pauker

Bucharest, Romania, March 26 (AP).—Ana Pauker, Communist foreign minister of Romania, today said "we are glad to have shaken the burden of monarchy from our shoulders. Never again will we be forced to put our heads through the yoke of monarchy."

Mme. Pauker spoke at a campaign meeting before the elections for the Romanian national assembly Sunday. Her statements were considered to mirror official reaction to the United States visit of former King Michael.

School Health Plans Progress, Officials Say

Health Department and School Board officials met yesterday for an "informal talk" on controversial school health matters and reported "good progress" toward agreement.

Dr. James A. Gannon, physician member of the school board, who recently attacked the Health Department for lack of interest in school health problems, said "it looks very much like we'll have a satisfactory solution." Health officials were "very, very cooperative," he added.

Foreign Affairs Survey

A survey of opinion among 430 community leaders in 21 American cities by the Council on Foreign Relations shows that 95 per cent of them favor the broad outlines of the Marshall Plan. Only 3 per cent of this well-informed group, consisting of businessmen, educators, lawyers, editors and other professional people, were definitely opposed to the use of American resources to aid the recovery of Europe. Perhaps more significant, 80 per cent of those who replied to the questionnaire are willing to put up with the necessary controls to make the program a success, although there was a strong feeling against the restoration of anything more than the minimum of essential controls in this country.

These community leaders were almost equally divided on the question of whether the benefits of the program, direct and indirect, should be limited to western Europe. A majority of 53 per cent agreed, however, to raise no objections to eastern Europe's sharing directly or indirectly in the benefits. Apparently this reflects an intelligent realization of the fact that recovery in western Europe will inevitably be felt in other parts of that continent. The replies indicate a strong dissent from Secretary Marshall's view, expressed last June, that "our policy is directed not against any country or doctrine." A majority of the community leaders participating in this survey believe that our policy is and ought to be directed against communism. That apparently is one of the chief reasons for its popularity.

Exports To Russia

The most justifiable criticism that may be leveled at American exports to Russia and her satellites centers, it seems to us, around the lack heretofore of a coordinated Administration policy. Secretary of Commerce Harriman in his statement Friday indicated the steps being taken to correct this deficiency. An advisory subcommittee of representatives of top agencies has been set up to help develop policies with respect to shipments of materials that might contribute to the war potential of countries behind the iron curtain. This approach seems to us a sane compromise which should afford protection to American interests without giving way to the hysteria aroused by a few legislators on Capitol Hill or the blind panic that was beginning to grip a few administrative departments. The important thing is that there is now an effort to achieve a unified program.

The establishment of this advisory committee also helps dispel the objection that the Department of Commerce has in effect been determining foreign policy in the licensing of exports. It must be recognized, we think, that restrictions on exports to the Soviet and its satellites are in fact a form of economic warfare. As such, they are a matter that concerns most intimately the State Department. In the past there has been some evidence that the State and Commerce Departments have been working at cross-purposes with respect to authorizing and licensing of materials designed to promote production in iron-curtain countries. The State Department now will have more of a say in such matters through the advisory committee. It already is responsible for passing on exports of actual implements of war, and President Truman Friday significantly added to this list such items as military and civilian aircraft parts and radar equipment. We think the basic responsibility of the State Department might well be emphasized further by giving it at least an equal voice with the Department of Commerce in the final determination of export policy.

It would be utterly foolish, we believe, to invoke a complete embargo on shipments to Russia. That would close the door with finality to any solution to the east-west barrier which the United States hopes to bring about through trade under the Marshall Plan. Indeed, the success of the Marshall Plan depends in no small measure on just such trade. Moreover, the United States itself receives important strategic imports of manganese and chrome from Russia, imports which would surely be cut off by an over-all embargo. What we need is a selective policy which scrutinizes all exports on their potential use and which seeks to establish trade with Russia on a quid pro quo basis.

It is possible to cite recent instances of shipments to Russia, such as airplane engines, in which there has been a lack of discretion. It may be said with some logic that administrative agencies should have anticipated the present crisis. Nevertheless, it is questionable how much actual war materiel has been sent to iron-curtain nations. Moreover, Congressmen themselves have had a part in the very situation they have been criticizing, for the agencies concerned for the most part have been following congressional mandates on disposal of surplus property and elimination of trade controls. The best way to end this type of criticism is for the Administration to present the facts frankly to Congress and call for congressional help in determining an export policy in keeping with the present world situation.

The Will Of America

The most hopeful fact in this disordered world is the growing disposition of the United States to bestir itself. At last, it appears, our people are determined that the western movement of the iron curtain shall not continue. There are many indications that public opinion on this issue is ahead of governmental action, but that situation is being remedied with the presentation of a new defense program and the mounting tempo of political moves to reassure the imperiled peoples of Europe. It can be candidly and solemnly said that the United States is galvanizing itself to meet the crisis inflicted upon the world by Soviet Russia's repeated aggressions, regardless of what kind of action may prove to be necessary.

If there are any realists in the Kremlin, they will understand that this marked stiffening of American policy reflects the overwhelming will of the American people. A year ago a Nation-wide Gallup Poll indicated that only 4 per cent of the people wished to build up our armed forces and prepare to fight. Now 27 per cent favor that course. Another 17 per cent would go to war now. A total of 66 per cent favor a strong policy with no hint of appeasement in it, as contrasted with only 1 per cent who would try to appease Russia and 5 per cent who would have the United States get out of Europe and do nothing. Seventy-three per cent believe that the Administration's policy in dealing with Russia has been too soft in the past.

From this firm background of public opinion the Government is able to move with resolute strokes to counteract the wave of aggression that is keeping Europe on tenterhooks. Many such strokes have already been taken. The European Recovery Program is now virtually enacted, although Congress is tantalizingly slow in finishing up the details. While Italy is preparing to go to the polls, the State Department has made it perfectly plain that the voters of that country must choose between democratic friendship and cooperation on the one hand and Soviet domination on the other. The proposal to restore Trieste to Italy stands at once as a reversal of previous appeasement efforts and a powerful bid for unity among the remaining democratic powers in resisting the spread of police-state systems. Secretary Marshall has now taken an equally positive stand as to Berlin. Russia may continue to boycott the Allied Control Council, but the United States will not budge an inch from its determination to remain in Berlin as one of the occupying powers. Every determined stand of this sort is equivalent to putting iron into the veins of war-sickened Europeans who are living in the shadow of a great fear.

Behind these economic and political moves against the "disease of despair," as Secretary Forrestal called it, is the new military program that the Administration has presented to Congress. It is unquestionably late to be taking this action. Our military strength should never have been permitted to lapse into its present condition. Yet the reactivated determination of the United States to regain whatever military strength is necessary to arrest the "onrush of tyrannical power" will reinspire the peoples of Europe with hope and courage.

Gen. Omar Bradley, Chief of Staff, impressively reminded the Senate Armed Services Committee in his testimony on Thursday that "the United States is competing at this time for the hearts and minds of men in Europe and in Asia. If they are unable to find in the American people a rigid determination to halt further aggressive domination, they may surrender to futility and lose the will to resist." Indeed, Europe might not be able to stand the shock of another successful Moscow-directed coup if the United States should stand complacently by. Americans need always to remember that while we are supplying money, plans and moral support to the cause of world democracy, the democratic leaders adjacent to the iron curtain are risking their lives. They could not be expected to continue indefinitely their gamble with death, without the assurance that the United States is standing confidently and unalterably with them.

We believe that such an answer to the prayers of Europe is taking firm shape in the United States. But much remains to be accomplished. Understanding of the real issues at stake needs to be spread. The tempo of our action needs to be stepped up to discourage the police-state imperialists who may have assumed that they can absorb a few more countries before the United States is ready to intervene. Our plans in the political sphere ought to be made as clear as policies in the economic and military fields will soon be. And finally, of course, the American people will need to reinforce themselves against hysteria and trigger jitters and coolly to remember that, while we are in the fight for all we are worth, it is still a fight for peace. The unassailable truth is that the only hope for peace in the world today is the attainment of sufficient strength in the United States and the nations of western Europe to halt both the spread of aggression from Moscow and the growth of terrorism within their own soil.

Argentine Trade

The pattern of Argentine noncooperation has been confirmed in another detail by her refusal to sign the pact establishing the International Trade Organization of the United Nations. This nonadherence was expected, since Argentina had consistently opposed many of the provisions finally included in the ITO charter draft during the four-month meeting of the U. N. Conference on Trade and Employment at Havana. The reason for the Argentine attitude that the ITO should be purely "advisory" is made clear in the statement of Dr. Diego Luis Molinari, chief Argentine delegate, in rejecting the charter. Referring to President Peron's declaration of economic independence for Argentina, he said " . . . at no moment will we ask for prior authorization to carry out the line of conduct the Argentine people will follow."

In precisely the same category was the recent refusal of the Peron government to sign the International Wheat Agreement—an abstention that raises a serious question as to whether that agreement can succeed fully in its purpose. In other words, while giving lip service to international cooperation, Peron persists in a policy of strict economic isolationism. This is, of course, the outgrowth of the governmental monopoly which Peron has imposed on Argentina's foreign trade as a part of his effort to build a superstate. Peron has suppressed private commerce as he has suppressed civil liberties. Undoubtedly, in the present sellers' market through which he is able to exact highwayman's prices for Argentine grain, it is to his advantage not to agree to any international attempt to equalize trade opportunities. But the advantage from this sort of quasi-blackmail is limited to the short run, for there is inevitable retribution ahead when world production is restored. Aside from creating resentment in other countries, Peron's stand-offishness offers a poor climate for the economic assistance for which he has been clamoring.

Judicial Detachment

Announcement was made on Tuesday that Judge John C. Knox, senior judge of the Federal District Court for the Southern District of New York, has been elected to the board of directors of the Equitable Life Assurance Society. Judge Knox, appointed to the Federal bench by President Woodrow Wilson, has served it with high probity and conscientiousness for 30 years. The court over which he presides is one of the most important and most heavily burdened in the country. These are facts which make it all the more surprising that he should have chosen to give a portion of his time, attention and devotion to a private business corporation.

Judge Knox feels, no doubt, that he could avoid conflict between his private and his public responsibilities by disqualifying himself in any case involving interests of the Equitable Society. It may be taken for granted that he would do so. But to invite a contingency of this kind is, in some degree, to subordinate his official duties; the Equitable has such diverse investments and farflung financial concerns that there is no telling how often litigation involving it directly or indirectly might come before Judge Knox and compel him to shift the burden of it to a colleague.

There is no law, although perhaps there ought to be one, forbidding Federal judges to affiliate themselves with private enterprises. What Judge Knox has done is by no means unprecedented. It is fairly common for judges to sit on the boards of universities, hospitals and other eleemosynary institutions; but in this category the Equitable, engaged as it is in competition with other mutual life insurance companies, cannot, we think, be placed. Judge Knox's position now is, to say the least, equivocal. It entails a division of interest, not to say of allegiance, to which no judge should be subject.

Square Deal

Washington Square in New York was at one time a most elegant residential district, and the north side of the square remained so, even after the great brick houses began to be divided into flats. The south side, adjacent to Greenwich Village, became the center of a rather decorous French colony which subsequently moved itself uptown to the vicinity of St. Patrick's Cathedral, no doubt to escape the bohemians who began to invade the district shortly before the First World War. Among the newcomers who took possession of the long dormered garrets of the Greek Revival houses on the south side, were several who afterward acquired a considerable fame in the arts or in letters, so that the newspapers now refer to it, with characteristic hyperbole, as "Genius Row."

Now it appears that New York University, having acquired title to a portion of the south side of the square, intends to demolish the houses there and to erect there a sky-scraping law center, which, it is said, would have the effect of turning Washington Square into a college campus. There are a lot of people who don't like this project, among them the Right Rev. William T. Manning, the retired Episcopalian Bishop of New York. They are holding mass meetings of protest, writing letters to the newspapers, and so on. It is none of our affair, perhaps, but our sympathies are with the protestants rather than the university in this matter. Still, with the whole world threatened with destruction, some may think it absurd to get excited about the demolition of a few more landmarks; but we suppose the principle is that every little bit helps.

WRUL Broadcasts

In your issue of March 19, your society columnist, Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer, mistakenly referred to radio station WRUL and the World Wide Broadcasting Foundation of Boston, New York and Washington as a "Government-owned" short-wave station.

In fulfillment of the letter and spirit of the Smith-Mundt Act, which specifically calls for maximum utilization of private facilities in international short-wave broadcasting, WRUL has, both prior to World War II and subsequent to it, beamed programs to every point on the globe on an independent, privately sustained basis. While everything we do is carefully planned to conform with the foreign policy of the Government, there is no Government control or direction of our daily broadcasts from Washington, New York and Boston.

As an example of how private initiative can make itself effective in bolstering this country's foreign policy, I am glad to inform you that for several days now we have been engaged in a daily series of broadcasts to the Italian people, presenting Americans from all walks of life talking directly to our friends in Italy. Our two powerful 50,000-watt transmitters are being utilized to the utmost in an effort to halt Communist advances in the Italian political campaign prior to the April 18 elections.

Already, such outstanding Americans as Gen. William J. Donovan, Drew Pearson, Edward Corsi, Judge Juvenal Marchisio, Luigi Antonini, Ugo Carusi and others have been or will be heard in this series. Mrs. Francesca Bragiotti Lodge, wife of the Congressman from Connecticut, is directing this undertaking in cooperation with Common Cause, Inc.

All of this is but a small part of WRUL's non-Government effort by public-spirited Americans to tell the story of America on a global basis. Currently, we broadcast in several other languages, including Polish, Norwegian, Spanish and French.

WRUL is nonprofit, noncommercial and independent. It depends for its success on contributions from public-spirited Americans. We already receive sustaining contributions from 2000 individuals and groups in every part of the country; we are currently engaged in a public subscription campaign to raise the number of our citizen-participants to 100,000 in order that the basis of support for this undertaking for peace may be spread as broadly as possible among Americans from every walk of life. Mr. Hume's Criticisms

It is Peregine White, (letter published March 19) I'm afraid, who has completely missed the point. A critic must, in all honesty, say that he thinks. Naturally there will be many who disagree. Mr. Hume is an honest critic, and he is unable to hear something bad without saying that it's bad.

He has been accused many times of being harsh with local talent (and some talent that is local, just highly paid). I think he would be doing less than his duty if he allowed poor performances to pass with a meek "that was nice". It would be doing a great disservice to music in general, and performers in particular, if he merely reviewed performances instead of criticizing them.

Local talent, and young composers should, by all means, be encouraged. However, it would be unkind and dishonest to allow them to continue down the wrong path, when frank criticism could guide and aid them. A young composer benefits greatly from even a harsh review, while a pat on the back at the wrong time can do him immeasurable damage.

We are indeed fortunate to have in Washington a man who is not afraid to say what he thinks, and Washington music will benefit greatly from Mr. Hume's outspoken appraisal.

German Paintings

It is with surprise and consternation that I have heard of the decision of our military authorities to return shortly to Berlin the famous collection of paintings from the Kaiser-Friedrich Museum currently on view in the National Museum at Washington.

Judging from our own ethical standards, it is fairly evident that these canvasses, sooner or later, should be restored to the German people. It is less clear why a time limit should be considered to have been reached at a moment when Germany can offer absolutely no guarantees whatsoever toward the future safety of works of art which in the far greater part represent cultural manifestations having originated outside the Teutonic world.

Through this remarkable exhibition the people of the United States have an opportunity to broaden their artistic vision; to supplement the already important but still incomplete collections owned within this Nation by works which, in many instances, have no counterpart over here. It would seem to be both unwise and unjustifiable to return to Berlin, as a very possible present to Moscow, these particular results of civilizations which both Germany and Russia have done much to destroy.

Religion In Schools

Most of those who approve the recent Supreme Court decision on released-time religious instruction do so on the grounds that religious instruction in the public schools is a violation of the principle of separation of church and state, and therefore unconstitutional. Perhaps this is so, but I cannot believe that the intent of the framers of the Constitution was to relegate religion to a "Sunday only" basis.

To be sure, the teaching of doctrine has no place in the public schools, and should be confined to the Sunday school of one's choice. But children cannot study the Declaration of Independence without being exposed to a declaration of religious principles.

If, therefore, the individual faiths have erred in their attempts to fill this need, let us point out the folly of allowing doctrine to become more important than basic principles, but let us not slam the door on all religious instruction. Rather let us offer a substitute program for the one abandoned, perhaps a new emphasis on ethics, or a course of study in which all children may learn something of the history of all faiths. If any taxpayers object to this, they should take a second look at the coins put out by the United States Mint and stamped "In God We Trust."

The Supreme Court used as the source of law supporting its decision the first amendment to the Constitution: "Congress shall make no law affecting the establishment of religion."

By its decision, the Supreme Court arrogated to itself the freedom to act in an area in which Congress is expressly forbidden to act, and assumed the right to do that which Congress is expressly forbidden to do. It made a law affecting the establishment of religion. E. F. PETERS.

"Big Bold Men"

In reference to your editorial of March 20, you surprise me, really you do! Why should you object so strenuously to "the bold look" for men?

Suppose the casually draped suit, the spread collar shirt, the wing-tip shoes, etc., of "the bold look" do make our men appear "rugged, virile, aggressive and dominant"—aren't these perfectly natural and certainly desirable characteristics in the male animal?

Oh, please, let us gals believe our men are still boldly and completely masculine! Don't let us think their minds are so dulled and deadened, their spirits so tired and tremulous, or their dreams so little and futile that American men are limited to either the fusty thinking or the musty clothes of the past! Teachers' Pay Raise

I see by the paper that the District poundmaster's salary is to be increased by $1001. This will give him $5000 per year which is $500 more than the District's school teachers with master's degrees receive.

I would like to know if he has sick leave with pay or does it cost him $7.50 to $15 for a substitute when he is ill. These are the rates which District teachers pay when illness keeps them from the classroom.

We wonder who his friends in Congress are and if he might persuade them to support the Beall bill, H.R. 5737, which would give teachers an increase of $800 per year.

Fair Tax Reduction

May I comment on Mr. Hyman Bookbinder's letter of March 22, published under the heading of "Untimely Tax Reduction?

To afford a clear picture, Mr. Bookbinder's table is repeated:

Net Income	Present	Spendable Inc. (After Taxes) Sen. Proposal	% Incr.
$2,400	$2,324	$2,400	3.3
3,000	2,810	2,900	3.2
5,000	4,411	4,568	3.5
10,000	8,138	8,639	6.2
50,000	26,000	33,423	28.6
500,000	93,400	141,333	51.3

Mr. Bookbinder further advises that "the common impression that the greatest relief is going to low income groups should be dispelled." In view of the above figures, it might well be asked if, upon receipt of a $2400 no-tax statement by the Bureau of Internal Revenue, it is recommended that the bureau should send the reporting earner a check for $1000 so that percentage-wise he could match the $500,000 income earner in tax relief? Obviously not; it is inconceivable that no better form of relief could be given low-income earners than to tax them either nothing or a trifling per cent of their gross income.

From the same figures submitted by Mr. Bookbinder, let us supplement the table as follows:

Income	(Proposed) Tax Paid	% Gross Income
$2400
3000	100	3.3
5000	432	8.6
10,000	1361	13.6
50,000	16,567	33.1
500,000	358,677	71.1

With the national income average approximately $2700 per annum, it becomes clear that most of the employed people in this country would be excused from more than a token tax support of our Government. Emphasis on taxing earners according to "ability to pay" is basically a matter of personal philosophy, but moderation would seem to indicate that even lowest income earners should be taxed a small amount, say 5 per cent of their gross income.

The situation resolves itself into whether or not you believe a relatively small group should bear the greatest economic burden while most earners have little or no tax responsibility. I am not convinced the above tables represent lop-sided prejudice in favor of larger income earners.

Backdrop For Easter

By Malvina Lindsay

World At The Spring

WHATEVER the weather Sunday, there will be many times when Easter paraders will sense a cloud passing over the sun. Everyone is trying to take a day off from apprehension, but few will succeed entirely. Many will be wondering: Is this "Paris in the spring?"—the spring of 1939?

Nothing is more incongruous than the Easter pageant against a backdrop of foreboding. Such is the setting of the one this year. It will lack the flamboyancy and upsurge of spirits of the "welcome the boys home" parades. It will lack the $59.75 hats and the tense excitement of the lush and hectic war years. It will have the "new look," the continued romantic finery, the increasing evidence of tightened pocketbook. Above all, it will have overtones of anxiety.

It will also, as usual, have all the glow and promise of Easter—bells pealing with special clear benignancy, flowers flaunting the fresh young yellow, pink and heliotrope of spring, throngs of people with the dressed-up, Easter egg look that sophisticates may scorn, but which is a natural and heartening groping toward a bright new spic and span life.

TOO BAD, say many, that world shadows darken such a pageant, and that they are especially ominous in the land that gave the world Easter. How strange, say others, that our relatively carefree Easters of what we thought was peace have been so few. Still others say, "Let us forget our worries, have our moment of light, music, color, fragrance, comforting devotions and the promise of spring."

Yet this is no 1939 in public attitude. Few people now can be fooled into the assurance that life will go on as usual merely because they are dressing up and going to church and eating Easter dinner (with all the ham they can pay for) as usual. Nor will synthetic gayety or a brush-it-off attitude offer any escape. All these things have been tried during the last decade and found wanting.

Within the last few weeks most Americans have had a cold douche of disillusionment. They have wakened to the fact that for nearly three years they have been living in a phony peace. They know now that there may not be any really stable peace in their time.

The Easter season is the first oasis they have had in their desert of gloom. But though in it they may show the peacock's pride, they are no ostriches. They are beginning at last grapple with the world's threats to peace. There are some few things they can think of with satisfaction when the clouds cross their sun.

ONE OF these is that help is at last moving a little faster toward the world's 200 million children living on starvation diets, or sick, or homeless. The House bill for the European Recovery Program authorizes an appropriation of 60 million dollars for the International Children's Emergency Fund—dependent on other countries making their contributions. And this help for children draws no line of race, religion, nationality or political belief.

Also the Crusade for Children and the American Overseas Aid campaign are getting under way in this country, thus providing people who want to do something about the urgent state of the world a chance to do it in a definite, personal way. Then there is promise the European Recovery Program will be operating soon and that the American vigor, generosity and daring-back of it will begin to reap their rewards in a stronger Europe—a balance wheel for peace.

And despite all the news of conflict that comes from Lake Success, there is the historic achievement at Havana of the drawing up of a charter for an International Trade Organization. Meanwhile delegates of 70 nations meet at Geneva to further the free flow of ideas around the world. Such things, seemingly small beside the dissension that tears the world this spring, show that not all Americans will be parading their Easter finery in a dream world.

Opposition To UMT

In these days of stress one of the critical items of congressional business is universal military training. No one will deny that this is a subject requiring calm objective reasoning. Unfortunately, it is not receiving that kind of attention.

In The Washington Post of March 23, former Supreme Court Justice Owen J. Roberts is quoted as stating before the Senate Armed Services Committee: "the Communist Party is the organized core of opposition to universal military training." This is at once a disappointingly emotional and incorrect statement.

We would refer Mr. Roberts to a story appearing in The Washington Post on March 22. This article concerns a statement by the National Council Against Conscription. The statement was signed by Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago; Dr. H. E. Fosdick, New York clergyman; Dr. A. F. Myers, president of the National Education Association's department of higher education, and the Rev. A. P. Farrell, S. J., associate editor of the Catholic magazine, America.

Mr. Roberts would have us believe that these men, too, were Communists. Statements such as Mr. Roberts' are dangerous because, appealing to the emotions as they do, they may force us into a serious false step. Such statements also cast doubt on the wisdom of the report made by the Citizens' Committee on Universal Military training of which Mr. Roberts was a prominent member.

Washington Calling

Trade With Russia

THE NUMBER of persons in the United States who actually want a war with the Soviet Union must be very small. The number would include a few neurotics with extra-special hate glands who seem to feel that war is necessary to atone for Communist affronts to their honor.

Childs

It might still include some military men who believe in the logic of a preventive war. However, some who might have held such a view now realize that America's swift disarmament and demobilization after VJ-Day undermined the logic of the kind of preventive war that would be quickly ended.

For the overwhelming majority of Americans, the prospect of another war is one of unrelieved dread and horror. What most Americans want to know is how war can be avoided without surrendering our vital security interests in strategic parts of the world.

To Americans still hoping against hope for peace, the actions of certain members of Congress must seem very strange. Those members seem actually to want a war. This is true particularly of those who are determined to stop altogether the current trade between East and West; between Soviet Russia and her satellites on the one hand and western Europe and the United States on the other.

ON THIS score, Herbert Hoover uttered sound common sense in his letter on the ERP bill to Speaker Joseph Martin of the House. If the Marshall Plan countries are to become independent of relief, he wrote, they must trade with the satellite countries. This criticism was aimed specifically at the amendment of Representative Karl Mundt of South Dakota, who would prevent western Europe from sending any goods to eastern Europe if the United States itself barred the shipment of such goods.

This coincides with a Senate investigation, directed by Chairman Homer Ferguson of the special Senate investigating subcommittee, into trade between the United States and the Soviet Union. It is accompanied by emotional and near-hysterical demands that all trade with Russia be severed.

Secretary of Commerce W. Averell Harriman has resisted these demands with the same kind of common sense that marks the Hoover statement. Harriman understands that in cutting all trade relations we would be taking a long step toward eventual war. It would be, in effect, an acceptance of the inevitability of war.

Senator Ferguson has a chance to perform a real service if he insists on making an investigation that is honest and detached. His committee should be able to come up with an answer that will satisfy all but the hysteriacs.

The fact is that the amount of war material, so called, going to Russia is infinitely small. Some property declared surplus by military authorities—a few airplane engines and a few radar sets—has been included. But the important fact is that this was declared surplus and in all probability it is, from the American point of view, obsolete.

Alongside the 12 billion dollars' worth of war material sent to Russia to fight the Germans during the war, it is nothing. The Russians long since acquired working models of anything available in World War II, so there can be no question of secrets.

THOSE WHO talk about chopping off all trade with eastern Europe never mention what we are getting from the U. S. S. R. About 30 per cent of our imports from Russia is in strategic materials—manganese, chrome and platinum, all in scarce supply in this country. Fifty per cent of the trade is in furs. This could probably be cut off, although processing those furs gives employment to about 30,000 Americans. For that matter, we could do without the manganese and chrome.

But that is not the chief point. It is vital to continue and extend the pattern of East-West trade if there is to be recovery and stability in Europe. That trade, so long as we continue to build up our own strength and protect our security interests, cannot be called appeasement.

This question will come up very soon in connection with Poland's application to the International Bank for a loan to develop her coal mines. Great pressure is being brought on the directors of the bank to deny the loan, which would demonstratably get more coal out of the earth.

Those who oppose the loan argue that it is too big a risk, since Russia might prevent the Poles from sending the extra coal to western Europe and the money might be lost. Strangely enough, some of these same men talk about war as though that were not the greatest of all risks—a risk of blood and treasure infinitely greater than ever before. A little more practical sense of the Herbert Hoover brand and less shrill emotionalism would help a lot at the present moment.

N. Y. Printers Are Offered Union Shop Contract Clause

New York, March 26 (AP).—The Publishers Association of New York City today handed local printers an expanded contract proposal, including an offer of compulsory union membership as a condition of continued employment.

The move to bring about an agreement to replace a contract which expires next Wednesday was made in behalf of 14 newspapers in the City to New York-Typographical Union No. 6 of the AFL International Typographical Union.

Chief difference in the expanded proposal over previous proposals to the union was a section dealing with "maximum union security." In it the publishers agreed to "inclusion of a clause making union membership compulsory 30 days following initial employment, upon application by the union."

William Mapel, vice president of the association, said it was anxious to reach an agreement before the contract expires next Wednesday.

The association also proposed that both parties agree to submit to arbitration "all differences that cannot be composed by negotiation." It calls for extension of the present contract to March 31, 1950.

Also proposed is establishment of a special joint supervisory commission composed of two representatives of the union and two for the association. A fifth member would serve as chairman and make majority decisions.

Under the proposal, however, the commission would not serve as substitute for a grievance committee as established in the contract.

The proposal pointed out that the new contract necessarily would differ from previous contracts because of the Taft-Hartley law.

"Specifically," it said, "this agreement eliminates closed shop, struck work and certain other provisions of preceding agreements historically subject to collective bargaining because they no longer are permissible under the Federal law."

Sentiment Against High Taxes Rises With 57% for Reduction

By George Gallup
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J., March 26.—Lighter taxes on 1948 individual incomes, as approved this week by Congress, would be welcomed by a majority of people who filed returns on March 15. Almost six out of ten thought their payments were too high.

Just after their annual bout with the revenue collector thousands of representative taxpayers were asked this question by field reporters of the American Institute of Public Opinion.

Do you consider the amount of income tax which you had to pay as too high, too low, or about right?

The answers of those filing returns:

Too high	57%
Too low	1
About right	38

Lewis Avoids Coal Inquiry

a nice question before it. Under the Taft-Hartley Act, it is to report to the President on the issues of the strike, "including each party's statement of its position."

To get court action forcing Lewis to appear and give his statement of his position would be a long-drawn-out process, clearly impossible in view of the urgency of the situation.

Enough Coal for 25 Days

The Nation's coal supply is estimated equal to not more than 25 days' needs.

Yesterday's sessions were the first of the board of inquiry. Its members, besides Minton, are Louisville publisher Mark Ethridge and University of Pennsylvania Professor George W. Taylor.

They had an organization meeting in the morning, and then announced they were willing to work day and night, over the Easter weekend, if necessary. But after hearing from Lewis that his decision would not be made until Monday, Minton said there was no use of "staring at the walls" for the two intervening days.

Lewis' word to the board came after it began listening to the operators. When the hearings were ended, Minton sent Lewis his reply. It read:

"We interpret your telegram received this date as an indication you will cooperate with the board of inquiry. There will be a meeting at 2 p.m., March 29, 1948, in conference room B, Departmental Auditorium. Please advise us by 10 a.m. of that date whether or not you will voluntarily appear to testify."

The hearings yesterday afternoon were something like a performance of Hamlet without the prince. Two representatives of the soft coal operators and the operators' trustee on the miners' welfare and retirement fund told their story. It all revolved about the man who wasn't there.

Operators Restate Case

With one exception, what they had to say was not new, but rather a restatement of the facts of the two-weeks strike and the issues behind it, as they saw them.

Charles O'Neill, operators' representative, declared that the operators had fulfilled their contract with the miners by paying 10 cents a ton royalty into the welfare fund for each ton of coal mined.

He said the contract provided that the fund's trustees, not the operators, decided how to set up the pension plan and administer the disbursements. O'Neill said the strike violated the contract.

Ezra Van Horn, operators' trustee on the fund, said he tried to get a pension plan set up, but that Lewis insisted on a scheme which was both illegal and beyond the capacity of the fund to support. The issue was eligibility. Lewis wanted a pension of $100 a month for every miner in good union standing who had reached the age of 60 and had 20 years of service in the mines.

Would Air Quondam Miners

But this would include many thousands of miners who had left the mines years ago, and also many miners working for small companies which had not signed the contract and were not contributing royalty payments, Van Horn pointed out.

Actuarial reports showed the cost would be 59 million dollars in the first year for such a plan, whereas the fund would amount to only 50 million dollars a year at the prestrike rate of production.

It was Harry Moses, head of the United States Steel Corporation's mines and representative of all the "captive" mine groups, who had something new to add.

Lewis' Overture Disclosed

He disclosed that as early as January 20, Lewis wrote to Benjamin Fairless, president of United States Steel, and George M. Humphrey, Cleveland steel industry leader, telling of the deadlock over the pension issue, and proposing that they meet with Lewis and bargain it out.

Fairless and Humphrey were the two key figures in obtaining the settlement which led to last year's contract. Lewis, as he has since made clear in other correspondence, apparently assumed that they would have power to come to a decision which the rest of the coal industry would follow.

But Fairless and Humphrey rejected the idea. Fairless wrote that United States Steel controlled only 5 per cent of the Nation's coal, and that Moses, representing captive mines, could speak for only 10 per cent.

Besides, he said, settlement of the pension quarrel rested with the trustees, not the operators. He reminded Lewis that when the contract was being negotiated, the operators wanted to spell out the pension plan. It was at Lewis' insistence, he recalled, that the authority to determine the pensions was delegated to the trustees.

Lewis made his bed, Fairless implied, "but I recognize from the tenor of your letter" that he had no intention of lying in it.

Therefore, Fairless proposed that Lewis call a national conference of all the signatories to the contract, as the contract permitted, and that this conference negotiate the details of the pension plan.

Lewis replied that he dissented from Fairless' views and proposal.

Moses told the board of inquiry that he believed there was no way under the present coal contract for the operators to negotiate a settlement with Lewis. But either side might end the contract, he said, and negotiate a new one, or—in line with Fairless' idea—both sides could agree to negotiate a supplement to the contract prescribing the terms of a pension system.

The Government meanwhile stepped up its efforts to offset effects of the walkout.

Secretary of Interior J. A. Krug ordered all mines still in production to give "top priority" to customers whose facilities are "essential to the health and welfare of the Nation." Such consumers, he said, include gas and power plants, hospitals and food-processing plants.

He also urged community officials and coal dealers to do "everything they possibly can to save supplies for essential needs."

Secretary of Commerce W. Averell Harriman ordered a telegraph survey of all United States industry to determine the effects of the strike. Industrial firms will be asked how their soft-coal supplies are holding out and whether they will have to cut back operations.

In West Virginia

Pickets Stop B & O From Loading Coal

Clarksburg, W. Va., March 26 (AP). Roving mine pickets halted coal loading operations at stock piles on the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad for the second time today.

The railroad had stored coal in anticipation of mine troubles and a B. & O. fuel department officer at headquarters in Baltimore said the supply for locomotives would be "highly critical" in a week.

Six of the stock piles are on the Monongah division in north central West Virginia and Division Superintendent R. A. J. Morrison reported pickets returned today and stopped loading operations at nearby Shinnston.

Yesterday they visited a 17,000-ton pile at Chieftain and stopped the work.

Morrison conferred with picket leaders then and said they promised no further interruptions.

The fuel department official in Baltimore said the system now has but 11½ days of reserve supply, including coal now en route from mines and stock piles to coaling stations on the line.

He contended there is no connection between the current pension dispute and the loading operations. The B. & O. leased tracts near mines and started piling coal several weeks ago. He said it was mined and paid for prior to the walkout which started March 15.

Roving pickets have been active at non-union strip and small shaft mines.

Meat Strike Inquiry Given Week Extra

President Truman yesterday granted the board which is investigating the meat packing strike an additional week's time, from April 1 to April 8, in which to make its report.

The White House said that Nathan P. Feisinger, chairman of the board, reported that he felt additional time would be needed to make the inquiry.

Pickets on Viaduct Halt Refrigerator Cars

Omaha, Nebr., March 26 (U.P.).—An "aerial" picket line today stopped two boxcars loaded with meat from leaving the strike-bound Swift & Co. packing plant.

Pickets had been arrested for trespassing on railway property when they formed picket lines on the railroad tracks leading from the packing plant.

So, instead, they formed a line on a viaduct which crosses over the tracks. Train crewmen recognized it as a picket line and refused to move the train under the viaduct.

The refrigerator cars, loaded with 25,000 pounds of mutton, were ordered back into the Swift & Co. yards.

39 More Meat Pickets Are Arrested in Omaha

Omaha, March 26 (AP).—Thirty-nine more packinghouse strike pickets were arrested in this strike-bound meat center today, bringing the total to 107.

Like the 68 arrested yesterday, some of those arrested today were charged with trespass and some with interfering with traffic.

Meanwhile the 68 arrested yesterday marched en masse today to court for hearings. Judge Lester Palmer in South Side Court and Judge Frank Nimtz in Municipal Court both postponed the hearings to Monday.

United Packinghouse Workers (CIO) officials had said the strikers were instructed to continue picketing of railroad tracks to force a court test of a City Council ban against such picketing.

Action Begun to Void License of Dr. Ladrey

District Court action was begun yesterday to void the District medical license of Dr. Henry M. Ladrey, 220 N st. nw.

In a suit filed for Dr. George C. Ruhland, of the Commission on Licensure and Practice of the Healing Art here, it was stated that the action was taken because in July, 1945, Dr. Ladrey was convicted of a felony.

At that time, the physician was given probation after he was found guilty of offering a Government witness $260 in order to have her not testify against him in an abortion case, in which, according to court records; there was a hung jury.

Bond Denied

Meyers Must Stay in Jail, Court Rules

By Mary Spargo
Post Reporter

The United States Court of Appeals ruled yesterday that Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers will have to stay in jail pending appeal of his conviction for inducing perjury before a Senate subcommittee.

Chief Justice Harold M. Stephens announced that the court voted two to one to deny release on bond to the retired wartime AAF materiel chief.

Stephens said he dissented from the decision of the two associate justices, Bennett Champ Clark and Henry White Edgerton, to deny bail to the 52-year-old retired general.

Legal Point Questioned

Before bail can ge granted, the court must find that "a substantial point of law" is involved in the appeal. In this connection Defense Counsel Robert T. Bushnell argued that the Senate War Investigating Subcommittee had not been legally established.

District Attorney George Morris Fay called defense arguments on this point "frivolous" and asserted that the Government did not believe there was even "a reasonably debatable question" involved.

"I do not assert there is any reversible error," Judge Stephens said, "but I believe a reasonably debatable question is involved. The other two members of the court, however, believe there is no substantial point of law involved, and had no option but to deny bond."

Meyers Called Victim

Bushnell shouted to the judges that his client had been "the victim of a furor created by the newspapers, which have made him the most hated man in America."

He said he hoped to have the appeal on the May docket of the court. Until then, Meyers must stay in jail. His third wife, a pretty blond former Hollywood bit player, appeared dazed when informed of the decision to keep Meyers in jail.

Capital Transit Earns $8227 In February

By S. Oliver Goodman

Convalescing slowly, Capital Transit Co. showed further income improvement in February.

Net income for the month totaled $8227, against a deficit of $110,308 in February, 1947. This brought net for the first two months this year to $12,749, compared with a net loss of $149,297 in same 1947 period.

Strong medicine has been applied to bring the transit firm out of the red. Operating expenses in February were reduced $36,442. Streetcar mileage was slashed 3,472,642 or 7.8 per cent under the same month last year. Bus mileage was cut 181,984, or 9.5 per cent.

Comparisons, of course, were affected favorably by February this year having 29 days.

SAVINGS GAIN: A 25-million-dollar increase in savings share accounts of the 27 member associations of the District of Columbia Building and Loan League was reported yesterday by F. Willson Camp, league secretary. The total stood at 274 million on February 29, against 249 million a year ago. More than 165,000 individual accounts are on the books, he added.

WHO'S WHO TODAY: Howard C. Adams has been appointed general agent of the new Washington office of Pacific Far East Line, Inc. . . . J. H. Yarrow has joined Travel, Inc., Washington, as a vice president in charge of office management . . . P. W. Budworth, former director of Government contracts in Washington for Frigidaire, has been elevated to ice cream cabinet sales manager . . . William F. Harvey, Joseph H. Horrigan, David Rosenberg and Samuel J. Sugar, all of Washington, have qualified to attend a Florida conference of Penn Mutual Life Insurance Co. . . . Joseph A. Bresse has joined J. D. Marsh & Associates, Washington representatives of Lincoln National Life Insurance Co.

HOLIDAY: Security commodity markets were closed yesterday in observance of Good Friday. They will resume operation today for the short session.

ODD LOTS: Southern Railway Co. reports net income of $2,542,284 for first two months this year, against $1,842,171 in like 1947 period . . . A plan for dissolution of the half-billion-dollar Electric Power & Light Corp. has been filed with SEC . . . Atlantic Life Insurance Co. of Richmond showed increase of $21,685,185 in new insurance for 1947, Washington Agent W. Neal McCord reported . . . Newspaper advertising linage in 52 cities increased 15.5 in first two months this year, Media Records reported.

WOOL OUTLOOK: Any increase in military orders for wool textiles will mean an immediate cut in production for civilian use, Botany Mills, Inc., said. Charles F. H. Johnson, jr., vice president and general manager, said the industry is running at top speed to meet civilian orders on hand and that there is an acute shortage of types of wool needed to fill orders. "There are no inventories of wool to be applied to military production, and there is no available machinery, unless both are taken from existing and potential civilian requirements," Johnson stated.

EARNINGS: Sterling Drug Inc. reported net income of $12,058,903 for 1947, equal to $3.08 a common share, compared with $13,939,073 or $3.60 a share in 1946. Other income reports follow:

Pepco to Ask Rate Boost Soon; Cites 'Alarming' Cost Rise

By James E. Ficken
Post Reporter

A boost in electricity rates here may be sought "in the very near future," the Potomac Electric Power Co. told the Public Utilities Commission yesterday.

Income insufficient to meet rising operating costs may force the rate boost request before the company can gain relief under PUC's new rate regulation formula, Pepco President A. G. Neal said in a letter to the commission.

PUC Chairman James H. Flanagan released the letter without comment.

The new formula, approved by PUC February 20, provides for a reserve fund from which Pepco may draw in lean years or consumers obtain refunds in extra good years.

Adjustments from the fund to Pepco or its consumers would be made in November, based on the company's annual income computed on the basis of September earnings.

Neal said that in 1947 the company made $401,413 less than its "fair return" of 5½ per cent on capital investment. It would require 56 per cent of the reserve funds to make up this deficit alone, he pointed out.

(The reserve fund now totals approximately $713,511, consisting of funds earmarked for possible refund to customers beginning in 1945.)

Successful operation of the new formula, Neal argued, will require electrical rates high enough to produce "at least the basic return" when the plan begins to function.

Neal called the new formula "a constructive step forward" but said it contained no means for the company to meet losses not covered by the reserve fund. The plan won't work properly, he held, unless some means is provided for the company to recover such losses in subsequent good years from funds which ordinarily would be returned to consumers.

"Costs of operation have continued to rise at an alarming rate," since last November, Neal said. "Coupled with this condition, additional generating equipment, costing approximately six million dollars and other facilities were placed into operation by the company in 1947."

This additional capital investment makes necessary "a substantial addition" to the amount which the company must earn to make its allowed return, he warned.

The company "reluctantly" concludes, he said, that it may be forced to seek the rate raise soon as accompanying the formula-setting order.

Easter Sales Show Revival In Week on Mild Weather

Favorable weather has spurted Easter sales, local and national reports indicated last night.

Washington department store sales in the week ended March 20 were 6 per cent higher than a year ago, the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond said. In the Fifth Federal Reserve District, sales improved 7 per cent and nationally, dollar volume for the week was reported 9 per cent higher.

Meanwhile, the Associated Press in a national survey said an upsurge in Easter trade through the United States this week gave merchants some hope that the year's slow buying pace is quickening.

Deferred Buying Noted

Mild weather was the strongest incentive to buy, merchants said. Delayed purchases during earlier bad weather added to the total.

Starting last Saturday the public began its belated Easter purchases with a rush. There are indications from most sections of the country that the high level continued well into the week. Price reductions and pre-Easter sales were not in evidence as a buying stimulant.

After Easter it is customary for merchants to offer special merchandise stressing better values. They are planning to bring the public into their stores in steadily increasing numbers through the entire month. Thus they hope to make March-April as a whole superior to the previous year.

Trade attention still was focused on shoes for an indication of public reaction to lower prices. During the week International Shoe Co., the largest producer, cut prices 5 to 50 cents a pair on unfilled orders for spring delivery. Fall prices have not been announced. Some other large manufacturers previously lowered prices. Cuts have not been substantial.

Wide Cuts Not Expected

Trade sources gave a mixed interpretation. Some said the present shoe trend will bring lower post-Easter retail prices and special sales. Others said the small reduction by International gave notice that large widespread cuts would not be made. All agreed retail prices will depend on future wholesale hide and leather prices, which at present are firm due to the packing strike.

One of the most inteesting retail trade developments is the public acceptance of the Nation's mobilization plans. Trade observers say if the public rushes to buy in fear of shortages, the whole orderly pattern of retailing would be upset. So far, the public has not rushed into panic buying.

Dun & Brandstreet's review noted "a sharp increase in demand for apparel this week" with medium-priced lines getting most attention. "Many shoppers continued to shun expensive apparel and low-quality goods."

In wholesaling, the review said: "While there was the usual pre-Easter dip in new order volume in the week ended Wednesday, numerous reorders were placed. Total volume was close to the high level of a year ago. It declined moderately from that of the previous week."

Atlantic Refining Net Soars 65 Pct. On Record Sales

Philadelphia, March 26 (AP).—The Atlantic Refining Co. said today its 1947 net earnings were up 65 per cent and sales increased 23 per cent over the 1946 figures.

"For the first time our refineries processed in one year more than 50 million barrels of crude oil, nearly 5 million more than the previous record," the company told stockholders in its annual report.

The 1947 net income was $15,897,652, equal to $5.32 per common share, compared to $9,633,626 or $3.26 a share in 1946.

Part of the increase in earnings, the company reported, resulted from "the sharpest and most prolonged rise in prices which has occurred during the last 25 years."

President Robert H. Colley discussed the tight supply-demand situation.

He said "never were capital expenditures for petroleum so much needed or made so rapidly as during the last two years. Partly because of the pressing need and partly because of the reduced purchasing power of the dollar, the industry spent about as much last year as it spent in three years before the war."

Rail Merger Order Affirmed By ICC

By The Associated Press

The Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday affirmed a 1947 order for merger of the Florida East Coast Line Railroad.

On a 6-to-5 division, it refused to set aside its finding of April 8, 1947, that a reorganization for Florida East Coast could best be carried out by consolidating it with ACL.

The St. Joe Paper Co. and other interests had challenged that finding. The paper company is a major holder of Florida East Coast bonds. It sought to obtain control of the road to permit independent operation.

Commissioner Mahaffie, in a sharp dissent to the Atlantic Coast Line merger plan, said:

"The report now issued is likely to prolong the controversy."

He was joined in this view by Chairman Lee and Commissioners Miller, Splawn and Mitchell.

Patterson Elected To IBM Board

New York, March 26 (AP).—Former Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson today was elected a director of International Business Machines Corp.

Head of the New York law firm of Patterson, Belknap and Webb, he has served on the Federal Bench for the Southern District of New York and as a justice of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

Pan American Parley to Plan Defense Unit

Bogota, Colombia, March 26 (U.P.)—Creation of a permanent Inter-American Defense Council to enforce the hemisphere defense treaty will be one of the main tasks of the ninth Pan-American Conference opening here next Tuesday, conference officials said today.

The All-American meeting also will discuss a proposed "constitution of the Inter-American system," incorporating the main features of previous hemisphere agreements, and lay plans for the Pan-American economic conference scheduled later this year.

The primary emphasis is on military affairs, and the conference is expected to spend much of its time in discussion of various aspects of the military organization of the hemisphere, especially the proposed defense council.

Marshall to Leave Sunday for Parley

Secretary of State Marshall plans to leave Sunday night for Bogota, Colombia, to attend the Inter-American Conference. He will head the United State delegation there.

The State Department said yesterday Marshall will leave by plane about 9 p. m. (EST). He is scheduled to stop in Florida to pick up Secretary of Commerce Harriman.

Assistant Secretary of State Norman Armour and others will leave for Bogota Saturday night in two planes. The delegation will number about 50.

Treasury Nets 23 Million on Guaranty Fees

The Treasury picked up a net profit of 23 million dollars in guaranteeing loans of private banks to finance war production contractors.

Secretary of Treasury Snyder disclosed this yesterday in announcing that the guarantee program has "practically terminated" with the loan periods running out.

Nearly 9000 loans involving about $10,350,000,000 were guaranteed during the war and post-war periods. These helped to mobilize the Nation's industrial plants for war production and ease the strain of postwar readjustment.

The Treasury took in 35 million dollars in guaranty fees and interest through last December 31.

This amount was reduced by $6,700,000 in losses; and by $5,300,000 for expenses of the Federal Reserve Banks in administering the program, plus interest paid out under guaranty agreements.

Monopoly
$40,000 Paid In Safeway Case Fines

Kansas City, Kans., March 26 (AP).—The Government's case charging the Safeway Stores, Inc., eight subsidiaries and 13 officials with conspiracy to restrain and monopolize trade was settled in Federal Court today with payment of fines totaling $40,000.

The charges on two counts, conspiracy to restrain trade and conspiracy to monopolize trade, were filed in 1943. Charges against eight other subsidiaries of the company were dismissed May 22, 1943.

Fines totaling $40,000 were assessed against these six defendants, three firms and three individuals, all of whom entered defense pleas today before Federal District Judge Arthur J. Mellott.

The Safeway Stores, Inc., of Maryland, with headquarters at Reno, Nev.; the Sutter Packing Co. of Palo Alto, Calif.; the Arizona Grocery Co. of Phoenix, Ariz.; L. A. Warren, Oakland, Calif., president and treasurer of Safeway; A. G. Kirkland, Oakland, a vice president, and C. N. Sanders, Oakland, a vice president and a director.

Charges against 10 defendants were dismissed with prejudice when they filed pleas of innocent.

The Safeway Stores, Inc., issued a statement, stating Safeway "has accepted with considerable reluctance a compromise conclusion to the Government's antitrust case, as a means of saving many months of time to the company's executive and other personnel, and tremendous sums in trial costs. . . .

"We believe that the agreement by the Government to dismiss the charges against a majority of the defendants and to accept the nolo contendere pleas from the remainder represents substantial proof of our innocence of any law violation."

Those against whom the charges were dismissed today upon innocent pleas were Lawrence Giles, a former vice president of Safeway; R. L. Buchanan, a Safeway division manager; F. O. Burns, a former Safeway division manager; J. R. French, a Safeway department manager; Dwight Edwards, a Safeway division manager; W. L. Harrison, a Safeway division manager; M. L. Langford, a Safeway division manager; Frank Pringle, a Safeway division manager; Ralph Pringle, a Safeway division manager, and V. O. Stockland, a Safeway department manager.

Certificate of Suicide Issued for Montgomery

A certificate of suicide was issued yesterday in the death of Nebil Montgomery, 42, 5703 Colorado ave. nw., whose body was found Wednesday in his locked, gas-filled automobile.

A length of hose had been attached to the exhaust pipe and extended through the trunk compartment into the back seat of the car, parked near 18th st. and Colorado ave. nw.

Miss Lenroot to Aid Child Victims of War

Miss Katherine F. Lenroot, United States Children's Bureau head, will share leadership of the local campaign of American Overseas Aid-United Nations Appeal for Children.

Her acceptance as cochairman was announced yesterday by Wayne Chatfield Taylor, with whom she will serve. AOA-USNAC is seeking 60 million dollars nationally to aid distressed victims in war-ravaged lands.

Pity Poor Molly: 20 Generations, And Not One Male

New Orleans, La., March 26 (AP).—Pity little Mollienisia Formosa—Amazon Molly for short.

Dr. Carl Hubbs, president of the American Society of Ichthyologists and Herpetologists, said today it was Molly's fate to have no proper mate.

He told the I&H convention that he had carried a study of Molly, a 2-inch black tropical fish and cousin of the guppy, through 20 generations and never had found a male.

Molly, he said, depends on male fish of other species for fertilization. The results, he added, are females.

Damrosch Resigns Academy Presidency

New York, March 26 (U.P.).—Dr. Walter Damrosch, 86-year-old composer and conductor, resigned as president of the American Academy of Arts and Letters today.

Paul Manship, American sculptor, was appointed to the post.

Gallic 'Crosby' Too Slapstick

By Richard L. Coe

"A CAGE OF NIGHTINGALES," at the Little, is a simple French film about how an understanding teacher brings contentment to a reform school through the pleasures of group singing.

It is a pleasant, likable film, but it is by no means one of the great French pictures. For one thing it suggests "Boys' Town" and "Going My Way." For another, in its rather intricate telling, the curiously disjointed career of the teacher leads him from farcical adventures as a sandwich man to a contrived wedding sequence.

This flaw lies with the star, Noel-Noel, who had a hand in the script. The redundantly named Noel-Noel is known chiefly as a farceur and comic; it has been his evident idea to write a part for himself along the lines of a Bing Crosby role. But his gauche behavior in the farcical situations hardly fits with the perceptive diary he writes which, when published, presumably has a good effect on the reformatory.

This misleading framework apart, the essential story is winning and often charming. By "Cage of Nightingales," the film means the dour school where orphans and delinquents are looked after by shabby benevolence. The boys are an obstreperous lot but they do become nightingales when Noel-Noel teaches them the pleasures of choral singing. As the Old Testament puts it, "Behold how good and joyful a thing it is, brethren, to sing together in unison."

Choir Visited Washington Recently

The boys are effectively played by members of the Little Singers of the Wooden Cross, a 40-year-old French organization of boy choristers who appeared in Washington a few months ago. Those who attended their concert pointed out that the French lads were no better than some of our own boy choirs. Their tone certainly lacks the splendid quality of the Mitchell Boychoir, recently heard in "The Bishop's Wife."

Once over the early frame of the story, Noel-Noel is finely sympathetic as the teacher. He stresses the man's quiet, discerning qualities and it is in this that "A Cage of Nightingales" is at its best.

Edwin Denby's English subtitles avoid most of the pitfalls of that demanding assignment and the frugal French have turned their meager production facilities to skilled account. "A Cage of Nightingales" is pleasant and diverting without being outstanding.

"LA CAGE AUX ROSSIGNOLS" ("A Cage of Nightingales") released in this country by Lopert Films, Inc. Screen play by Noel-Noel and Rene Wheeler from a story by Wheeler and Georges Chaperot. Directed by Jean Dreville. Produced in France by Gaumont-Paris. At the Little.

THE CAST:

Clement Mathiez ..... Noel-Noel
Martine ..... Micheline Francey
Her Mother ..... Marguerite Ducouret
Raymond ..... Georges Biscot
Mazence ..... Rene Genin
Rachin ..... Rene Blancard
The "Bad" Boy ..... Roger Laugier
And the boys of The Little Singers of the Wooden Cross.

GENE AUTRY and his Champion will be paying a two-day visit to the Uline Arena Saturday and Sunday, April 10 and 11 . . . This time the Western star will offer, instead of his usual rodeo, a Western variety show with players from his pictures in the top spots . . . There'll be matinees both days at 2:30 . . . Tickets now at Uline's or the Fairway, 1328 G st.

E. M. LOEW'S Open-Air drive-in theater opens its season Sunday night at 7 o'clock . . . New equipment has been added to the area's oldest drive-in—3 miles below Alexandria on the Richmond highway . . . Autos and kids are free; there's a half-buck charge for adults—including the driver, silly . . . The opening bill runs through Wednesday—Alan Ladd and Gail Russell in "Calcutta" and Jean Porter with the Jerry Wald orchestra in "Little Miss Broadway."

THE FIRST 10,000 fans of Roy Rogers to see the cowboy box office king at the Metropolitan are being given colored photos of the star . . . That's a lot of photos, but with a Rogers film sharing the screen with the bird-chucked Trucolor film, "Bill and Coo," the Met probably will run out before the week's over . . . The Rogers picture is "Under California Skies," with Roy's pal Trigger heading the featured players.

SPIKE JONES and his crew, winding up a two-week stay tonight at the National, do have a Russian successor to "Der Fuehrer's Face," but they aren't letting loose with it via records because they're still hoping the international set will straighten itself out.

REVIVALS: "Man of Aran" is tonight's bill at International Student House, 1825 R st. . . . Tomorrow night "Destry Rides Again," the Marlene Dietrich-James Stewart Western, will be shown by Community Education, Inc., 914 20th st., where the phone is Executive 8901.

OPENINGS: Three new pictures arrive today besides the Little's "A Cage of Nightingales" . . . At the Warner you'll find Jack Carson and Ann Sothern in "April Showers" and a packet of nostalgic songs . . . "I Remember Mama" opens at Keith's and will be reviewed in these pages Sunday . . . "Volpone," an adaptation of the Ben Jonson comedy by Jules Romains and Stefan Zweig, arrives at the Hippodrome.

THE LEADING PLAYERS: Here are "Bill and Coo" of the Metropolitan's Trucolor screen feature—a story told by an all-bird cast. The Metropolitan also is showing Roy Rogers and Trigger in "Under California Stars"

Embassy Gets April Penny Milk Contract

Embassy Dairy has been awarded a contract to supply penny milk for District schools during April, and is low bidder on the District institution milk contract for April, District Purchasing Officer Roland Brennan said yesterday.

The penny milk contract was at the rate of 4.99 cents a half-pint, as compared with a March price of five and a third cents, Brennan said. Of this, the Federal Government pays 2 cents, the child, 1 cent, and the District pays the remainder, or 1.99 cents in April.

The District is paying $17,600 for its institution milk contract for March, and Brennan said April bids on this contract first were down to $17,345, but were rejected "because we thought there should be more of a reduction at this time of year." On a second round of bidding, Embassy bid $15,745.

This will net the District savings as high as 8 cents a gallon on homogenized milk alone, Brennan said, on a price of 59 cents, as compared with the March price of 67 cents a gallon.

Fighting Flares In Costa Rica

San Jose, Costa Rica, March 26 (AP).—Heavy fighting developed today at Dominical, on the Pacific Coast, in Costa Rica's civil war.

Dominical is approximately 50 miles by air southeast of San Jose. Government troops established a beachhead there last week to launch an attack on Rebel Leader Jose Figueres.

Government forces appealed for an ambulance plane and doctors, but later messaged that fighting was so intense that it was unsafe for a plane to land. The message was intercepted by the underground radio.

Ratifies U. N.'s Health Project

Russia jumped in to ratify its membership in the U. N.'s World Health Organization Thursday while American ratification was bottled up in the House Rules Committee.

News of the Soviet ratification was announced at United Nations headquarters at Lake Success, N. Y. It meant that unless the Rules Committee reversed its decision, Russia would take part in the organization's first meeting at Geneva next June and the United States would not.

The Health Organization, one of the U. N.'s specialized agencies, was created to improve health standards and fight epidemic diseases throughout the world. The United States, Russia and 59 other countries signed its constitution in 1946.

"EVERY LAUGH A BLUSH!"
WALTER WINCHELL

"Merci! Mr. McCarten for your magnificent review in THE NEW YORKER"

Great Fun from France

IT'S been a long, long time since any picture has made me laugh as much as "Volpone," a French film that does complete justice to Ben Jonson's play about an antic miser. The screen adaptation, by Jules Romains and Stefan Zweig, takes a number of liberties with the Master's work, but all of them point up the comic nature of his ideas, and I'm sure that Jonson would have approved of every one of them. The piece has the sort of free-wheeling, slapstick air that used to characterize movie comedies in the days before they became articulate and began to substitute dull dialogue for pantomime.

There is also plenty of straightforward ribaldry, and a marvellous grab-bag style about the costumes, which look as if all hands had let their sartorial imagination run wild at a rummage sale. As the miser who pretends to be dying just to see how his pals will act, Harry Baur (whose own death is not the least of the crimes the Nazis are accountable for) is the most satisfactory Volpone you ever laid your eyes on, and it is embarrassing to think that there isn't a movie actor in America who could stay within range of the same camera with him and not be reduced to inconsequentiality. The cast that romps through "Volpone" with M. Baur, however, is worthy of him. The fine French talent for making each character in a film an unmistakable individual is almost everywhere apparent; in fact, only Fernand Ledoux, as Corvino, the gentleman who offers his wife to Volpone to ensure a mention in his will, merits a bit of censure, since his performance isn't quite up to the standards of the company he keeps. I could, I suppose, describe all kinds of scenes that might amuse you, but I'll confine myself to mentioning a trial in which a supposed invalid is accused of rape and a policeman is wonderfully droll in his inability to understand why anyone should shout about a seduction in Venice. Well, altogether, "Volpone" is hilarious and you certainly ought to see it. Besides M. Baur, the picture prominently displays Louis Jouvet, who plays Mosca with enormous dash, Jean Temerson (Voltore), Charles Dullin (Corbaccio), and a pair of handsome ladies named Marion Dorian and Jacqueline Delubac.

Uline Reconsiders, Will Operate Caps Next Season

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

ORLANDO, FLA., March 26.—Jake Early, whose real name is Jake Early, and whose folks never did go in for anything fancy back in Kings Mountain, N. C., is a member of the Nats again. Their loudest member, it may be added. From the Browns, the Nats have reclaimed the league's most willing if not best vocalist.

POVICH

With Jake on the team again, it may not be a more abundant life for the Nats, but it will be a more interesting one. Jake performs as he catches. He's the only catcher in the league who ever made Ted Williams laugh himself out. Williams once dropped his bat, the better to hold his sides after one of Early's renditions of "Turkey in the Straw," or it might have been "You Are My Sunshine."

Jake hath music to soothe the savage hitters. When young Gil Coan came up from Chattanooga last fall and launched a hitting streak, Jake stopped him cold with his own copyrighted chant of the tobacco auctioneer. He gave it to Coan until the count reached three and two, and then babbled throughout the next wind-up, and until he had the strikeout pitch safely in his mitt, whereupon he dismissed Coan with a loud punch line—"Sold, Chattanooga."

In the stillness of a Monday afternoon in Griffith Stadium when the pews are mostly empty and the receipts will scarcely pay the park help, Jake's renditions come out clear-cut, even as far as the press box.

WILLIAMS AND GEORGE McQUINN were his pet audience To McQuinn he used to give the Radio Routine. "Here it comes, a high fast ball." Jake would say as the pitcher let fly, "and McQuinn takes it," and McQuinn did. "Now the windup, now the pitch, and it's down the middle and McQuinn takes it with his bat on his shoulder" Jake would say, and McQuinn would be so busy listening, he would take it.

All Jake needed was two strikes against McQuinn. The third one would be of his own making. "And McQuinn swings, and he's out," Jake would roar from behind his mask as the ball left the pitcher's hand, and by that time McQuinn was in a tizzy, he was a set-up for a curve ball.

Which isn't to say Jake isn't a pretty good catcher. Back in 1942, he was just about the best in the American League. Joe McCarthy thought so, anyway. He named Jake as his starting catcher in the All-Star game at Philadelphia, and worked him the whole nine innings. If he wasn't a better catcher than the fading Bill Dickey, one distinction Jake could claim, he had a better throwing arm than Dickey or anybody else of recent catching history in the American League.

THAT STILL GOES for Jake. He still has the best throwing arm in the league. Nobody crowds a base runner like Early. George Case used to say when he was leading the league in stolen bases that he was glad he didn't have to run against Jake.

Early not only could throw, he loved to throw, was never happier than when he could cut loose at some misguided base runner who was trying to steal or take an extra base.

When he did become the league's All-Star catcher a few years ago, it was the end of a long haul for Jake. He was probably the worst catcher who ever broke into the majors when the Nats brought him up from Charlotte in 1939. Every pop foul was a death struggle for Jake. It was even money that Jake would muff it or get conked on the head. They used to rib him by handing Jake one of those reinforced skull caps that were in vogue among batters after Lamar Newsome was almost killed by a pitched ball.

He used to be a pretty good hitter, until his vision dimmed a bit and he had to wear glasses. He's still a threat, but not the guy who always threatened to hit .300. Three years in the Army didn't do him any good, either. Jake's slow, now, but his throwing arm is all right still, and when Jake cocks it, as he likes to do whenever a runner is on base, he's daring the guy to go.

ZINN BECK, a scout for the Nats' Chattanooga farm, found Jake playing part-time ball down in the Carolina Textile League in 1936 and running a loom during the morning hours. Beck must have liked something about the lad, because he gave him $150 a month and sent him to Jacksonville. Charlotte got him the next year and in 1938 he was the best catcher in the Piedmont League, and helped that club to the pennant.

Billy Evans, chief scout of the Red Sox, watched Jake for a solid week at Charlotte and then wired Clark Griffith an offer of $25,000 for his Class B catcher. Whether or not Griffith was tempted, he turned it down. He brought Jake up to the Nats in 1939, and then wondered why the Red Sox had offered 25 grand for him. Jake couldn't catch a pop foul in a fireman's net.

But he learned. You could count on your thumbs the catchers who were better than Early in the American League for a period of three seasons before the war. Griffith traded him to the Browns for Frank Mancuso before the 1947 season and was badly stung. The more he saw of Mancuso the more he yearned for Jake, whose hollering at least would keep the Griffith Stadium fans awake.

Rossano KO's Giosa in First; Hursey Loses

New York, N. Y., March 26 (U.P.).—Rocco Rossano, Brooklyn welterweight, knocked out Eddie Giosa of Philadelphia at 1:33 of the first round tonight before a crowd estimated at 10,000 in Madison Square Garden.

Giosa was counted out by Referee Eddie Joseph when he was on the floor for the second time. Straight rights to the chin had caused both trips to the deck.

In another 10-rounder, Johnny Williams, brown-skinned lightweight of Montgomery, Ala., won an upset split decision over Freddy Dawson of Chicago.

In the third bout of the trifeature card, Harold Green, Brooklyn middleweight, won a split eight-round decision over Smuggy Hursey of Washington, D. C. The bout was limited to eight rounds because Hursey is only 19 years old.

The Green-Hursey bout was a thriller. Green floored Hursey in the fourth round with a left hook to the body for a count of one. That was the lone knockdown of the brawl in which they belted each other about the ring from gong to gong. Green suffered a gashed left brow in the third round, and he lost the seventh on a foul for low blows. Green weighed 155¾, Hursey 158½.

The bout was closely contested and the crowd booed the decision long and loud. Because of the continuing din, the announcer was unable to introduce the participants in the following bout, which went on without the ceremony.

Hursey fought as a substitute for Rocky Castellani of Luzerne, Pa., who was injured in training.

Pirates Buy Gutteridge

San Francisco, Calif., March 26 (AP).—The Pittsburgh Pirates said today they have purchased Infielder Don Gutteridge from the Boston Red Sox for the waiver price.

The 35-year-old Gutteridge is a former member of the St. Louis Cardinals. His major league career dates back to 1936. Manager Billy Meyer said he plans to use him as a utility infielder.

Gutteridge was with the Cards until 1941 when he was sent to Sacramento of the Pacific Coast League. He was bought by the St. Louis Browns the following year.

In 1945 he managed Toledo of the American Association. The Red Sox purchased him in July, 1946. Last season he was used in 54 games, mostly at second and third. He made 22 hits in 131 times at bat, finishing with a .168 average.

Nats Swamp Barons, 10-3; Jake Early Back in Fold

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

Orlando, Fla., March 26.—The Nats found a team they could lick today and poured it on the Birmingham Barons of the Southern Association, with seven runs in the eighth inning. They snatched a 10-3 victory out of what had been a 3-3 tie for seven innings.

That was the afternoon feature of life in the Washington training camp. The morning had been somewhat enlivened by the club's announcement that Catcher Jake Early had been rebought from the Browns at the $10,000 waiver price.

Early is flying in from the Browns' San Bernardino (Calif.) training camp to rejoin the Nats, with whom he spent the first eight seasons of his major league career. His purchase was dictated by the unimpressive showing of the Nats' rookie catchers. The suspicion is that everything may be Jake with the Washington catching now. He may supplant Al Evans as the No. 1 catcher.

Griff Rued Trade

Clark Griffith last year rued the trade that sent Early to the Browns in a swap for the disappointing Frank Mancuso, since released to the minors. Despite the fact that Early hit only .223 with the Browns last season, the club missed his accurate throwing arm and aggressiveness behind the plate. Early will be 33 in May.

Early's purchase caused a reshuffling in Manager Joe Kuhel's catching plans.

Previously he announced that Andreas Fleitas, the Cuban with Triple A League experience would be retained as the No. 2 backstop. Now he will release Fleitas to Chattanooga.

Nats Rally Late

Today's game with Birmingham was no breeze for the Nats. In fact, they were trailing, 3-1, until the sixth inning, with the Barons pounding Scott Carey for two runs in the first three innings and getting another off veteran Tom Ferrick in the second three. Rookie Dick Welteroth did better. He gave up only one hit and no runs in the last nthree.

In the seventh, 11 Nats went to bat against Ken Rogers and his successor, another right-hander named John Orphal—and that he was. Yost, Evans and Meeks pounded Rogers for hits and, after Kozar drew a walk, Orphal moved in. He pitched four consecutive singles to Coan, Robertson, Vernon and Yost before he got anybody out.

THE NATS ORDERED Shortstop Sam Meeks up from the Chattanooga club for another look at him, and he did all right today . . . He singled twice in four times at bat, and on the only fielding chance he had, he started a nifty double play. He may be a threat to Johnny Sullivan's shortstop job . . . The Nats got 14 hits today but they were no power club. All hits were singles . . . Walter Masterson took a turn in batting practice before the game, and registered no pain in the sore shoulder that had bother him . . . The injury list of the Nats is sizable, though, numbering eight . . . Culberson has a lame ankle, although X-rays today showed no breaks; Yost has a sore arm, Difani a charley horse, Kozar is lame in an arm and leg; Christman has a jammed wrist, McBride a sore shoulder, Thompson a Charley Horse, and Lyons a painful shoulder . . . Tomorrow the Nats shove off for battles with the Tigers at Lakeland, and the Red Sox at Sarasota on consecutive afternoons . . . You're all invited to a fish-fry with the Washington players Thursday night at Tinker Field.

Driskill Talks To Colt Heads

Baltimore, March 26 (AP).—Walter Driskill, assistant University of Oklahoma football coach, was one of two "prospects" interviewed today for the post of general manager of the Baltimore All-America Conference club.

Driskill said he was back in Maryland to move his family to Oklahoma. They have been staying in Alexandria, Va., since Driskill resigned last month as assistant coach at the University of Maryland to take the Oklahoma job.

"I am entirely happy where I am, and I am not seeking any new position," Driskill insisted. He said he will return to Oklahoma tomorrow.

However, Driskill and Clem Spring, a local football promoter, consulted with Howard Burick, chairman of a 15-businessman committee reorganizing the Colts.

Joe Lynch, director of the Thoroughbred Racing Protective Bureau in Maryland and Florida, previously had been mentioned for the general manager's job. It was reported the committee expected to name its choice next week.

Oxford-Cambridge Boat Race Today

London, March 26 (AP).—Half a million Londoners will line the banks of the River Thames tomorrow to watch the annual boat race between Oxford and Cambridge in a series dating back to 1829.

So far, Cambridge has won 49 of the 93 official races on the Thames. Oxford has wone 43. Oxford is favored this year.

Yanks Wallop Red Sox, 7-2; Yogi Berra, Reynolds Hurt

Sarasota, Fla., March 26 (AP).—The New York Yankees came up with a typical big inning today to win their third game in four starts against the Boston Red Sox, 7 to 2.

The victory, however, may prove costly, as two Yankee regulars were injured. Catcher Yogi Berra, back in action for the first time in almost two weeks, respained his left foot in the first inning. Then Pitcher Allie Reynolds, who worked the first five innings, suffered a painful bruise above the left elbow when he was hit by a pitched ball by Ellis Kinder.

Harbert Takes Lead With 66

Charlotte, N. C., March 26 (AP).—Chick Harbert, Detroit, Mich., professional, today scored his second successive six-under-par 66 to lead the $10,000 Charlotte Open Golf tournament by one stroke at the halfway mark with a 132 total.

He was one stroke thead of Lawson Little, Cleveland, Ohio, who had 65 today for 133. Back of Little were Amateur Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, and Cary Middlecoff, Memphis, Tenn., each with a pair of 67's for 134.

Pete Cooper, Ponte Vedra, Fla., the first-round leader, held fifth place with 70 for 135.

Lew Worsham, National Open champion from Washington, D. C., was five strokes off the pace with a 36-hole total of 137. He had a 68 today.

Ralph Bobart, Washington, D. C., amateur, shot a 74 to bring his total to 148. Otto Greiner, Baltimore, hit a 72 for a 36-hole total of 143. Chandler Harper, Portsmouth, Va., withdrew from the tournament after shooting a first round 73.

He Who Laughs Last

Rock Creek Golfer Recalls '2d-Story Job' for Par Four

By Roger Wolbarst
Post Reporter

R. J. (JACK) SINCLAIR, who calls himself a "once-e-week golfer," will never forget a shot he made on the ninth hole at Rock Creek golf course 10 years ago.

Sinclair, who lives at 2605 Adams Mill rd. nw., was playing in a four-ball match with friends for a sizeable stake. It was a nip-and-tuck affair and the men were concentrating on every stroke.

After hitting a poor drive off the ninth tee, Sinclair smacked a long shot. The wind caught the ball and deposited it on the roof of the clubhouse, adjacent to the green.

Jack couldn't afford a penalty stroke, so he climbed onto the roof via a clubhouse window, despite the laughter of his friends. Using a niblick, he chipped the ball onto the green, 20 feet from the pin.

Then, while the other members of his foursome watched open-mouthed, he dropped the putt for a par four. At that point, his opponents, who had been jeering at his plight only a few minutes previous, claimed that he should have had a penalty stroke anyway, but the club rules backed him up and his par stood.

Mel Shorey, Indian Spring pro, is bemoaning the loss of one of his star pupils, Jay Wolf. The 18-year-old Wolf has decided to continue his studies this summer as he is preparing to enter Harvard University this fall. The Indian Spring Golf team will miss Wolf's services. . . . Columbia Country Club's golf committee is holding a dinner meeting April 7 at the club. Among business to be discussed are the club's summer tournaments . . . Charlotte Decker, one of the area's leading woman tennis players, is rapidly developing into a good golfer. She has only been playing golf a few years, but may soon match her tennis form on the links . . . Al Burton, now starting his sixteenth year as pro at Army-Navy, has a co-pro his father-in-law, Sandy Douglas. Sandy held down the Army-Navy job alone while Al was in the Marine Corps from 1942-1945.

Mixup Shifts Hoya Game to Tulsa Again

Since college football doubleheaders aren't quite the vogue yet, Georgetown has decided to play at Tulsa after all, come October 16.

Due to a mixup among the Big Three, a glittering Griffith Stadium grid program for the third week in October originally included the appearance of three intersectional foes.

Unbeknownst to one another, Georgetown and George Washington scheduled night games for Friday, October 15, against Tulsa and Kansas. When Rome Schwagel, Hoya athletic director, tried to move his game back to Saturday, he discovered that Maryland had rented the stadium for the Duke game.

Yesterday, the harassed Schwagel said he had decided to play at Tulsa for the second straight year and added the game would probably be staged on Saturday, October 16.

At that, it might not turn out so bad for Georgetown. Last fall in Tulsa, the Hoyas pulled a major upset, winning, 12-0.

Across the Nation:

Leg Buckles, Marion May Be Through

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 26 (AP).—Marty Marion's left knee buckled under him in practice this morning, and the stellar St. Louis Cardinal shortstop expressed fear the injury might cut short his playing career.

"I'm really worried," Marion said. "If this condition doesn't change I can't play any more baseball. I can't understand what it is.

"I hurt the knee sliding last year, but they can't find anything wrong with it."

X-rays were to be made by Dr. Robert F. Hyland, the club surgeon who was expected in camp Monday.

Chandler Works Out

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 26 (AP).—Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler, donned a uniform and worked out with the Philadelphia Athletics here today.

Chandler, who arrived yesterday after visiting the six clubs training in the California-Arizona area, batted out a few balls and shagged flies in the outfield.

He will go to Vero Beach to see the Brooklyn Dodgers play Montreal next Wednesday and Thursday. From there he will go to Orlando to visit the Washington Senators and then to the Florida West Coast to see the teams there.

Speedy Braves

Bradenton, Fla., March 26 (U.P.). Outfielder Jim Russell and Rookie Shortstop Alvin Dark established themselves as the top stars of the Boston Braves' "track team" today when they finished in a dead heat in a 60-yard race to determine the fastest man on the squad. Both won new Easter hats from Manager Billy Southworth.

Miragliotta Quits NCAA

Madison, Wis., March 26.—Basil Miragliotta, University of Virginia welterweight, today withdrew his entry in the NCAA boxing tournament which will be held at the University of Wisconsin April 1, 2 and 3. No reason was given.

Mahnken May Go as Player Deals Are Hinted

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

The Washington Caps will be with us again next year and they'll do their basketballing at the same old stand—Uline Arena.

That was the "word" yesterday from Mike Uline. And it represents a change in heart on the part of the 70-year-old Arena owner. Two months ago he said he was either going to sell his Arena of convert it into an ice plant because "I can't compete against the Government."

He was referring to the National Guard Armory, which housed collegiate and high school basketball this year and which Uline feared would make serious financial inroads into his sports plant.

Player Deals Indicated

"I don't think the Armory can make a go of it," Uline said yesterday. "What's more, the people want to see the Caps. They are fast becoming a fixture."

Although his pro courtmen were "flipped" out of the championship playoffs by an adverse toss of a coin, Uline appeared chipper and in a gay mood as he talked of plans for next year.

He hadn't consulted with his coach, Red Auerbach, but Uline said he wouldn't be a bit surprised if the Caps made a few changes next year, trading one or two players and either buying or drafting some new material.

The name of Center John Mahnken wasn't mentioned, but it wouldn't come as a surprise if the former Georgetown star were among the missing next season. There's trade talk in the air now.

One deal would send Mahnken to Providence for George Nostrand, 6-foot 6-inch center. Another would bring Chicago's Chuck Gilmur to Washington for Mahnken.

Status of Three Uncertain

Only four Caps—Bob Feerick, Fred Scolari, Bones McKinney and Dick O'Keefe—are understood to be sure of their jobs next year. But neither the Caps nor three of those players—Feerick, Scolari and McKinney—are certain they'll be here for the 1948-49 campaign.

Feerick is considering an offer to become player-coach of the San Jose, Calif., pro club and if he accepts the job it's more than likely that Scolari, another West Coast resident, will remain in California with him.

The Charlotte Clippers, of a North Carolina pro loop, are after McKinney. If they receive better financial propositions from the other teams, all three will leave the Caps, they said yesterday.

Uline, however, didn't appear worried over this. He's confident that his Big Three will play at Uline.

CAP ATTENDANCE for 24 home games this year was 78,251 (paid) compared with 72,000 for 30 home games last season . . . Five members of the team couldn't have driven to their scattered homes in more comfortable fashion even if Washington had won the playoffs. They receive delivery on new cars yesterday . . . The Caps are still griping over the injustice of the playoff . . . By a flip of the coin they were tossed against Chicago a team that had whipped them five out of eight times, in the first round . . . Another flip of the coin settled Chicago as the site of the game and a third toss fixed Baltimore as the scene of the next game, if there was to be one . . . There wasn't however . . .

Indians Win on Dispute

San Bernardino, Calif., March 26 (U.P.).—A dispute hit to left field by Pinch Batter Thurmon Tucker drove in two runs today to give the Cleveland Indians a 10 to 9 victory over the St. Louis Browns.

The Browns contended that Whitey Platt made a fair catch of Tucker's drive in the ninth but the umpires ruled he trapped the ball.

Early in the game, Ken Keltner's three-run homer and a two-run homer by Pat Seerey gave Cleveland the lead.

Hoyas Open Season Today

Joe Judge, one of the most successful ciaches in college ranks, starts his eighth season at Georgetown whe nthe Hoyas entertain twice-beaten Syracuse 3 p. m. today.

Starting on the mound for Georgetown will be either Bob Gorra or Tommy Flynn, both winners last year when the team had a 17-5 record. Other starters, all of whom had squad experience last season, are Joe DiLeo, first base; Joe Connors, second base; Al Naples, shortstop; Dick Falvey, third base; John Moscal, catch; Elmer Raba, left field; Ray Corley, center field, and Frank Alagia right field.

In seven seasons under the Nats' former first-sacker, Georgetown has won 73 and lost only 22 for a creditable .768 percentage.

The visiting Syracuse nine was beaten by Maryland, 7-3, and shutout yesterday by Navy, 5-0.

Carnera Will Become Citizen

Knoxville, Tenn., March 26 (AP).—Primo Carnera said today he has been notified by Government officials to file his declaration of intention to become a United States Citizen in New York City March 31.

Carnera said he applied for naturalization papers last Dec. 4 in El Paso, Tex., giving a New York address.

Lyons Says Chisox Will Be Better

(Editor's Note: This is the first in a series reviewing major league baseball teams' prospects for the 1948 season.)

PASADENA, CALIF., March 26 (AP). — Ted Lyons gazed thoughtfully over his collection of athletes and sized up the 1948 prospects of his Chicago White Sox.

Most of all, he said, the club needs pitching.

That's the pessimistic outlook, and Manager Ted's problem is anything but unique.

The optimistic view—and the quiet, good looking Ted sincerely entertains such a view — was something like this:

It's a little early yet, but I think we've got some darn good looking young players. If they deliver, and I think they might, we'll do a lot better this year."

Ted High on Rookies

"Better" would have to be an improvement on their 1947 sixth-place finish, which means they'll have to again let Washington and the St. Louis Browns battle it out for the cellar and beat out Philadelphia for fifth.

Well, what about his pitchers, his young ones, particularly Bill Wight and Fred Bradley, up with a good record with Kansas City last year in the deal with the Yankees for Ed Lopat, his best moundsman?

After nearly a month of watching, Lyons is still high on them. Bradley has had a stiff shoulder but will be all right, and Wight, Ted said, has shown great promise.

And Aaron Robinson, the Yankee catcher, also included in the deal, will deliver many a long hit, Ted continued, although to date he is slow rounding into form.

Haynes Tops Staff

Lopat, as in the case of any 16-game winner, will be missed, of course. But Lyons thinks his two rookies in a year perhaps will make up the difference, and then some.

Joe Haynes, now the top veteran with a 2.42 earned run average, tops the starting staff, and just about ends it, not counting such relief pitchers as Earl Caldwell, Earl Harris and Pete Gebrian. Frank Papish has yet to fully recover from a minor shoulder operation.

The regular infield doubtless will line up with Tony Lupien at first, Don Kolloway or Cass Michaels at second, Floyd Baker at third, Luke Appling at short.

Baker draws unstinted praise for his fielding, and Lyons believes he'll hit well this season. He pointed out that his .264 last year was hardly bad—and he did it after a shaky start.

Appling, starting his nineteenth year, was called on to play in three games at San Francisco. In 10 times at bat the old boy merely got on base 10 times via six hits, three walks and an error—and batted in three runs. And it's still early Spring.

Tubby Taft Wright, whose .324 hitting led the club last year, is an outfield fixture. Of the others, Lyons declined to make any predictions.

Holdover Dave Philly, from Paris, Tex., might deliver; Jerry Scala, a youngster from Waterlee, Iowa, drew praise, and the same went for two hitters from the Hollywood club, Gus Zernial .344) and Jimmy Delsing, .316).

Meeker's Hit Wipes Out 4 to 2 Lead

A grand slam home run by Johnny Meeker in the eighth inning gave Princeton University a 6-5 victory over Maryland's Terps yesterday on the College Park diamond.

Maryland was coasting with a 4-1 lead when Princeton unleashed a 5-run rally against Pitcher Bob Keene in the eighth.

A walk, an error, and a single by Jack Armstrong gave the Tigers their first run of the inning. Another Terp error filled the bases, then Meeker unloaded his homer.

The Terps managed to score a run in the ninth on a walk and singles by Al Tuminski and Bob Murray.

Maryland scored two runs in the first on a single by John Hunton, and a homer by Joe Andrus. They notched two more in the sixth on a single by Gene Ensweller and a double by Murray.

The loss was the first in two games for the Terps, who take on the University of Richmond today at Richmond.

'Old Men' Top NBA Ratings

Abe Greene, National Boxing Association president, said yesterday that too many young fighters were "flashes in the pan" as he released NBA quarterly ratings dominated by ring veterans.

The list featured such "old men" as Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis, who will be 34 in May; 33-year-old Light Heavyweight Champion Gus Lesnevich; Heavyweight Contender Joe Walcott, 34, and Middleweight Contender Tony Zale, who will be 34 in May.

Ratings of the top men in each division:

HEAVYWEIGHT: Joe Louis (champion), Joe Walcott, Elmer Ray, Joe Maxim, Tommy Gomez, Joe Baksi, Henry Blake, Lee Savold, Jimmy Bivins and Turkey Thompson.

LIGHT HEAVYWEIGHT: Gus Lesnevich (champion), Ezzard Charles, Bob Foxworth, Billy Fox, Archie Moore, Tommy Yarosz, Freddie Mills, Billy Smith, Chicken Thompson and Leonard Morrow.

MIDDLEWEIGHT: Rocky Grasiano (champion), Marcel Cerdan, Tony Zale, Steve Belloise, Dave Sands, Bert Lytell, Fred Apostoli, Georgie Abrams, Anton Raadick and Jackie Darthard.

FLYWEIGHT—Rinty Monaghan (champion), Dado Marino, Monto Flores, Jackie Paterson and Dicky O'Sullivan.

Missouri's Glamor Gridders Wear Bras and Satin Panties

Columbus, Mo., March 26 (U.P.).—The University of Missouri backfield worked out today in kneeless pants and "goose pimple" jerseys.

The satin pants, which Coach Don Faurot described as "the new, short look," end about 3 inches above the knee and have the usual amount of padding. A knee pad fills the gap formerly covered by the conventional uniform. The jerseys, featuring wide open midriffs, cover nothing but the shoulder pads.

Faurot, who dreamed up the uniforms, said nobody had squawked—yet. The new outfit is restricted to backfield men. They say it helps them to do that downfield "shimmy."

Eight of Nation's Top Teams Bid for Olympic Berth Today

By Austin Bealmear

New York, March 26 (AP).—Nearly a hundred basketball players, representing eight teams from coast to coast, begin flipping buckets at Madison Square Garden tomorrow with a trip to the Olympic games in London awaiting 14 of their number.

The United States Olympic basketball tryouts, first since 1936 and second in history, get under way at 2 p. m. There will be sessions tomorrow afternoon and night.

The opening game on the afternoon doubleheader sends the Denver Nuggets, National AAU runners-up, against the Oakland Bittners, who finished third in the recent AAU tournament at Denver.

In the second afternoon game it will be Baylor University, NCAA runner-up against New York University, which lost to St. Louis Olympic bid when St. Louis declined.

The Phillips Oilers of Barlesville, Okla., National AAU Champs the past six years, start their bid for fresh honors at 8 p. m. Against Brooklyn National YMCA titleholders.

And in the second game tomorrow night, the NCAA champions from the University of Kentucky tangle with their neighbors from the University of Louisville, winners of the NAIB tourney at Kansas City.

Lou Wilke of Bartlesville, Okla., United States Olympic basketball committee chairman, said the group had decided to select the 14 Olympic team squad members on the following basis:

Five players from the winning college team, five from the winning independent team, two at large from the other three teams in the college bracket, and two at large from the other three in the independent bracket.

The first game Wednesday night will be between the runner-up college team and the runner-up independent, with the championship tilt following.

Rensberger Hurls Navy To 5-0 Win

Annapolis, Md., March 26 (AP).—Navy's baseball team chalked up its second victory in as many days by shutting out Syracuse University today, 5-0.

Pitcher Lee Rensberger went all the way for Navy. He held the Syracuse club to five hits and only two men got as far as third base.

The game virtually was won by the Navy in the first inning when Bill Clausen gave up two walks, Pete Boney doubled and Bill Brendle singled. It added up to three runs.

It was Syracuse's second loss in two days. The University of Maryland defeated the Indians yesterday, 7-3.

Tomorrow Navy takes on St. John's of Brooklyn and Phil Thom will be o nthe mound.

Dead Ball Period Increased, Substitution Rules Liberalized

New York, March 26 (AP).—The National Basketball Committee adopted four more rule changes in its closing session today to make a total of eight new regulations for the 1948-1948 rule book.

The 20-member committee, representing United States high schools, the AAU and YMCA and Canadian organizations, agreed on

1. The period of time when the clock is to be stopped every time the ball becomes dead will be reduced from the last three minutes of a college game to the last two minutes, except in high school games, for which the clock now is stopped on each dead ball after five minutes of the fourth period.

2. A foul committed during a dead ball period will remain the same except one which occurs on the throw-in from the outside. This foul will be considered personal instead of technical.

3. No team will be allowed to line up three or more players in adjacent positions on any restraining line when taking the ball on the ontside. It must allow the defensive players room in between.

4. Any player taken out during a time-out period can return before play has been resumed. Heretofore a player could not return until after was resumed.

The four changes passed yesterday.

1. A coach will be permitted to talk to his team at his bench on charged time oust or during intermission.

2. Subtitutes will be permitted to enter a game merely by reporting to the scorekeeper instead of both to this official and the referees.

3. A player who has committed a foul must raise his hand so he can easily be recognized by the crowd.

4. All jump balls must be made at the nearest of three 6-foot circles.

McGrath, Cain Set To Push Fast Time

Senator J. Howard McGrath (D., R. I.) said yesterday that Senator Harry P. Cain (R., Wash.) has agreed to help bring the District daylight time bill to a Senate decision.

Both are members of the Senate District committee which approved the bill. The Senate has not yet acted. McGrath said he would not be able to attend all sessions, and had asked Cain to help on the daylight time bill for Washington.

GHA Members To Be Polled on Budget Proposal

Members of Group Health Association here will be polled by mailed ballot on April 6 on their choice between two budget-balancing proposals of the health cooperative.

Announcement of the special vote was made here by William E. Warne, president of GHA. Under present financing, he said, GHA faces estimated monthly deficits of $8150 this year.

The proposals of the organization's board of trustees will be discussed in a membership meeting set for 8 p. m., Tuesday, at the Federal Security Auditorium. They would either increase dues for the 14,200 participants, or institute a series of extra charges for services rendered.

Symphony Gifts Top $133,000, 80 Pct. of Goal

Contributions to the National Symphony Orchestra Sustaining Fund Campaign have risen to $133,072.27 since the recent open meeting of the Symphony Association, Edward Burling, jr., campaign chairman, announced Thursday.

This figure represents 80.65 per cent of the $165,000 goal, Burling said. A total of 7099 persons has made donations, as compared with 5574 for a similar period last year.

Fourteen committee chairmen have exceeded their quotas, with two committees, Fairfax and Navy, more than doubling their assignments, the chairmen said.

A final "victory" luncheon has been tentatively scheduled for April 13.

Coronary Thrombosis Shows Sharp Increase

Chicago, March 26 (AP).—The Health magazine, Hygeia, said today that coronary thrombosis, a form of heart disease, has increased sharply among women and that "smoking may have something to do" with it.

Hygeia, published by the American Medical Association, said tests conducted at Mayo Clinic on four groups of 1000 patients each indicated that "on the average, smokers were found to get coronary thrombosis 10 years earlier than nonsmokers."

N. Y. Attorney Is Ruled Kin of Wealthy Negro

Philadelphia, March 26 (U.P.)—Orphan's Court reported today it definitely had established T. John McKee, 67, prominent New York attorney, as the grandson of the Col. John McKee, wealthy Negro who left a real estate forturne of $800,000.

McKee had never revealed his Negro origin until he filed his claim to the estate.

Niagara Falls Plunge Fatal to Buffalo Banker

Niagara Falls, N. Y., March 26 (U.P.)—A Buffalo, N. Y., bank executive today waded into Niagara Falls and was swept to his death over the 160-foot precipice.

Police identified the victim as James T. Gunning, 50.

A topcoat, hat, wallet and papers, all bearing Gunning's name, were found at the head of Luna Falls, minutes after Patrolman Joseph Klein saw a man wade into the rapids and tumble over the precipice.

Gunning was vice president of the Marine Trust Co. He appeared in good spirits yesterday.

D. C. General Named To Harvard U. Post

Brig. Gen. Edward B. McKinley, commandant of the Armed Forces Industrial College here, has been named director of the Associates of the Harvard Business School, the United Press reported.

Dean Donald K. David, at Cambridge, Mass., said McKinley will direct an expanded program for increasing the school's services to business and industry through reports, research studies and conferences.

The associates consist of more than 300 business firms and individuals who cooperate with the school.

FCC Postpones Plan to Record Conversations

The Federal Communications Commission yesterday postponed the date for legalizing devices to record telephone conversations until after April 6.

On that date, the Bell Telephone System and manufacturers of recording devices will meet with PCC to "iron out some bugs in the present devices," an official of PCC said last night.

The meeting also will settle whether the phone system, the manufacturer or the user will be responsible for maintenance of the devices in accordance with laws governing their use.

Theft Totaling $1700 Called Petty Larceny

The theft of $1700 worth of television sets can be petty larceny in some circumstances, according to a Municipal Court case yesterday.

At any rate, for the theft of the sets, the United States Attorney's office charged James R. Wear, 18, of 4551 Shaw dr. ne., with petty larceny and illegal entry in stealing them from the Allied Electric Corp., 3 Thomas Circle, nw.

Wear originally was charged with housebreaking and grand larceny in the case, but the charges were reduced. Wear pleaded guilty to the lesser charges and was released under $1200 bond.

Assistant United States Attorney Stafford Grady said the charges were lowered because Wear had an excellent war record after enlisting at the age of 15, no criminal record, had a difficult family situation and that the complaining witness did not wish to prosecute.

Senate Defense Probe To Report on Oil Soon

Chairman Brewster (R., Me.) said yesterday the Senate Defense Investigating Committee expects to make reports within a week on its oil and industrial mobilization investigations.

Later it will make a report on procurement, growing out of the Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers investigation; also a final report.

The committee's investigations have been completed, but it has until the end of April to file reports to the Senate.

Congress Library Given Olmsted's Personal Papers

Personal and professional papers of Frederick Law Olmsted, pioneer American landscape artist and city planner, have been presented to the Library of Congress.

The collection, including about 30,000 documents, was given by Olmsted's son, Frederick Law Olmsted, of Brookline, Mass., and Elkton, Md.

Olmsted was born in 1822 and died in 1903. Among the projects he worked on were landscaping of the Capitol Grounds and Central Park, New York City. Among the prominent men with whom he corresponded were Washington Irving and P. T. Barnum.

Webster Tenny Heads Fairlington Association

Webster Tenny, 3088 S. Woodrow st., Arlington, an empliye of the Office of Education, was elected president of the Fairlington Association Thursday at the Fairlington Elementary School, Utah and S. 34th sts., Arlington.

Other officers elected were Clayton Cox, first vice president; Mrs. L. W. Shollenberger, second vice president; Dr. George Cady, treasurer, and Mrs. Marian Beall, secretary.

In other business the group indorsed the Arlington School Board's proposed budget of $1,958,495 and commended Representative Howard W. Smith (D., Va.) for his recent stand on rent control.

Virginia Phone Rate Increase Authorized

Increase Becomes Effective April 1 And Will Amount to 35 Cents per Month

Telephone rates in Virginia will jump 35 cents a month for residential users and 50 cents for commercial subscribers effective April 1, it was announced yesterday.

Most subscribers in Arlington and Alexandria will not be affected by the increase, it was explained, since the rise applies only to "local area" service and not to "extended area" service.

Coming under the "extended area heading are those subcsribers who currently may call Washington members without added cost. This type of service is widespread in Arlington and Alexandria, telephone company officials pointed out.

The increase, the second since January, 1947, was granted the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. of Virginia yesterday by the State Corporation Commission after an extensive hearing that began last November 5.

Approximately $1,440,000 will be added to phone bills under the rise. In January, 1947, increases totaling $1,500,000 were authorized.

The three-man commission was unanimous in its opinion yesterday. A thorough study of company records convinced the commissioners, they said, that the increases were not "unreasonable or unjust."

Increased costs—$1,150,000 for labor boosts alone—were cited by the utility in its petition.

The company asserted it was earning less than 4½ per cent on its net investment.

Federal Surplus Tops 7 Billions Ahead of Schedule

The Government's budget surplus moved above $7,000,000,000 yesterday for the first time in its history.

It reached $7,163,095,565.17, a gain of four billion dollars in less than two months. Responsible was a flood of income-tax collections. The Treasury still hasn't completed counting money received before the income-tax deadline March 15.

The surplus reported by the Treasury covers the period through March 24. It is within almost 300 million dollars of the $7,482,610,986 surplus President Truman has estimated for the end of the fiscal year June 30.

Government revenues totalling $32,835,324,000 are nearly $1,100,000,000 above this time last fiscal year.

Spending, at $25,672,228,000, is almost $2,100,000,000 below this time last year.

The surplus measures the excess of government income over spending. It swung above three billion dollars on January 29, four billion dollars on February 16, five billion dollars on March 15, and six billion dollars on March 18.

2 Optometrists Protest $10 Fee

Two optometrists yesterday challenged the District's right to collect a $10 license fee from them for operating an unincorporated business in 1948.

In a formal petition to Lawrence Koenigsberger, the one-man District Board of Tax Appeals, George T. and Evart F. Warren, of the Southern Building, claimed exemption from the levy because optometry is a "profession."

Optometry is not included in a list of professions exempt under the law. But the District regulations state that any trade or business "which by law, custom, or ethics cannot be incorporated" or in which "more than 80 per cent of gross income" is obtained through personal services is not an "unincorporated business."

The seventeenth Joseph Henry Lecture of the Philosophical Society of Washington will be given in the National Museum auditorium, 10th and Constitution ave., tonight at 8:30 o'clock. Dr. Robert B. Brode, professor of physics of the University of California, will talk on "Cosmic Ray Mesotrons."

Firemen 'Fish' for Trio

Line From Chain Bridge Saves Youths Tide-Trapped on Rock

Lieutenant Descends To Potomac Level to Demonstrate Action

Firemen had better luck fishing for boys in the turbulent Potomac yesterday than boys had fishing for fish.

Three youths, marooned on rocks under Chain Bridge by morning high tide, 'bit" readily on a line dangled at them from the bridge by members of No. 29 Engine Co. and No. 1 Rescue Squad.

"I wasn't worried about fishing," said 16-year-old Robert J. Burley of 2741 Central ave. ne., the happiest angler as never caught a fish. "I was worried about getting out of there."

Hopped Stones at 4 a. m.

With Robert Horne, 19, of 2030 Evarts st. ne., and Jackie M. Hughes, 16, of 2925 S. Dakota ave. ne., Burley hopped stones to midstream when the tide was low about 4 a. m.

"We just didn't think the tide would come that high," he said.

Fish-snagging was at low tide too during the ensuing three hours, and lost its interest quickly when the water began lapping around the stones.

Hughes, with hip boots on, tried to wade it, but the swift current turned him back.

"It finally got to the place where all three of us were on one rock with no room to move around," Horne said. "Then some boys on the bridge saw us and we yelled for them to call police."

Fairall Demonstrates

Lieut. Meade Fairall of the Rescue Squad and Acting Battalion Chief W. L. Hurley supervised the rescue. Lieutenant Fairall going over the side on the line of rocks to demonstrate how it should be done.

A sling, made from a fire department bowline knot and a hitch and a half, formed the "carrying" end of the rope. The other end was hauled up by hand while the rescued boys followed a steadying line up to the railing.

One by one—Hughes, Burley, Horne and Lieutenant Fairall in that order—they were pulled up to the bridge. The office of the District engineer of bridges said the distance from the water to the bridge floor is 45 feet.

"I say it's 60," said Burley.

RESCUED—One of the trio reaches the railing of Chain Bridge after being pulled up in a rope sling from rock 60 feet below

Virginia Wants Critic of Cooking To Eat His Words

Richmond, Va., March 26 (AP).—The State of Virginia, suh, wants to make critic Ted Shane, the magazine writer, eat his words.

Recently Shane wrote a magazine piece titled "I Hate Southern Cooking." Much of his gastronomic disgust was directed at Virginia.

He said he understood why bread was called the staff of life after biting into an overcooked Virginia cornstick.

He said frying chicken Southern style meant executing the bird in boiling oil after first immersing same in cement.

That's what he said in the magazine piece. And well-fed Southern editors took their napkins from under their chins, dipped their pens in defensive vitriol, and laid into the literary representative from the cold-bread belt of New York.

Shane is coming back, though. He's coming back to eat, too.

He was invited to be a judge at the second annual Virginia Chefs' Tournament Monday and Tuesday at Mary Washington College at Fredericksburg, Va. A panel of gourmets and editors from the North and Midwest, with a sprinkling of Southerners, will criticize the best efforts of Virginia hotel and restaurant chefs.

Veteran's Plea on Carrying Gun Fails to Impress Judge

The plea of a 28-year-old house painter that he be freed of a charge of carrying a high-powered automatic pistol because he is a war veteran failed in Municipal Court yesterday.

"You did not fight in wartime so that you unwarrantedly may carry or use a gun in peacetime," said Judge George D. Neilson in sentencing Edward L. Rucker of 346 W st. nw. to a 90-day jail term and to pay a $500 fine.

Rucker was arrested by Police Pvt. G. T. Culley of the Thirteenth Precinct Thursday night in a V st. restaurant. Rucker had "confided" to other persons in the restaurant that he was a "detective shadowing a man."

Pvt. Culley, who charged Rucker with carrying a dangerous weapon, produced a P-38, semiautomatic pistol of German make, 39 bullets for it, a knife and a pair of scissors he said he found on Rucker.

Rucker claimed he had taken the gun away from a friend whose name he did not know.

Judge Neilson appeared angry as he heard Rucker's explanation and plea for mercy. Said the jurist:

"Life isn't worth very much when there are guns like this being carried around the streets of this city where crime is rampant now. In a moment of temper or perhaps with premeditation you might have committed a holdup or murder with all this armament in your possession. It's about time the citizenry did something about thugs and gunmen."

Girl, 16, Held In Robbery, Flees Jail

Prince Georges Cell Unlocked With Key, Deputy Sheriff Says

District Police were asked yesterday to help search for a pretty, 16-year-old girl who Thursday escaped Prince Georges County Jail, at Upper Marlboro, after being in jail 10 days.

Prince Georges authorities identified her as of Croyden Park, Rockville. She was awaiting juvenile court action on charge of hold-up and robbery of a taxicab driver.

Deputy Sheriff Earl R. Sheriff said she escaped at 4 p. m., Thursday, by unlocking her cell door with a duplicate key, obtained in some unexplained manner. The jailer then on duty, Joseph A. Canter, had left the building to go to the town postoffice, two blocks distance, Sheriff said.

According to Sheriff, a jail trusty allowed to roam at large in the building is being questioned.

Montgomery County Police, checking the girl's home yesterday morning, learned she had been there between 4 and 8 a. m. Her mother told them, they said, that she thought her daughter had been released under bond.

Prince Georges police, however, said the mother had refused to furnish bond on her daughter's arrest, declaring she described her daughter as "incorrigible."

A police lookout, broadcast over a 13-State teletype hook-up, described her as a blonde, with blue eyes, 5 feet 5 inches tall and weighing about 120 pounds.

900 Sugar Firm Employes Strike

Baltimore, March 26 (AP).—Nine hundred employes of the Baltimore branch of the American Sugar Refining Co. went on strike this afternoon. The plant suspended production.

Police reported the walkout proceeded in an orderly manner.

Company officials said only a skeleton housekeeping force would be maintained at the factory.

The workers, members of the Sugar and Allied Products Division of the United Packinghouse Workers of America (CIO), have asked a 24-cent hourly wage increase. The company offered an 11-cent boost.

However, a chief issue in the dispute apparently was the union's attempt to make August 31 the expiration date of the contract with the company. This date would coincide with the deadline at other plants.

'North' Wins Delegates' Vote in Va.

Virginia's Eighth District Stages BMattle, But Backs Direct Primaries

By Donald Olsen
Post Reporter

Virginia Eighth District Republicans yesterday staged the battle of North-versus-South in Culpeper before they approved direct primaries for next fall's congressional race.

Three northern Virginia areas—Alexandria, and Arlington and Fairfax Counties — steamrollered through the Eighth District Convention controlling 157 of the 250 delegate votes. Under the rules voting may be done by proxy.

In addition to its victory on direct primaries, "the North" captured both delegates to the Republican National Convention in Philadelphia on June 21.

To Vote for Dewey

Both delegates, Carl A. Marshall of Fairfax and Edgar Pumphrey of Arlington, told reporters they would cast their convention vote for Republican candidate Thomas E. Dewey.

Adoption of direct primaries—to be held this August to coincide with Democratic primaries in the Eighth District—will replace the Republican's traditional convention method of picking candidates.

With its heavy majority of the votes, the northern section also captured (1) the District chairmanship, which went again to Carl A. Marshall, (2) all three new members of the State central committee, and (3) the Eighth District presidential elector.

The direct primary scrap began when the resolutions committee asked convention approval of the step.

F. R. Early of Charlottesville, opposing the direct primary, said it was "being imposed on us by this crowd from Arlington, Alexandria and Fairfax."

Arguing for the primaries was Fairfax's Tyrell Krum, who said his area needed the system "to get out the vote." He denied trying to "ram it down" southern district throats.

140 Delegates Attend

More than 140 delegates—largest number within the memories of Republicans present—attended the convention in the Municipal Building in Culpeper.

The northern bloc got off to a brisk start with election of Arlington's Talmadge Wilcher as temporary chairman.

Keynoting the convention was Rep. Fred L. Crawford (R.,Mich.), who said in his address that "conservatives," not "radicals," should man Government jobs.

Elected yesterday to the Republican State Central Committee were Douglas Hatch of Fairfax, Nathan J. Paulson of Alexandria, and Talmage Wilcher of Arlington.

Virginia's Fighting 9th Has Battle in Prospect

Bristol, Va.-Tenn., March 26 (AP). Delegates to the "Fighting Ninth" Virginia district Democratic convention gathered here today amid growing indications of a resolutions fight on the floor of the convention here tomorrow.

A battle is also expected over the congressional nomination when the body is called to order at 11 a. m. tomorrow in Bristol (Va.) High School.

Dickenson County Democrats at their mass meeting adopted a resolution pledging support to "the nominee of the Democratic National Convention."

The recent Virginia General Assembly enacted legislation aimed at President Truman and authorized by Gov. William Tuck, empowering the Virginia State Democratic Convention to instruct its presidential elector candidates to vote for a presidential candidate other than the nominee of the national party.

Ninth District Assembly members were divided in their vote on the Tuck bill.

It was reported this afternoon that State Senator Charles Fenwick of Arlington, and Martin Hutchinson, opponents of Senator Harry Flood Byrd in the 1946 primary, would attend the convention.

Representative John W. Flannagan, jr., who said he will not accept the renomination, arrived in the city Wednesday.

Game, Fish Board May Get Million

Richmond, Va., March 26 (AP).—A one-million-dollar budget for the State Game Commission, the first in its history, was being prepared today.

I. T. Quinn, executive director of the commission, said detailed plans will be worked out in the next few weeks for the greatest program of game and fish conservation ever attempted in Virginia. The budget will be submitted to the commission at its April meeting.

Sportsmen will find their license fees increased substantially when the new fiscal year comes in July 1. At present the sportsman who goes in both for hunting and fishing may purchase a State combination license at $3.50. The combination license is abolished under the new law, and the same privileges may be obtained in the coming fiscal year only through purchase of a $3.50 State hunting license plus a $3 State fishing license.

Mother Watching One Son Treated, Sees Younger Boy Brought in Dead

WRECK SCENE—New Mercury rests on its side after overturning several times yesterday on Roue 1, 3 miles south of Woodbridge, Va. Two Wac officers were hurt

Two Wac Officers Injured as Coupe Hurtles Off Road And Turns Turtle

A Fairfax County mother, waiting in Arlington Hospital for one injured son, saw her other son brought in dead as a result of a traffic accident in her absence.

In another nearby Virginia accident, two Wac officers of Arlington and Alexandria were injured when their convertible coupe got out of control, turned over several times and threw out its occupants.

Mrs. Claude Twombly had taken her 15-year-old son Roland to have an X-ray made of a finger he injured boxing last week. As she waited for the report, Fairfax police brought in the body of 4-year-old Stephen E. Twombly, who had died on the way to the hospital.

STEPHEN TWOMBLY
Traffic victim

Police said Stephen had been playing with the little girl next door near his home on Route No. 50, 2 miles west of Fairfax.

The children started to run across the street, police said, when they saw the playmate's mother. But the little girl saw the car coming in time to stop.

Driver of the car was identified by police as Roland Watt, 17, Route 1, Herndon, Va. Police said no charges would be placed against him, pending a coroner's inquest.

Claude Twombly, the dead child's father, is a mechanic employed in Herndon. Also surviving are a sister, Ann, and four brothers, Carol, Eugene, Donald and Roland, all of Fairfax.

The women officers injured in the other accident were Major Lenore M. Price, 27, 1228 Martha Custis dr., Alexandria, and Lieut. Gertrude Reitz, 28, 701 S. Fillmore st., Arlington. Both are assigned to the Pentagon and were driving to Langley Field.

A witness, Al Ernst, of 119 E. Walnut st., Alexandria, said the car apparently went out of control after hitting a soft shoulder at the Valley Camp curve on Route 1, about three miles south of Woodbridge in Prince William County.

The victims were treated and admitted at the Quantico Naval Hospital, where it was said last night they were "resting comfortably." The extent of their injuries was not immediately determined.

$660 Stolen From Store's Cash Register

2 Housebreaker Suspects Caught In 4th Precinct

Overnight theft of $660 from Pawnbrokers Exchange, 1120 7th st. nw., and capture of two housebreaker suspects yesterday highlighted police robbery reports here.

Myron Ocean of 215 O st. sw., reported someone broke into his secondhand shop and removed the $660 from a cash register. Attempts to get at the shop's store of jewelry failed, he said, when the thief succeeded only in knocking off the dial of the office safe.

The thief, Ocean said, lowered himself into a sidewalk well through an unlocked trapdoor, and then battered his way through a basement door.

Reports Purse Snatched

Mrs. Anna Boaze, of 1368 Euclid st. nw., an employe in the Census Bureau, told police that a light-skinned Negro boy snatched her purse and $45 from her arm at 9:15 a. m. as she was walking one block from her home. He escaped on foot down a nearby alley, she said.

Robley A. Ferguson, 43, of 9322 Baltimore ave., Berwyn, Md., told police that two white men closed in on him in the 1500 block of 16th st. nw, at 1:30 p. m. yesterday, in an apparent holdup attempt. He wrested himself free, and fled, screaming. A tear in his coat was his only loss, he said.

One Washington policeman was Johnny-on-the-spot early yesterday for two reported housebreakings, and nabbed a suspect at each scene. He is Pvt. LeRoy Perry, of the Fourth Precinct.

Patrolman Perry, investigating a report of "strange noises" at 3 a. m. at Liberty Cafe, 832 4th st. sw., said he arrested a 25-year-old man in the act of leaving through a rear window. The suspect, charged with housebreaking, was identified as William Giles, of 634 M st. nw.

Four hours later, Perry responded to a call reporting an intruder within offices of the Hesick Coal Co., 14th st. and Maine ave sw. The policeman emerged with a sleepy-eyed suspect identified as Doctor Roulhac, 30, of 601 New Hampshire ave nw., who likewise was charged with housebreaking.

Roulhac, said Perry, apparently had fallen asleep in a chair there after ransacking the office.

In Montgomery County, Md., police investigated an unsuccessful attempt to break into Meadowbrook Market, 7450 Wisconsin ave., Bethesda. Failing, the thief or thieves drove off in one of two trucks parked at the market's rear. It was later found abandoned at 59th and Clay sts. ne.

New Building Urged at Home In Blue Plains

Representative A. L. Miller (R., Nebr.) yesterday voiced strong support for extensive new construction at the District Home for the Aged and Infirm at Blue Plains.

Miller, who visited the home in December, said he plans another inspection tour there in the near future, possibly next week.

He said he is inclined "to support any move to get improvements out there."

The District Board of Public Welfare has already decided to appeal directly to Congress for building funds fro the home, over the heads of the Commissioners who drastically slashed the proposed welfare construction program.

Miller said he is convinced the home is a fire hazard, and declared that the kitchen there is "so old and broken down that I don't see how they get along."

He said, however, that he thought it would be somewhat irregular to present the proposed building program directly to the Appropriations subcommittee on the District budget. He said he felt the program should be first authorized by the District legislative committee.

City Traffic School Grad Is Up Again

An automobile speedster who apparently didn't learn his lessons very well in Traffic School received a stiff lecture and light fine yesterday from Judge George D. Neilson in Municipal Court.

The defendant was Harry J. Davenport, 27, of 1830 16th st. nw. He was assessed $30 for speeding, $10 for driving on the wrong side of the street and $5 for not having a registration card in his possession. All three offenses occurred Thursdaey night.

Davenport is currently awaiting sentence on another speeding charge of February 10. For that he was directed by Judge Aubrey Fennell to go to Traffic School. Davenport completed the course at the school last Saturday.

Said Judge Neilson in court, "Didn't you learn your lessons in Traffic School?"

"Yes," replied Davenport.

"It sure doesn't look like it," said the judge, who then related that at the Traffic School there were charts demonstrating the inherent dangers of speeding and bad driving.

Falls Church Man Held For Assaulting Girl

Eugene Schafer, 38, 102 W. Fairfax st., Falls Church, was held for the grand jury yesterday in Fairfax Trial Justice Court for assaulting a small girl March 18. He was released on $2000 bond.

Also held for the grand jury after waiving preliminary hearing was George M. Cogle, 37, Harpers Ferry, W. Va., charged with reckless driving March 5 and leaving the scene of an accident involving personal injury. He was released on $2500 bond.

Flanagan to Direct D. C. Cancer Campaign

James H. Flanagan, chairman of the Public Utilities Commission, will act as chairman of the District Government for the Cancer Campaign, April 1 to 30, Robert C. Owers, general chairman, announced yesterday.

The District's portion of the national quota of $16,042,000, according to Owers, is $175,000.

Arlington Air Officer Assigned to Germany

Lieut. Col. Nicholas H. Chavasse, 33, of 708 S. Adams st., Arlington, Va., air inspector of the Army's Air Weather Service here, will leave early next week for Germany to command the Fifth Weather Group. A 1938 West Point graduate, Chavasse has been a lieutenant colonel since December, 1942. His wife and five children will accompany him.

American Theater Wing

The American Theater Wing will hold its first local reunion Sunday night at the Shoreham Hotel at 9 o'clock. The affair will be one of many held that night across the country to honor the memory of Antoinette Perry, chairman of the American Theater Wing, Inc., and mainstay of the wartime Stage Door Canteens.

Area News in Brief

Postal Authorities To Break Chains

Warning to participants: The postoffice is the weakest link in your chain postal card schemes.

United States postmasters were formally notified this week to confiscate all chain postal cards. Specifically mentioned were those threatening bad luck to nonconformists, and those promising "tea towels, pot holders, aprons and other property of nominal value."

Should the chain postal cards involve money or property of substantial value they should be referred to the office of the solicitor, Post Office Department, here.

In recent weeks, authorities here have received numerous complaints from persons receiving cards through the mails promising good luck to them if they carry on the chain, dire calamity if they dare to break it.

These "Luck of London" letters and their unreasonable facsimiles, says the solicitor's office, are designated nonmailable under Section 599, Postal Laws and Regulations, which forbids "threatening" matter on postal cards.

FBI Hailed As Symbol For World

Law enforcement officers from Egypt, Canada and Puerto Rico were among the FBI National Academy graduating class yesterday who heard Senator Brien McMahon (D., Conn.) hail the FBI as a world-wide symbol of efficient law enforcement.

Sweitzer

McMahon told the 58 graduates, including police from 30 States, at exercises held yesterday morning in the Departmental Auditorium, Constitution ave., near 14th st. nw.

"You have learned something more than the scientific side of crime prevention and detection . . . You have been taught what it means to respect the rights of citizens in a democracy."

McMahon and Representative Karl Stefan (R., Neb.) were introduced by J. Edgar Hoover, FBI director.

Egypt was represented in the class, the 37th session, by Lieut. Col. Ahmed Kamel; Canada by Sergt. of Detectives George S. Blow, of Winnipeg City Police Department, Manitoba; Puerto Rico by Corpl. Ernesto Lugo-Mendez, Insular Police Department. Greater Washington was represented by Corpl. Roland B. Sweitzer, of Laurel, Md., member of Prince Georges County Police Department.

The academy was established in 1935 to raise the level of law enforcement. Including yesterday's class, some 1800 have been graduated.

Spotted Fever Vaccine

An additional 500 cubic centimeters of Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever vaccine—enough for free distribution to about 170 persons—will be received by the Health Department next week from the U. S. Public Health Service.

Dr. James G. Cumming, director of the Bureau of Preventable Diseases, said it will boost the District's total to 2500 cubic centimeters, enough to inoculate about 870 persons. He said it is "imperative" that only persons living in areas of "extreme tick exposure" be vaccinated. Only two cases of spotted fever have originated within the District since 1941, he said.

3 Youths Sentenced

Three youths were given jail sentences yesterday in Alexandria Civil and Police Court for stealing a large collection of items from automobiles in the past year.

Judge James R. Duncan sentenced Michael M. Groggs, 21, 214 Queen st., Alexandria, to six months. His brother, David Daore Groggs, 19, and Harry Bryant, 18, same address, were given three months each.

All three pleaded guilty, but the Groggses appealed their sentences to the Corporation Court. Michael Groggs also was held for the grand jury charged with the theft of a $200 movie camera.

Suspect Returned

David A. Briggs, indicted in absentia March 17 for Alexandria's $26,000 bank robbery last June, yesterday was returned to Alexandria from Detroit where he was arrested.

Detective Lieut. Russell A. Hawes flew to Detroit Tuesday to arrange the return when he learned Detroit authorities planned to try Briggs there March 31 on housebreaking charges before turning him over to Alexandria. Hawes said Briggs will be arraigned within the next few days.

22 Heifers and Horse Die in Md. Barn Fire

Fallston, Md., March 26 (AP).—Fire, intensified by a dust explosion, last night destroyed a dairy barn owned by Crawford L. Harrison and brought death to 22 heifers and a horse.

Harrison's son, Parker, was burned about the face and hands in an effort to enter the blazing barn.

The Harrisons were loading grain when sparks from their tractor set a haystack afire, Bel Air firemen said.

Damage was estimated at $35,000.

90 Days for Assault

Robert Miller, 33, no fixed address, was given a 90-day jail term yesterday after he was found guilty of indecently assaulting a 28-year-old woman in a 10-cent store here. The victim related to the court that Miller indecently placed his hands on her while she was shopping in the Woolworth store at 3108 14th st. nw.

Swim Course to Start

An Easter learn-to-swim program for District school youths will get under way at four community center pools Monday, and continue through Saturday.

Although enrollment was already filled at the YMCA and YWCA facilities yesterday, the free course is still open for more boys at the Jewish Community Center and Southeast Boys Clubs.

Fire Damages Hide Plant

The Milton Hopfenmaier Co. building at 3300 K st. nw. was heavily damaged by a fire early yesterday. The firm processes hides.

The blaze, of undetermined origin, started in the vicinity of four boilers, but firemen believed it did not ignite from them. The flames were kept in the center of the two-story building and held away from an adjoining structure which housed huge grease vats.

Store Owners Warned

Health Officer George C. Ruhland yesterday warned store owners to be wary of persons who claim to be health inspectors and try to sell tickets to a benefit performance.

Health inspectors are not authorized to solicit, he said. He issued the warning after receiving reports that solicitors headed by a "Captain Nolan"—posing as health inspectors—were selling tickets to the "Shepherd of Bethlehem" in the 2000 block of P st. nw.

Two $25,000 Suits Filed

Two women filed $25,000 damage suits in District Court yesterday for injuries they said they suffered here in falling down.

Mrs. Helen M. Jones, of 4908 41st st. nw., sued the Safeway Stores, Inc. She said she slipped on a stringbean in the Safeway at Wisconsin and Ellicott st. nw., on November 5. Her injuries, she said, were a broken ankle and nervous shock.

Mrs. Ruby R. Long, 3166 18th st. nw., sued the Royal Linoleum Co., of 741 11th st. nw. She said she slipped on some linoleum which was improperly tacked in her home in January, 1947.

Plummer and Joseph Smyth; East Falls Church, Ellis Lacy; Lee, Harry Cuppett and James Bauer; Lyon Park, Mrs. V. E. Barley and Thomas Moffitt; Rosslyn, Mrs. Beulah Goss and Mrs. Margaret Smallwood; Virginia Highlands, Leo Urbanski, jr.; Westover, Arthur Pomponio; Woodlawn, Golden Yeatman.

Kansas City by Jalopy

Kendall Shipe, 16, of 3700 33d pl. nw., has postponed his Easter trip to Kansas City, Mo., in his jalopy, also 16 years old.

The old car, on which he has been working ever since he purchased it for $80 last summer and pushed it home, now has grinding gears.

The car "conked out" Thursday night in a trial run that began in the family garage and ended in front of the house, but Kendall hopes to have it in shape by June for the Kansas City trip.

NIH Medical Center Plans Well Advanced

Public Buildings Administration officials said yesterday that construction plans are "well advanced" for the huge medical research center to be built at the National Institute of Health, Bethesda, Md.

When completed, the 500-bed center will have cost at least 40 million dollars and will be the world's largest institution of its kind.

Construction bids for the project, to be known as the Clinical Center, National Institute of Health, will be advertised shortly after July 1, according to the Federal Security Agency, which assigned the task of design and construction to PBA.

FSA is awaiting Senate action on the House-approved Labor-Federal Security appropriations bill, which would set aside 40 million dollars for the center plus whatever other amounts are needed because of possibly increased building costs.

Dr. R. E. Dyer, NIH director, said the center will be devoted to the study of several diseases. Among them are the heart diseases of old age, certain disorders of the circulatory system, cancer and mental illnesses.

Nearly all of the land needed for the building has been acquired. The site is south of present NIH buildings, west of Rockville pike.

Crouch Awarded $1400 Judgement For False Arrest

James T. Crouch, Veterans Administration lawyer, who last fall sued Naval Capt. Thomas J. Kennedy for $5000 damages charging false arrest, has been awarded a $1400 judgment, it was learned yesterday.

Crouch, of 9601 Riley pl., Silver Spring, Md., was originally awarded $300 by a Montgomery County jury in November. The county Circuit Court, however, set aside this judgment, declaring it "excessive."

Captain Kennedy of 1203 Brookeville rd., swore out a warrant charging Crouch with disorderly conduct after Crouch approached Captain Kenendy with a request to sig na zoning petition. Captain Kennedy testified Crouch called him "an old screwball" because he refused to sign the petition and "I became alarmed at his manner."

75 Midshipmen Visit Martin Plane Plant

Annapolis, Md., March 26 (AP).—Seventy-five midshipmen of all Naval Academy classes will visit the Glenn L. Martin plane manufacturing plant tomorrow.

The Middies are members of the Mechanical Engineering Club. They will be escorted by Comdr. William A. Brocket of the department of marine engineering.

Among those making the trip are John E. Draim, son of Capt. Nicholas A. Draim of 8581 Locust Hill rd. Bethesda; Donald R. Osborn 3d, son of Capt Donald R. Osborn, jr., of 3427 Porter st. nw. Washington; Bradford S. Granum, son of Capt. Alfred M. Granum of 4201 Oakridge lne. Chevy Chase, and Edmund T. Wooldridge, jr., son of Rear Admiral Edmund T. Wooldridge, of 3555 S. Church May Revoke Preacher's License

Cumberland, Md., March 26 (AP). W. Ward Wilson, member of the official board at Zion Methodist Church, said today activities of the Rev. Richard H. Bready in the Progressive Citizens of America organization are "radical and undesirable."

Earlier this week the official board of Centenary Methodist Church announced it would seek the rescinding of the Rev. Mr. Bready's preaching license because of his PCA work.

Centenary, Zion, and two other churches make up the Union Grove Methodist circuit near Cumberland and the Rev. Mr. Bready is their pastor.

GI Students Ask Tuck To Help Save Classes

Norfolk, Va., March 26 (AP).—War veteran students at the St. Helena extension of the College of William and Mary have enlisted the help of Governor Tuck and Representative Bland (D., Va.), in their campaign for continued operation of the extension, a spokesman said today.

Dr. John E. Pomfret, president of the parent college, announced last month the extension, now attended by 800 war veteran students, will be discontinued June 15. However, both Tuck and Bland have signified their intention to bring pressure to bear for appropriations to continue the extension.

Girl Given 12 Months In Death of Father

Roanoke, Va., March 26 (AP).—Seventeen-year-old Patsy Lee Robinson has been convicted of involuntary manslaughter in the death of her father and sentenced to 12 months in jail.

The Hustings Court jury that returned that verdict and fixed the punishment last night recommended, however, that sentence be suspended.

The girl's father, Vernon A. Robinson, died of .22-caliber bullet wounds on February 1. In her testimony, Patsy Lee claimed the shooting was accidental, occurring when she snatched the rifle from her father's arm.

Winchester, Va., March 26 (Spl.) The Clarendon Presbyterian Church choir will join with the Winchester Chanters to form a 60-voice choral group for the rendition of Maunder's "Olivet to Calvary," 5 p. m. Easter Sunday at the Market Street Methodist Church here. Floyd W. Haines will direct.

Girl Taught English in Month Nominates 'Best Teacher'

SHE LIKES HER TEACHER—Ester Alexander, 12, of 201 N. Fairfax st., Alexandria, Va., gives Miss Marian L. Carle, of the Americanization School, a nomination for "Best Teacher" contest

There is no doubt in the mind of 12-year-old Esther Alexander that the teacher who taught her to speak English easily in four weeks is the best teacher in the world.

Esther, who lives at 201 North Fairfax st., Alexandria, yesterday showed Miss Marian L. Carle, teacher at the Webster Americanization School, justhow she felt. She presented her with a certificate that says that Miss Carle has been entered in the nation-wide "best teacher" contest sponsored by the Quiz Kids radio show.

When Esther came to the United States from Argentina a little over a year ago, she spoke only Spanish and German, her parents' native tongue. After four weeks with Miss Carle she was able to transfer to a regular public school. Now she is a 5-B student at Jefferson School in Alexandria.

"I owe everything to Miss Carle," Esther, who speaks with but a trace of an accent, explained.

Miss Carle, who lives at 2607 N. 16th st., Arlington, has been training foreign-born children for more than 20 years. Into her class come refugees as well as children from the embassies.

If she wins the Nation-wide contest Miss Carle will receive a $2500 prize but even if the entry written by Esther teling why her teacher is best, gets no further, Miss Carle has a certificate which says:

"No teacher could receive a higher honor than to be thus chosen by her own pupils. Good teachers make good schools—good schools are a community's greatest asset."

China Decorates Cordell Hull

The Chinese government yesterday honored Cordell Hull, former Secretary of State.

Upon orders of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, Hull was decorated with the Order of Auspicious Star, grand cordon, special class. This is on of the highest decorations the Chinese government grants to civilians.

District Girl Is Competitor In Opera Contest

An attractive 23-year-old Washington girl will appear as a contestant Sunday on the Metropolitan Opera Auditions of the Air, scheduled for 4:30 p. m. over the Nation-wide network of the American Broadcasting Co.

She is Miss Jean Gibbons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Gibbons of 1643 Harvard st. nw. A soprano, Miss Gibbons will be heard in an aria from Verdi's "La Traviata." She will also sing "Songs My Mother Taught Me" by Dvorak and is scheduled to join her coauditionist, Denis Harbour of Montreal, in the duet "Quanto Amore."

A graduate of the Holton-Arms School here, Miss Gibbons has been "singing since she was born," according to her mother. She first studied voice in Washington and four years ago went to New York to continue her studies.

Sets of Floating Tunnels Planned For Puget Sound

Olympia, Wash., March 26 (AP).—Washington State officials today disclosed long-range plans for the building of two sets of twin floating concrete tubes on Puget Sound to carry traffic between Various communities.

The tubes, to connect Seattle with Vashon and Bainbridge islands, would be about 2½ miles long. They would be held submerged by heavy anchors. Ventilators rising above the surface would bring fresh air to them.

Each of the tubes would have two 11-foot traffic lanes, thus providing four lanes on each of the two routes.

Two Teachers in Race

Fredericksburg, Va., March 26.—Two former school teachers, Mrs. Thomas F. Cocke and Mrs. Richard T. Goodwin, were named as candidates today for the City Council election in June.

The selections were made by a steering committee of nine—six women and three men—but the move to place two women in the race was initiated by a group of influential women. Women have never been elected to the council.

Mrs. Gatti, Presidents' Friend, Dies

Mrs. Mary Angela Gatti, 67, who for 17 years supplied produce to the White House pantry, died yesterday at her home, 3517 16th st. nw., after a long illness.

Mrs. Gatti, with her husband, Louis P. Gatti, operated a produce business at the old Center Market for a quarter of a century until their retirement in 1925.

Mrs. Gatti often reminisced about the time Mrs. William Howard Taft came to her after the President's inauguration, asking if she would take as good care of the White House larder as she had the Taft residence.

native Washingtonian, Mrs. Gatti attended St. Patrick's Academy here. She would have celebrated her Golden Wedding anniversary in June. A devout churchwoman, she was well known for her many acts of charity and generosity.

In addition to her husband, she leaves two sons, Stephen M. and Michael L. Gatti, local real estate dealers; two granddaughters and one great granddaughter.

Justice Vinson's Son Yearns for Big League

By Marie McNair

MRS. McNAIR

Mrs. Vinson thinks it is with Clemson, but isn't quite sure. Fred, who is captain of the team, admits he would like to be a big league player. His father wants him to study law. But Fred thinks he could play baseball during the season and study law in between.

Luncheon at the Vinson's apartment at Wardman Park Sunday will be strictly a young people's party, with girls and boys who have known the Vinson boys since Woodrow Wilson High School days.

WASHINGTON cab drivers are probably the most loquacious sect in Washington. They're ready to voice an opinion on any subject under the sun without the slightest sign of encouragement. Some provide cigarettes and magazines, for their customers. There's one who keeps fresh flowers in a glass holder for the pleasure of those who ride with him.

Recently Mrs. John W. Bricker emerged from the Mayflower, where she and the Senator make their home. A taxi rolled up to the porte cochere, with radio tuned top tilt. Mrs. Bricker hopped in, the cab started off and the driver turned around." Would you like to listen to the radio," he said, "or shall we just chat."

ROYALTY MOVES in ways strange to democratic Americans. Queen Helen of Romania, currently at the Shoreham Hotel, keeps a book on which people seeking to be received must first inscribe their names. After careful check those deemed worthy of the privilege are then summoned to the presence.

When young King Michael took a Washington driving test the other day, and received his license pronto, a cave-dweller cracked, "That's unusual, a royal I. Q. up to normal."

IT'S HUSH-HUSH now, but it's more than just rumor that the Duke and Duchess of Windsor will be stopping off in Washington in a few weeks. After a winter in Palm Beach, the Twentieth Century Romeo and Juliet are guests aboard the Sea Cloud, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Davies' yacht, and are due to dock in Havana Sunday.

A DAILY DOUBLE for some months, it will be little surprise when their marriage takes place on Tuesday. I'm not at liberty to divulge their names but they're both widely known, have lived in Washington a long time and their friends are very pleased about it all.

Envoy Leaves Soon

Carl-George de Crafoord, Swedish Attache, and Mme. de Crafoord are sailing soo. for Buenos Aires, where Mr. de Crafoord will take up duties as attache at the embassy. A new attache, Dag Malm, is expected at the Embassy in Washington sometime in May.

Return From Havana

The Financial Counselor of Finland and Mme. Smedslund are back in Washington after four months stay in Havana, where Mr. Smedslund served as Finnish observer at the U. N. Trade and Employment Conference.

In Bridal Procession

Miss Cile Wicks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Wicks of this city, became the bride of Usher Ettinger, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Ettinger of Jerusalem, Palestine, March 23 at the home of her parents. Rabbi Kaufman and Rabbi Waldman officiated.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a costume of gray with a white headdress. She carried white roses on her Bible. Mrs. A. Baron was matron of honor and Mr. Baron served as best man.

The bride attended George Washington and American Universities and the bridegroom was graduated from University of Jerusalem.

Kalicka—Boumel

Miss Betty Boumel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Boumel of this city, and Edward O. Kalicka, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Kalicka of Silver Spring, Md., were married at Beth Sholom Synagogue March 21, Rabbi Harry J. Kaufman officiating.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore white satin with a finger-tip veil of illusion held by a seed pearl tiara. She carried white orchids with her prayer book.

Mrs. Samuel Brodsky, in blue, served her sister as matron of honor. Miss Bea Goldberg, in pink, was maid of honor. Both carried roses. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Howard L. Kalicka, Mrs. Daniel Boumel, Mrs. Harold Smith, Miss Lenore Shaffer, and Miss Dorothy Silverman. They wore taffeta gowns in orchid and in aqua shades and carried yellow roses. Sharon Boumel and Cheryl Brodsky, nieces of the bride, were flower girls, wearing blue net frocks.

Howard Kalicka, brother of the bridegroom, was best man and ushering were Daniel Boumel, Samuel Brodsky, Harold Smith and Edward Cohen, Irving Brodsky, the bride's nephew, was ring bearer.

A dinner was held following the service at the synagogue hall after which the couple left for a motor trip to Miami Beach, Fla. They will reside in Washington.

Ferrin—Galloway

Dr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Galloway of Evanston, Ill., have announced the marriage of their daughter, Mera, to Brig. Gen. Charles Sabin Ferrin of Montpelier, Vt., and a member of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's staff.

The ceremony was March 13 at Christ Church in Winnetka and was followed by a reception at Glen View Club.

The bride was attended by Miss Arlenne H. Goodridge of Craftsburgy, Vt.; Miss Martha E. Saxon of Birmingham, Ala., and Mrs. Edward H. Kellogg.

For the wedding the bride wore a gown fashioned from a Japanese ceremonial costume which she brought home from Tokyo where she served until December as a lieutenant colonel and senior officer of the Women's Army Corps in the Pacific theater. She was stationed in Washington with the Wacs during the war.

The couple will spend about ten days in Hawaii on their way back to Tokyo where General Ferrin is stationed.

Navy Suit Is Easter First Choice

By Dorothy Roe
Associated Press Fashion Editor

New York.—The navy-blue suit with a small hat in white or matching navy is the overwhelming choice of America's best-dressed women for the Easter parade.

A survey of principal cities shows that the conservative tailor is tops with Mrs. U. S. A., that the "new look" will be much modified in its spring debut, and that most women are avoiding exaggerated or sensational styles.

New York:

Mrs. Byron Foy, who is spending Easter in the South, will wear Castillo's navy-blue redingote lined with white to match the dress beneath, and a white felt pillbox trimmed with a single gardenia.

Mrs. John C. Wilson, wife of the theatrical producer and well known on the "best-dressed" lists, has chosen a simple navy-blue wool suit by Mainbocher and a simple navy-blue felt beret.

Mrs. Harvey Firestone will wear Carrie Munn's navy and white dotted surah dress and mink stole, with a navy straw sailor.

Mrs. George U. Harris also has chosen a navy suit from Henri Bendel, with white pique trim and a white straw hat.

Mrs. Otto Kahn will wear Fira Benenson's navy-blue shantung dress and jacket with cording trim, and a navy straw roll-brim hat with multicolored flowers.

Mrs. George Schlee (Valentina) will wear a beige silk dress of her own design, a full-back black wool coat and a black straw hat trimmed with beige-pink lilacs.

Mrs. Orson D. Munn has chosen a navy wool suit with short basque jacket decorated with triple set of pocket flaps, a sable scarf and no hat.

Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock has chosen a navy gabardine double-breasted suit with white bone buttons and a small white straw sailor.

Designer Wears Navy

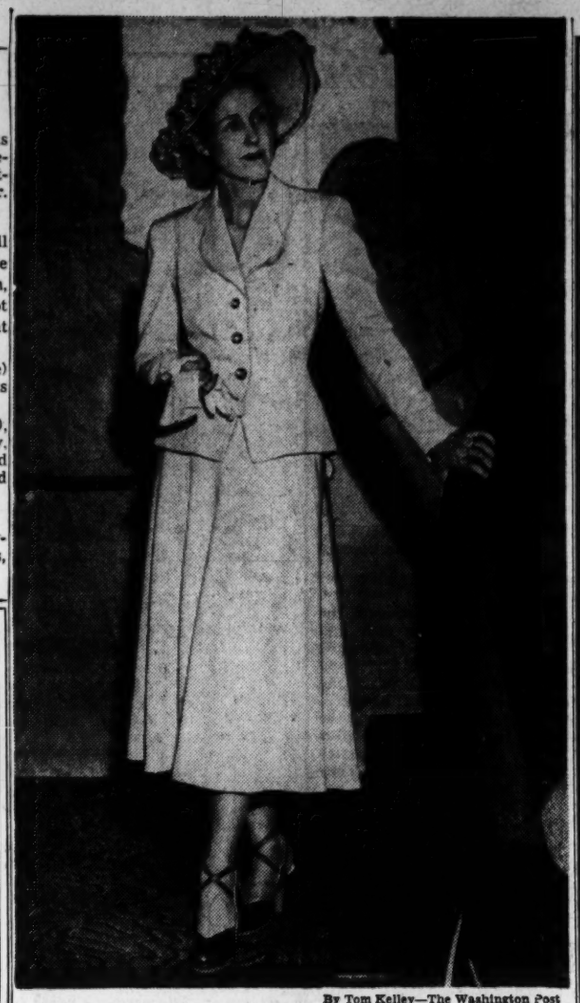
Muriel King, the designer, will wear a navy gabardine two-piece fitted costume of her own design, with a red and white striped jabot and a white linen straw hat trimmed in red flowers.

Mrs. Jean Despres (Lilly Dache) will wear a black faille coat dress and a plateau hat of wax flowers.

Mrs. Adam Gimbel (Sophie), spending Easter in the country, has chosen a blue and black striped wool dress, a black straw sailor and a short blue coat.

Los Angeles:

Mrs. Gilbert Adrian (Janet Gaynor)—Navy suit with regency lines, and a large navy tricorne.



By Tom Kelley—The Washington Post

PRIZE winning costume in Sunday's Easter Parade, sponsored by the Connecticut Avenue Association, might well be this cream white ensemble with a dash of red poppies. Shown at this week's Fashion Fair at the Statler Hotel, the suit is of soft wool gabardine, simply tailored with three gold buttons on the jacket. Baku straw hat, in same shade of off white, is gaily trimmed with brilliant red flowers, the brim lined with slim strip of green velvet. Green is repeated in the leather shoes with slight platform soles and criss-cross ankle strap. Suit by Selma's Gowns; hat by Shop Individual, Inc., and shoes by William Allen

Try These Waistline Whittlers

By Ida Jean Kain

LIKE it or lump it, the new whittled waist ties into a pretty package. Too much waist makes a bulky bundle. Worse than that, it pads age—the more the matronly! Every excess inch at the waist adds at least two years to the age you look, and feel.

Barbara Anne's waist measured a plump 31 inches, and she looked 30 plus—a good half dozen years older than her calendar years. Her waistline is now a slim 26 inches—just right for her frame. That's five bulky inches off. And the years . . . Ah, bliss, the other day two teen-age boys passed and gave her that long, low whistle!

To wrench off the inches, the exercise must hit the line. Here's the set that did the trick . . . this time the exercise music must be slow to set the pace for precision movements.

Here's One That's Foolproof

Position: Sit on floor, legs spread wide apart—wide as comfortable. Hold arms out at sides, shoulder level.

Movement: Tighten the muscular girdle by pulling up with the middle muscles and lifting the chest, keeping shoulders easy. Now twist smack at the waistline and whirl around to touch fingers of left hand to outstretched right toes. East side, west side, all around the—waistline. Circle back, straighten up, pull slim through the middle and, pivoting in the other direction, touch fingers of right hand to left toes. Continue for 12 rhythmic circles, but keep the twist centered on that middle line.

Position: Same, sitting on floor, legs stretched wide apart . . . but with arms upstretched overhead.

Still Another Twist

Position: Sitting on floor, legs outstretched and separated. Elbows bent, hands locked behind head.

Movement: Pull up firmly with the middle muscles, twist at the waist, bend sidewards and touch right elbow to right knee. Keep elbows straight out . . . make the waistline muscles g-i-v-e! Back to position, pull slim through middle and twist in the other direction, bending to touch left elbow to left knee. Four to six times will be ample. Don't overdo. Finish by standing up and flopping over and bobbing up and down to loosen up and limber.

If you have time, it's nice to lie relaxed for 10 to 15 minutes, warmly covered.

Ask Anne — How to Prevent Silver Tarnish

I have a glass with sterling silver trimmings which I recently brought back from Italy. I would like to know if there is any treatment I can give this vase to keep the silver from tarnishing.

If the article is used for decorative purposes only, you should find it satisfactory to coat the silver part of it with either clear lacquer or a new plastic preparation. Clean the silver thoroughly first. If you use lacquer, wipe off the silver with denatured alcohol before applying the lacquer.

Yesterday as a gift I received an International Institute Cookbook and among the Polish recipes in it I have found the following, which may be the sort of recipe L. M. is seeking:

MAZIERKI MIGDALOWE

14 egg yolks.
1 pound sugar.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
4 egg whites.
Dash of salt.
2 tablespoons sweet butter.
½ pound flour.

Mix ground almonds with butter. Beat yolks with sugar until very fine. Add to almond and butter. Add vanilla and salt. Add flour gradually. Last, add beaten whites of egg. Pour into buttered pan. Put in moderate oven for 30 minutes. Test with sprig of broom. If clear, it is done. Used mostly for Easter. F. D. R.

What is the best way to clean the white leatherette seats of dining room chairs? L. S. W.

The leatherette seats can be cleaned by washing with a pure neutral soap such as castile or saddle soap. If you use soap and water, be sure to work quickly so as not to soak the leather. Wipe with an absorbent dry cloth after washing to hasten the drying. If you use saddle soap, follow the directions which come with it. If you wish to protect the seats in the future, you might use one of the new plastic coatings recommended for leather.

My mother is visiting me. Two (supposed) friends called. One left two cards; one left only one. Did one call only on mother? I'm curious. R. S. Z.

When a feminine visitor leaves cards, the rules of etiquette decree that one be left for each woman living or visiting in the household (if there are not more than three.) However, people are quite careless about such things nowadays and it's possible that your caller had only one visiting card in her purse at the time.

Resurrection Story Will Be Told at Area Easter Rites

The ancient Resurrection day will be told with music, sermons and prayers at tomorrow's Easter rites in this area.

Many churches have arranged additional, identical services to accommodate the expected throngs. Traditional Easter cantatas, oratorios and other selections will be given by choral groups.

Archbishop Patrick A. O'Boyle of the Washington Archdiocese will pontificate at a mass at 10 a. m. at St. Matthew's Cathedral. Msgr. John K. Cartwright, rector of St. Matthew's, will preach. The Cathedral Chantry, directed by Charles A. Benson, will sing.

The Right Rev. Angus Dun, Bishop of the Washington Episcopal Diocese, will address a Communion service at 7:30 a. m. at the Washington Cathedral. This sermon, and a portion of the service and music, will be broadcast over ABC's national network. Bishop Dun also will preach at 11 a. m., when Communion will be celebrated by Dean John Wallace Suter.

Canon Albert H. Lucas will celebrate Communion at 6 a. m. in the Chapel of the Resurrection, Canon Merritt F. Williams will officiate at the Communion at 8:30 a. m. in the Chapel of St. Joseph of Arimathea, and Canon Theodore O. Wedel will conduct rites at 9:30 a. m. in Bethlehem Chapel. The final service at 4 p. m. will be entirely musical, led by the Cathedral Choir of Men and Boys. Paul Chandler Hume, baritone, will have the solo parts in Vaughan Williams' composition, "Musical Songs."

* * * *

Infants and children will be baptized at 4 p. m. at Luther Place Memorial Church, Thomas Circle. There will be Communion at 8:15 a. m., and other rites at 9 a. m. and 11 a. m.

* * * * *

The Rev. George Dubowski, a Franciscan father, will celebrate an Easter mass in Polish at 11 a. m. at the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception, Catholic University. It will be sponsored by the Polish Club of Washington.

The Washington Lutheran Inner Mission Society will sponsor Easter services as follows:

District Training School, Laurel, 3 p. m.; Glenn Dale Sanatorium, Unit A, at 6:30 p. m., and Florence Crittenton Home at 3 p. m. with Army Chaplain John R. Strevig conducting the latter service. Members of the Women's Division of the District Reformatory at Occoquan will receive Easter crosses to be used as bookmarks. The Psychopathic Ward of Gallinger Hospital, recently adopted by the Inner Mission Society, will receive Easter candy.

* * * *

A sound film, "For All People," will be presented at 8 p. m. at Memorial Evangelical United Brethren Church, North Capitol and R sts.

* * * *

Members of the church school of Epiphany Episcopal Church, 1317 G st. nw., will present their mite boxes—filled with missionary offerings—at Communion at 9 a. m. The Junior Choir will sing.

* * * *

The Rev. and Mrs. Fred Riley both will preach at the Temple of Applied Religion, meeting in the Roger Smith Hotel, 18th and Pennsylvania ave. nw. He will speak at 11 a. m. and she at 8 p. m.

* * * *

Christ Lutheran Church, 16th and Gallatin sts. nw., will hold services at 8:15 a. m., 9:45 a. m. and 11:15 a. m., with Communion at the first service.

* * * *

Chief Judge Charles W. Woodward of the Sixth Judicial Circuit of Maryland will speak at 9:30 a. m. at Hamline Methodist Church, 16th and Allison sts. nw., on "What Easter Means to Me." Another service will be held at 11 a. m.

Apartments Scarce in Geneva Too, Dr. Reissig Tells Friends

By Robert Tate Allan
Post Reporter

Washington isn't the only place where apartments are scarce, Dr. Frederick E. Reissig has discovered.

He and Mrs. Reissig have been in Geneva, Switzerland, for three months, and are still seeking suitable living quarters.

"We have looked at several but they were either too expensive or too dinky," the Federation of Churches' executive secretary wrote friends here. "We are fairly sure of one by May 15, but we may have good luck before that."

Dr. Reissig is on a nine-months' leave of absence to serve on the public relations staff of the World Council of Churches, which is planning a world-wide meeting in August at Amsterdam, to frame a constitution.

It Happens Here, Too

Members of the National Press Club are getting a kick from an unusual scramble of headline type that appeared in the Atlanta (Ga.) Constitution, according to the Editor and Publisher Magazine:

"Fiftieth ANNIVECLE to Observe Baptist TABERNARSARY Tomorrow."

Press Club B. D.

By the way, among the newspapermen-members of the Press Club is one with a Bachelor of Divinity degree. He is Charles Michie, a free-lance writer. He was graduated from the University of Toronto's theological seminary and once served a Presbyterian pulpit in a village in Ontario.

Navy Commander Turns Clergyman

During active duty on P-T boats during the war, a Navy chaplain and a commander—both Washingtonians—burned much midnight oil discussing war and peace, life and death.

So Lieut. Comdr. Greydon B. Copeland, inspired by Chaplain R. W. Shrum, decided that the ministry was his true calling. Upon resigning from the Navy in 1945, Copeland became associated with Holy Trinity Episcopal Church on Long Island, serving two years. He was ordained to the Episcopal priesthood March 16 at the Cathedral of the Incarnation, Garden City, Long Island.

The sermon at the ordination was preached by the Rev. Arlington A. McCallum, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, formerly at 917 23d st. nw., where Copeland was once an altar boy. He was graduated from Georgetown University in 1939 and served as a bank clerk before entering the Navy in April, 1941. He married the former Helen Marine Lewis in 1939. His father-in-law, the Rev. R. L. Lewis, was formerly curator and field representative of the Washington Cathedral.

Churches Plan Great Wave Of Building

Collegeville, Ind., March 27.—The greatest wave of church, school and institutional construction and remodeling in all history will take place in the United States during the next 10 years.

This statement was made yesterday by the Very Rev. Henry A. Lucks, president of the College of St. Joseph's of Indiana, sponsors of the National Catholic Building Convention and Exposition in Chicago June 30 to July 3.

Survey Conducted

A survey by the college of Catholic pastors, religious superiors and college officials indicates at least 309 organizations plan to build or remodel by 1951. Value of these proposed projects exceeds 100 million dollars, not including decorating, furnishings and equipment.

Previously the greatest wave of church construction occurred in the century between 1170 and 1270, Father Lucks declared. Eighty cathedrals and 500 cathedral-class churches were built in France at that time at a cost equivalent to about three billion dollars today.

"Catholic church construction has been at a standstill since the war," Father Lucks said. "The accumulated backlog in churches, schools, convents, rectories, recreation centers, hospitals, college buildings, homes and other types of construction is at an all-time high."

Equipment to Be Displayed

Leading authorities in the building, furnishing and equipment industries will be at the exposition to meet with some 5000 pastors, religious superiors, college officials and architects from all parts of the United States and Canada.

Manufacturers of building equipment will display products in the Stevens Hotel exposition hall.

A preliminary survey has indicated representatives of each of the 118 dioceses of the Catholic Church will attend the event.

Girl Chorus to Sing

The Girl Student Chorus from the University of Oslo, Norway, will sing at 8 a.m. tomorrow at Reformation Lutheran Church, 212 East Capitol st.

Pageant to Be Given

An Easter pageant, "The Open Tomb," will be given at 4 p. m. tomorrow at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Connecticut ave. and Everett st. nw.

Goes to Trustee Meet

Dr. Edward B. Willingham, pastor of National Baptist Memorial Church, will leave tomorrow night for Louisville, Ky., to attend a meeting of the board of trustees of Southern Baptist Theological Seminary.

Candlelight Vespers

A candlelight vesper service will be held at 7 p. m. tomorrow at Albright Memorial Evangelical Church, 4th and Rittenhouse sts. nw.

Easter Music Programs in Area Listed

Uplifting musical programs are scheduled to be heard at Easter services tomorrow in this area.

The Senior Choir of West Washington Baptist Church, 31st and N sts. nw., will present Maunder's cantata, "Olivet to Calvary," at 11 a. m.

Beethoven's "Mass in C," for choir, organ and orchestra, will be given at the solemn mass at 11 a. m. at St. Peter's Catholic Church, 2d and C sts. ne.

The a cappella choir of Washington Missionary College, Takoma Park, will give a sacred concert at 8 p. m. at Foundry Methodist Church, 16th and P sts. nw. The conductor will be Dr. Oliver S. Beltz, formerly head of Northwestern University's department of church music.

Excerpts from Handel's "Messiah" will be heard at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m. at St. Paul's Methodist Church, 13th and Crittenden sts. nw.

Nation's Capital Pauses for Good Friday Rites

Thousands of Washingtonians paused yesterday in their daily toil to observe Good Friday.

At noon, men and women poured from office buildings, stores and other places into the hush of near-by churches, where Christ's Three Hours on the Cross was commemorated.

Jesus' Seven Last Words on the Cross was the predominating theme of the rites, including the seventeenth annual "Everybody's Good Friday Service" in Franklin Park, 14th and K sts. nw., sponsored by the Washington Catholic Evidence Guild.

Choir Sings in Park

The Evidence Guild service was conducted by the Paulist Fathers of Catholic University, with the Paulist Choir singing. The Revs. Norman O'Connor, Joseph Hayes and Harold Powers, priests, and Charles Albright, a student, preached.

The Rev. George M. Anderson, addressing a city-wide Disciples of Christ service at National City Christian Church, Thomas Circle, blamed lack of understanding for today's difficulties.

He drew a parallel between the failure of people to understand Jesus in his day and the misunderstandings between capital and labor, and between nations. Dr. Anderson is pastor of Park View Christian Church, Eastern ave.

Services at Pentagon

Maj. Gen. Luther D. Miller, Army Chief of Chaplains, led a Protestant Good Friday service at noon in the Pentagon Concourse. Catholic rites were also held in the building during the noon hour.

There were community Good Friday observances at the St. Luke Lutheran Church, Silver Spring; Eldbrooke Methodist Church, 4100 River rd. nw.; Francis Asbury Methodist Church, 3146 16th st. nw., and in other places. The Washington Federation of Churches sponsored a service at the National Presbyterian Church, 18th and N sts. nw.

The committee for the three-hour observance, comprising Catholic and Protestant clergymen and laymen, led the city-wide movement for Good Friday in urging employers to allow workers time off to attend services.

More than 3000 service personnel and civilians attended Good Friday rites at the Navy Annex, Columbia Pike and Arlington Ridge rd., Arlington. Admiral William N. Thomas, Navy chief of chaplains, conducted the Protestant service, and Chaplain Daniel F. Meehan, the Catholic rites. The program was carried over a public address system.

"EVERYBODY'S GOOD FRIDAY SERVICE," conducted yesterday in Franklin Park, 14th and K sts. nw., was sponsored by the Washington Catholic Evidence Guild. Paulist Fathers officiated. John Bowen (left), of the National Council of Catholic Men, holds aloft a "Station of the Cross," as Father Norman O'Connor speaks

Identical Rites At First Church

Two identical Easter services will be held at First Congregational Church, 10th and G sts. nw.—one at 9:15 and the other at 11 a. m. The Rev. Carl Heath Kopf will preach at both services on 'Live Forever."

Whitford L. Hall, minister of music, will direct the three choirs in the special Easter music, which will include four anthems, "An Easter Antiphon," by W. A. Goldsworthy; "Alleluia," by M. Flora Todd; "Hosanna," by Christian Gregor, and "Christ, Our Passover," by Will C. MacFarlane. William Truesdale Cameron, harpist; Ronald Arnett, organist; Jack Behrens on the tympani and trumpeters, Charles Barnes, Gilbert Mitchell and Joseph Humphries, will add to the musical setting for the service.

"King of Kings" will be shown at 2 p. m., 5 p. m. and 8 p. m. Easter at First Church.

Gen. Arnold Seeks Strong Forces to Halt Communists

Sonoma, Calif., March 26 (AP).—Gen. H. H. (Hap) Arnold today called for a union of democracies strongly backed by air, sea and land power to stop communism's world advance.

"Some nations respect only force and power. Russia is just such a nation," Arnold wrote in The Sonoma Index-Tribune. He is retired to a ranch here.

Arnold began his column with: "Personally I do not believe war is just around the corner, nor do I believe Russia wants war; nor do I believe Russia is ready for war.

"I do believe that Russia will go just as far as she can—short of war."

Moscow, March 26 (U.P.).—The government announced today that compulsory military training for girls in colleges and universities would end, with some exceptions, April 1.

Training similar to that in the American Reserve Officers Training Corps will continue in medical, dental, pharmaceutical, communication and railroad institutes.

Green Rain Drenches Section of Dayton

Dayton, Ohio, March 26 (AP).—Green rain fell here today.

During a spring shower residents of the eastern part of the city were drenched with it. It discolored umbrellas, clothing and left a greenish tint on white-painted homes.

Local scientists could not explain it. Some thought it mightbe chlorophyll, the green coloring matter of plants. Another observed it might be green pollen. Other believed it might be green algae, which someway had found their way into a rain cloud.

DANIEL 5th CHAPTER, 25th & 26th VERSES

This is the interpretation of the thing: ME-NE; God has numbered thy kingdom, and finished it. TE-KEL; Thou art weighed in the balance, and found wanting.—Daniel 5th chapter, 25th and 26th verses.

The U. N. O. is finished. It was established to bring Peace on earth to the suffering and war torn nations of the world, but it has failed. The cause of its failure is that its signators failed to give honor to the Prince of Peace in their attempt to be established. The name of Jesus was not even mentioned, nor was prayer offered to the Prince of Peace for help to guide them in these times of confusion or trouble which is appointed unto all men.

The Word of God tells us in Job 14th chapter, first and second verses, quote: "MAN THAT IS BORN OF A WOMAN IS OF FEW DAYS, AND FULL OF TROUBLE." (Unquote) Man is commanded, if help is desired from God, to remember God's Blessings in the past and to thank Him for them in a prayer of thanksgiving. And when he needs Him again, call Him and He will deliver him . . . Psalms 50th Division, 14th and 15th verses, quote: "OFFER UNTO GOD THANKSGIVING; AND PAY THY VOWS UNTO THE MOST HIGH: AND CALL UPON ME IN THE DAY OF TROUBLE: I WILL DELIVER THEE, AND THOU SHALT GLORIFY ME." (Unquote)

The belief of the Christian nations of the world is, that God gave Jesus to man as a Pattern of Peace, and that kings and rulers be guided by His teaching to defend the helpless and to help the poor by administering Righteous Judgment in favor of the weakest of their subjects. This is the Passage of Scripture that should have been read at the opening session of the U. N. O., 2nd Division of Psalms, quote:

"Why do the heathen rage, and the people imagine a vain thing?

The kings of the earth set themselves, and the rulers take counsel together, against the Lord, and against His anointed, saying,

Let us break their bands asunder, and cast away their cords from us.

He that sitteth in the heavens shall laugh: the Lord shall have them in derision.

Then shall He speak unto them in his wrath, and vex them in His sore displeasure.

Yet have I set my king upon my holy hill of Zion.

I will declare the decree: the Lord hath said unto me, thou art my Son; this day have I begotten thee.

Ask of me, and I shall give thee the heathen for thine inheritance, and the uttermost parts of the earth for thy possession.

Thou shalt break them with a rod of iron; thou shalt dash them in pieces like a potter's vessel.

Be wise now therefore, O ye kings: be instructed, ye judges of the earth.

Serve the Lord with fear, and rejoice with trembling.

Kiss the Son, lest He be angry, and ye perish from the way, when His wrath is kindled but a little.

Blessed are all they that put their trust in Him." (Unquote)

And then followed by a prayer of thanksgiving to God for giving us the victory over Hitler the beast whose name was to be known by a number, and the number is 666 . . . Revelations 13th chapter, 18th verse, quote: "THERE IS WISDOM. LET HIM THAT HATH UNDERSTANDING COUNT THE NUMBER OF THE BEAST: FOR IT IS THE NUMBER OF A MAN; AND HIS NUMBER IS SIX HUNDRED THREE SCORE AND SIX."—(Unquote)

The Chart printed here shows you how to find the name of the Beast; the name is known by the number 6 6 6. A beast in the Scripture is a vicious ruler.

This Prophecy Shows the Wisdom and Fore-Knowledge of God

Quotation: Revelation 13 Chapter: 16-18

And he causeth all, both small and great, rich and poor, free and bond, to receive a mark in their right hand, or in their right hand, or in their foreheads: And that no man might buy or sell, save he that had the mark or the name of the beast or the number of his name.

There is wisdom. Let him that hath understanding count the number of the beast: For it is the number of man: And his number is six hundred three score and six.

HOW TO FIND NAME AND NUMBER OF THE BEAST RULER

To find name and number of Beast Ruler who caused all things to be Rationed; select the name of any present Ruler of any Country, and write that name down, setting each letter in a vertical line. Place opposite each letter of this name the corresponding number appearing in the chart above. For example: Wherever "E" appears in the name of the Ruler you have selected, you would place "104" beside it. Wherever "S" is used, you would place "118" beside it; and so on. When you have placed a number beside each letter in the name, if all the numbers you use beside the letters of this name added together total 666, you have the number and the name of the man who has compelled all men to have a mark in order to buy and sell according to Revelation 13:16-18.

Because all things are rationed, you must receive a mark or number in your hand to know when you have been given your portion of things rationed.

ELDER L. MICHAUX.

The decision of the U. N. O. to partition Palestine ended its usefulness. For any nation or nations that attempts to give any part of the Home Land of Isreal to any other nation or either covet it for themselves, goes against the Covenant of God made with Abraham who was not a Jew but a Friend of God, and the Grandfather of Jacob whose name was changed from Jacob to Israel, who is the father of the 12 sons by which the 12 Tribes of Israel were named.

James 2d chapter, 23d verse, "AND THE SCRIPTURE WAS FULFILLED WHICH SAITH, ABRAHAM BELIEVED GOD, AND IT WAS IMPUTED UNTO HIM FOR RIGHTEOUSNESS; AND HE WAS CALLED THE FRIEND OF GOD . . ."

The prayer of Jehoshaphat found in II Chronicles 20th chapter, 5th verse to 7th verse, quote, "AND JEHOSHAPHAT STOOD IN THE CONGREGATION OF JUDAH AND JERUSALEM, IN THE HOUSE OF THE LORD, BEFORE THE NEW COURT,

"AND SAID, O LORD GOD OF OUR FATHERS, ART NOT GOD IN HEAVEN? AND RULEST NOT THOU OVER ALL THE KINGDOMS OF THE HEATHEN? AND IN THINE HAND IS THERE NOT POWER AND MIGHT, SO THAT NONE IS ABLE TO WITHSTAND THEE?

"ART NOT THOU OUR GOD, WHO DIDST DRIVE OUT THE INHABITANTS OF THIS LAND BEBORE THY PEOPLE ISRAEL, AND GAVEST IT TO THE SEED OF ABRAHAM THY FRIEND FOREVER?"

God gave the Trusteeship of Palestine to Great Britain to establish the Jews back into their homeland after World War I; Great Britain made this promise: "His Majesty's Government views with favor the establishment in Palestine of a national home for the Jewish people, and will use their best endeavors to facilitate the achievement of that object. It being clearly understood that nothing shall be done which may prejudice the civil and religious rights of existing non-Jewish communities in Palestine, or the rights and political status enjoyed by Jews in any other country."

Read the words of Nehemiah, the inspired servant of God sent to rebuild the Wall of Jerusalem in the days of King Artaxerxes II, found in the Book of Nehemiah 2d chapter, 17th to 20th verse:

"THEN SAID I UNTO THEM, YE SEE THE DISTRESS THAT WE ARE IN, HOW JERUSALEM LIETH WASTE, AND THE GATES THEREOF ARE BURNED WITH FIRE; COME, AND LET US BUILD UP THE WALL OF JERUSALEM, THAT WE BE NO MORE A REPROACH.

"THEN I TOLD THEM OF THE HAND OF MY GOD WHICH WAS GOOD UPON ME; AS ALSO THE KING'S WORDS THAT HE HAD SPOKEN UNTO ME. AND THEY SAID, LET US RISE UP AND BUILD. SO THEY STRENGTHENED THEIR HANDS FOR THIS GOOD WORK.

"BUT WHEN SANBALAT THE HORONITE, ANR TOBIAH THE SERVANT, THE AMMONITE, AND GESHEM THE ARABIAN, HEARD IT, THEY LAUGHED US TO SCORN, AND DESPISED US, AND SAID, WHAT IS THIS THING THAT YE DO? WILL YE REBEL AGAINST THE KING?

"THEN ANSWERED I THEM, AND SAID UNTO THEM,

THE GOD OF HEAVEN, HE WILL PROSPER US; THEREFORE WE HIS SERVANTS WILL ARISE AND BUILD; BUT YE HAVE NO PORTION, NOR RIGHT, NOR MEMORIAL, IN JERUSALEM."

Last of all, God has placed a burden on America to establish Palestine a homeland for the Jew. He has moved upon President Truman and Chief of Staff Marshall causing them to cast aside all political favor and affiliation to save America from the fate of Great Britain and the U. N. O. The actions of President Truman is sufficient evidence to any political-minded man that he is no longer under the influence of any political group. His stand for civil rights, and his change from the decision to partition Palestine, are both Divinely inspired of God to save America from a fall, before a nation lead by an athiest will fall.

Palestine is the powder keg that will blow up the world if not handled right. Stalin agreed to the partitioning of Palestine. Anything that he agrees to is wrong. There can be no agreement in national or spiritual affairs with an infidel and a christian country.

The only hope for America is the Truman Dostrine and the Marshall Plan. God placed Truman in the White House. Let us pray that God guide him; for only God can deliver us from this horrible nightmare.

LIGHTFOOT SOLOMON MICHAUX.

AMERICA SHOULD TAKE THE STAND FOR ISRAEL THAT KING DARIUS TOOK IN THE YEAR B. C. 536. READ THE 6th CHAPTER OF EZRA.

When you say "COME BACK AGAIN" It costs your carrier time and money

YOUR Washington Post carrier has to pay for the papers he's delivered whether he collects from you or not. So when you ask him to "come back later" because you're not prepared for his visit, it's money out of his pocket to meet his bill and time out of his day to call on you again.

If you work for a salary you expect to be paid the first time you see the paymaster on payday. If you run a business you expect your customers to send in their checks for your services promptly. You have expenses of your own and it takes money to meet them. Just so, your carrier depends on payment from you to take care of his expenses.

When you fail him on collection night it may mean a sacrifice of money he needs for immediate personal, home or school purposes. If you ask him to return later he's wasted the time that it took to visit you—and a carrier's life is a busy one. He has a seven-day-a-week early morning job in addition to going to school, doing his homework and joining in outside activities.

Be fair with your carrier. Pay him on time. And if you're moving, notify him in advance. Papers delivered after you've moved do you no good, and your carrier has to pay for them. If you don't see the boy, call NA. 4200 and tell Circulation.

Your carrier will thank you for your cooperation by giving you the best of service.

Private Firm Can't Lease Bay, Lane Says

Annapolis, Md., March 26 (AP).—A delegation of hundreds of Eastern Shore watermen won from Governor Lane today the promise that "leasing of the Chesapeake Bay to any large private interest during my administration is not going to happen."

He made the pledge to a throng of oystermen, who had come to demand leasing be discarded as a plan to rehabilitate the Chesapeake Bay oyster industry.

The group also demanded a reorganization of the Tidewater Fisheries Commission, voiced "no confidence" in John E. Clark, commission chairman, asked George R. Harrison be retained as a commission member, and requested continued employment of Capt. Amos S. Creighton as head of the Tidewater fleet.

As a result Governor Lane appointed Mayor Nelson R. Coulbourn of Crisfield as chairman of an unofficial group to present a plan for the future of the industry.

The governor said that while there were conflicting interests, he wanted a plan brought forward which represented the "common pattern of one purpose." He said he would like to give his support to such a program.

Eugene Branch Named On Shenandoah Group

Winchester, Va., March 26 (Spl.).—Eugene Branch of this city has been named a member of a special committee to administer a $5000 advertising fund appropriated by Shenandoah Valley, Inc. for billboards to publicize the Shenandoah Valley. For campaign purposes the Valley Pike will be designated "The Scenic Short Route to the South."

City Manager Gets Post

Portsmouth, Va., March 26 (AP).—Guy Ancell, city manager of Staunton, today accepted an offer to become city manager of Portsmouth, effective May 1, Mayor Leslie T. Fox announced.

The salary will be fixed by city council at a meeting in April, he said.

3800 Railroad Men Idle

Richmond, Va., March 26 (AP).—Upwards of 3800 Virginia employes of the Chesapeake and Ohio, Norfolk and Western and Virginian railroads have been laid off as a result of the soft coal walkout, the United States Railroad Retirement Board reported here today.

Calvert Lions Back Armory

Leonardtown, Md., March 26 (Spl.).—The Lion Clubs of Calvert County today voted unanimous approval of the proposed county armory.

State Senator Louis L. Goldstein informed the Lions' president, David A. Harkness, that $140,000 already had been appropriated fo rthe armory.

Race Segregation In Dormitory Hit By College Board

New York, March 26 (AP).—A student dormitory of the College of the City of New York was under new management today after a faculty board charged its director had "pursued policies of racial segregation."

The director, William C. Davis, an assistant to the president of the college, resigned from his post.

The report said that Davis' practice of "generally assigning Negroes to rooms with other Negroes" was "very unsound" and "contrary to all of the traditions of City College."

It quoted Davis as saying he had practiced putting Negroes in separate quarters because they "apparently prefer their own company."

Maryland Man Held In Slaying of Stepfather

Oakland, Md., March 26 (AP).—Golden Kirk, 23, of nearby Deer Park, is being held in the Garrett County jail here on a murder charge as the result of the shooting of his stepfather, Walter Messenger, 35, of Borgman, W. Va., at Deer Park last night.

Sheriff U. S. Teats said Messenger died instantly from three blasts from a .12 gauge shotgun.

Teats stated Mesesnger and his wife, Mrs. Mildred Messenger, separated about a year ago and that Mrs. Messenger and a daughter, Ruth, 13, had moved to Deer Park six months ago to live with her son.

About 8 p. m., Sheriff Teats said, Messenger appeared at the Kirk residence with "some gin and whisky." An argument ensued, resulting in the slaying.

Hardware Men Elect

Roanoke, Va., March 26 (AP).—Earl J. Clowser of Winchester has been elected president of the Virginia Retail Hardware Association.

Other officers named at the association convention here include C. W. Hayter, Pulaski, vice president; George T. Omohundro, jr., Scottsville, secretary treasurer, and A. L. Fuller, Danville, J. B. Carpenter, Culpeper, and E. E. Wine, Harrisonburg, directors.

5 Recommended For Ministry

Charlottesville, Va., March 26.—The Rev. Bernard S. Via, superintendent of the Charlottesville District, Methodist Church, announced today that five young men in the district have been recommended by pastors for preaching licenses.

They are:

Sidney Sandridge, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. K. Sandridge of Crozet; George G. Henley, son of the Rev. and Mrs. E. E. Henley of Flint Hill; Theodore Jackson Kitchen, a member of the Oak Grove Church, and Bernard S. Via, jr., and Ashby Warren Walton, both of Charlottesville.

Men Drivers Have More Accidents

Richmond, Va., March 26 (AP).—Men have more accidents than women, but there are more men drivers and they probably drive more miles than women. Which is safer? That's debatable, as what isn't between man and woman.

A report released today by Capt. W. L. Groth, safety engineer of the State Police Department, shows that approximately 11 times as many men as women were involved in accidents during 1947.

While these figures are significant, Captain Groth said, they do not mean that women are safer drivers. That will always be open to debate, because there has yet been no research into the number of miles driven by each sex. He said, however, that State police are sure that men drive more than women.

Captain Groth pointed out that Saturday was the most dangerous day for the motorist during 1947, with 6788 accidents that day.

A total of 2545 accidents were recorded during the hour from 5 to 6 p. m.—the most dangerous hour last year—while from a fatality standpoint, 7 to 8 p. m. was the worst hour, with 53 deaths.

Safety Group Named

Front Royal, Va., March 26 (Spl.).—William B. Carter has been elected chairman of a steering committee, preliminary to the organization of a Warren County Safety Council, to serve until July 1 when the local unit of Gov. William M. Tuck's highway safety committee will be formed.

Other members of the steering committee are: Charles A. Menefee, W. LeRoy Corron, George S. Lux, Frank A. Stoutamyer, E. Wilson Morrison, E. Maurice Bowen, James L. Hunt and Howard A. Duncan.

Executive's Wife Burned to Death In Pikesville Home

Pikesville, Md., March 26 (AP).—Mrs. Edwin R. Mowbray, member of a prominent Baltimore County family and wife of a Baltimore business executive, burned to death late last night when fire swept the Mowbray home northwest of Baltimore.

Her husband, head of an air conditioning firm, escaped by jumping from the roof of a porch.

Mowbray told firemen he had gone to bed and left his wife reading in the living room. He was awakened later by smoke, which drove him back from the head of a stairway.

Jumping from the porch, he circled to the front of the house but again was driven back by smoke and flame. He shouted for his wife but got no answer.

Mowbray ran some distance to a neighbor's house and turned in an alarm, but the blaze kept firemen at a distance for almost an hour. They found Mrs. Mowbray burned to death in a hallway.

Mowbray was hysterical and placed under medical care. He had returned but two days ago from the funeral of his father, the Rev. E. P. Mowbray of St. Petersburg, Fla. Mrs. Mowbray, who was about 45, also is survived by a son living at Pines-on-Severn.

Holifield Won't Run As Wallace Backer

Representative Holifield (D., Calif.) said yesterday he has refused to file for reelection on the Independent Progressive Party ticket of Henry Wallace.

He has asked for nomination in both the Democratic and Republican primaries.

Calvert Easter Dance

Leonardtown, Md., March 26 (Spl.).—For the benefit of "The Lady Star of the Sea Roman Catholic Church," on April 2 from 9 p. m. to 1 a. m., an Easter dance will be held at the Calvert County Fair Building.

Coronation of the ball's two queens, Misses Mary and Theresa Robonia, will highlight the affair.

Homemakers Parley

Winchester, Va., March 26 (Spl.).—More than 300 Future Homemakers of America from clubs in Frederick, Warren, Clarke and Rappahannock counties, are expected to attend the district convention at Sarah Zane Hall here April 2. Leslie D. Kline, county superintendent of schools, will welcome the delegates. Mrs. Helen Hopper, State FHA adviser, will be a speaker.

THE DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

This "Raleigh Riddle" Was Much Easier to Answer

Very little escapes District Liners. The telephone company's eagle-eyed Jim Wilfong, jr., writes:

"I am inclosing two match folders given out by the Raleigh Hotel. The large one says '400 beautiful rooms' and the small one says '450 beautiful rooms.' Which is correct?"

Both—and neither, according to Assistant Manager B. W. Mathes.

The Raleigh used to have 450 rooms for transients, and when the small match covers were printed, that figure was used.

Subsequently, however, dozens of rooms have been converted to other purposes. Some are being used as office space, some have become public parlors, and some are reserved for fashion shows and such.

So the Raleigh currently has 407 rooms for transients, and uses the round number 400 in its advertising.

Assistant Manager Mathes says: "Tell Jim Wilfong that was a good catch. We hadn't noticed that some of our older match books bear the wrong information."

LIFE IS LIKE THAT DEPT.

Hank Hawkins, the Raleigh Haberdasher good-will ambassador, was in a long line at the Ben Franklin Postoffice. Prospects of being waited on promptly seemed dim.

Suddenly another window opened up, whereupon some of the more alert customers deserted the old line to queue up in the new one. Hank was among them.

The woman who had been in front of him in the old line was a little late in catching on. The new line had already formed when she made her move—and boldly placed herself back in front of Hank. His raised-eyebrow glance was answered with a petulant:

"Well, I was ahead of you, wasn't I?"

Hank sighed and allowed as how she was. After all, courtesy campaign or no courtesy campaign, nobody ever won an argument like this from a woman.

FAN LETTER

All week long I wait in vain for somebody to write in and say he listened to my radio program. At long last, I have to settle for this:

You were the apple of my eye,
The salt on my tomater;
But now, upon the radio
You're just my common-tater.
G. A. Fisher.

MISCELLANY

Mrs. Everett T. Steed of 327 E. 24th st., Baltimore, Md., says the Internal Revenue office (in which she works) is really snowed under these days. If the work load gets to be too much for Internal Revenue, maybe they'll order us to stop paying taxes for a few years, until they get caught up . . . Rumors that Ed Pauley is going into the radio business help me to understand those purchases he made on the Chicago Board of Trade. I don't know what he'll do with his wheat, but the corn was obviously bought for the use of his disk jockeys . . . Incidentally, when Pauley applied for a television license recently, he stated that his annual income is "in excess of $400,000." That's not bad for a man who is just trying to protect his family . . . The Fisher family and all other local fishers ought to contact Raymond S. Ward of 120 C st. ne. Ray puts out a Chesapeake Bay Fishing Guide (50 cents) which tells you everything about fish except how to avoid the bones when you're eating them . . . Ray works for the Labor Department and never makes any money off his guide, but continues to put it out each year because he's been an ardent fisherman for 47 years, "so I guess you might say it's developing into a permanent hobby."

TREASURER'S REPORT

"I was trying to park my car near the National Gallery yesterday," writes Mrs. E. M. Bros of 5408 20th pl., Hyattsville, Md.

"You know how it is when you try to back in and hit it wrong on the first try. Nothing seems to go right after that.

"A passerby noticed my predicament and calmly said, 'My wife has the same trouble, lady. Permit me.'

"And with that he got behind the wheel and with one deft twist of the wrist parked my car. Then he disappeared so fast I couldn't even thank him.

"So please accept the enclosed contribution for Children's Hospital in the name of a 'Courteous Gentleman'."

Additional streetcar tokens for the hospital have been received from: Elizabeth Hannsz; Mrs. Leon M. Smith, 806 Houston ave., Takoma Park, Md.; Orchestra Leader Lee Maxfield; Mrs. W. C. Bryon, White Marsh Cove, Edgewater, Md. (cash, too).

The Simon Twins, Bill and David, 1771 Lanier pl. nw.; 6-year-old Jimmie Panther, 4209 4-Mile Run dr., Arlington, Va. (plus war stamps); Jack Glazier, 73-K Ridge rd., Greenbelt, Md. (also plus war stamps); Mrs. R. A. Chandler, 1835 K st. nw. (cash).

Helene G. Lash (more cash); Mrs. Edward Riggs Seal, 3363 18th st. nw.; Mrs. F. R. Burton, Box 16, Branchville, Md. (still more cash); and F. Mildred Higgins, 1507 Monroe st. ne.

New York.—New York's Democratic leaders who met here last weekend agreed to repudiate President Truman at the convention, Mayor O'Dwyer may be the spokesman in announcing this decision. The leaders decided that only by repudiating Truman on the national ticket can they hope to salvage their local offices . . . The Motion Picture Academy, which usually awards the Irving Thalberg Memorial Plaque at its annual dinner, decided to forgo this award last week, after a dispute between the two contenders, Dore Schary and Darryl Zanuck . . . Harold Talbott is raising a $250,000 preconvention fund for Tom Dewey.

The resignation of George Washington Hill, jr., from his $260,000 a year post with American Tobacco will bring on a proxy fight . . . One of the most important deals in the history of Television will be consummated shortly, now that the Petrillo pact has been signed. It involves bringing La Scala Opera Co. here, for $7500 a week, with American Tobacco as the sponsor . . . The William Morris agency landed the coveted representation of James Mason and Pamela Kellino. They'll soon have a radio program of their own.

Eugene O'Neill will be home from the hospital soon . . . The Academy Award movie, "Gentleman's Agreement," will open in 392 movie houses simultaneously . . . Laura Z. Hobson, who wrote "Gentleman's Agreement," dined with Darryl Zanuck who asked her, perfunctorily, whether she was planning to write another novel shortly. "I've already started it," replied Mrs. Hobson. "I'm more than half finished." Zanuck roared: "Half finished? How many pages have you written?" Mrs. Hobson told him: "The first eight pages. The plotting and the writing of the first eight pages are more than half the job."

TERRY AND THE PIRATES

WE'VE GOT ONE SLIM CHANCE—WE SLIP INTO THE SHALLOWS AND HIDE IN THE REEDS. IF THEY GET TOO CLOSE, WE SUBMERGE ENTIRELY—WITH ONE OF THESE HOLLOW LENGTHS OF BAMBOO IN OUR MOUTHS TO BREATHE THROUGH, IT MIGHT WORK...

STEVE ROPER

GEE, ELLA JANE! HAD YOU HEARD? THE EDITOR OF SPOTSHOT HIMSELF IS HERE TO DO A PICTURE STORY ON THE BRAWNSKI BABY!
I WISH HE'D POINT HIS PICTURE BOX MY WAY! EVERY GAL WHO GETS ON THE COVER OF SPOTSHOT HAS TO COMB MOVIE SCOUTS OUT OF HER CROWNING GLORY!
Not all members of the Hospital Staff, however, are so enthusiastic!
BUT, DOCTOR!... BESIDES OUR MILLIONS OF READERS WHO ARE CLAMORING TO SEE LITTLE BOY BRAWNSKI, THERE'S HIS DAD!... SONNY WILL BE IN THAT FRACTURE BED FOR WEEKS!... MAYBE MONTHS!
LET'S GET THIS POINT VERY STRAIGHT, MR. ROPER! A BRIGHT LIGHT OR LOUD NOISE, MIGHT HAVE GRAVE RESULTS! ... I'LL PERMIT NO PHOTOS AS LONG AS THE CHILD IS IN MY CARE!

U. S. May Equip European Armies

By Drew Pearson

Vitally important discussions regarding large-scale armament have been going on inside the Department of National Defense.

President Truman has now approved these plans, and for a time considered including them in his recent message to Congress. At the last minute, however, advisers urged that this part of the speech be cut. It was better, they suggested, not to get the country too aroused all at once.

The basic plan is for the revival of military lend-lease to Europe.

Here are the detailed plans under consideration:

1. Forty divisions of the French army would be armed with United States weapons and equipment. French Foreign Minister Bidault originally asked for enough material to arm 21 divisions, but after the Czech coup d'etat, he raised the figure to 40.

BIDAULT

2. The Italian Army would get thousands of surplus rifles, machine guns and ammunition, but no new equipment. Later 30 Italian divisions would be armed as fast as new equipment rolls off the assembly lines.

3. Norway would receive surplus naval craft, plus arms for the Norwegian army. This would bolster the Norwegians to withstand pressure from Moscow.

4. British RAF would be swiftly expanded with the help of new American planes. The RAF would be made the most powerful defense and striking force in Europe.

In addition, Truman plans to ask Congress for several billion to make the United States air force the most powerful striking force in the world. Emphasis will be placed on powerful jet planes and heavy bombers.

The Cabinet member who chiefly sold this program to Truman is Secretary of National Defense Forrestal, with support from Secretary of Commerce Harriman. Ever since he served as Ambassador to Russia, Harriman has been convinced that the only way to deal with the Russians is to get tough. When he first went to Moscow, Harriman tried the policy of friendly cooperation, but finally decided the Russians misunderstand this as a sign of weakness. He has told Truman that the only thing Stalin, Molotov et al really understand in the present psychological war of nerves is that America means business.

Harriman and Forrestal admit that Russian action will be to get tougher still and that there is undoubtedly a risk of war. But the alternative, they think, is "international anarchy."

After President Truman announced that he would run again, he gave this order to Democratic Party leaders: "Grab the offensive and keep it; you are too defeatist." . . . GOP Representative George Schwabe of Oklahoma, one of the House leaders in the drive to abolish the Labor Department's Bureau of Veterans' reemployment rights, didn't know that he was grooming political opposition for himself. Thirty-two-year-old war vet William Morris of Tulsa, a veterans' reemployment officer, is planning to enter the Democratic primary in Schwabe's district next July . . . Gen. "Wild Bill" Donovan, former head of the wartime super-sleuths, OSS, gnashes his teeth at the amateurish way the new Central Intelligence Agency goes about its business . . . Congressman Karl Mundt of South Dakota has dropped a bill in the congressional hopper requiring all Communist-front organizations to register with the Justice Department. His bill would deny passports to all members of Communist-front groups . . .

Democratic Chairman J. Howard McGrath hightailed it up to New York this week in a vain attempt to stem the angry outbreak of New York State Democrats against President Truman's renomination bid. Inside fact is that McGrath walked into a burning holocaust.

New York City's powerful Democratic organization has been virtually riddled by the Wallace forces, and when MacGrath walked into State Chairman Fitzpatrick's hotel room, you could have cut the gloom with a knife. However, he entreated the boys not to desert the ship. He also scolded Congressman Arthur Klein for having denounced the President's switch on Palestine.

"You're lucky," replied Klein, "that the papers didn't print everything I said about Truman.

"What else did you say?" asked McGrath.

At that point ex-Senator James Mead of New York walked into the room.

"When are you going to get that guy off the ticket?" he asked McGrath point blank. "We haven't a prayer of carrying this State with him on it."

Mead had just refused to accept a Truman appointment as Federal Power Commissioner.

McGrath and Democratic publicity expert Jack Redding tried to ease the pressure by pointing out that Truman's St. Patrick's Day speech had increased his prestige. But the conclave of Democrats only laughed.

Net result of the meeting was general agreement that nothing Truman can do will possibly save New York for the national ticket.

Note—Next week Congressman Klein will call on all Democrats to begin a drive for a new Democratic candidate.

Kristina's brunch

I used to have a morning meal . . . Of two poached eggs on toast . . . Because they were the special dish . . . That I enjoyed the most . . . And they are still delicious and . . . The favorite food with me . . . But now instead of merely two . . . I must depend on three . . . Because Kristina comes around . . . And she can hardly wait . . . To eat up half of everything . . . I put upon my plate . . . She seems to have it figured out . . . That it is fun to share . . . The eggs on toast that constitute . . . Her daddy's bill of fare . . . And so I poach the extra one . . . To please my 4-year-old . . . And give her little tummy all . . . The food that it can hold.
